Charles Cary, a True Man. Have You Seen Niagara? The Grateful Ducks. Drops, Molecules, Atoms.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 11.

THIS CITY mourns the loss of Dr. Charles Cary. Those that attended his funeral yesterday bade farewell to a man upright, courageous, sincere, altogether admirable in character.

His services to his profession, to the science of medicine, distinguished him among his contemporaries. His personal character and innate nobility of mind raised him far above the level of his day.

HIS DEATH, following so closely upon that of Miss Maria M. Love, his aunt, who recently died in her 92d year, after more than 70 years of ceaseless devotion to the public welfare, is a great loss to this city and state.

Many, past middle age, have looked upon Charles Cary's face for the last time, must wish that they might inherit part of the fine spirit and unbounded courage of mind and body that made him a hero among men, and a leader everywhere.

Of how many can you say, as you may of him, that there was not an act, a word or a thought in his life unworthy of a true man.

IN ROME, you go first to St. Peter's, and then to the Church of St. Peter in Chains, where Michelangelo's Moses sits in solemn marble, gazing into the future. You visit the Grand Canyon, crossing the continent, and the big trees when you reach California. Here, you hurry to Niagara.

YOU WONDER, as you roll through Main street past the solid blocks of stores and buildings, which particular lot once held the house in which you were born, when the late Albert Brisbane was building the first "arcade" building in America, on the site of the present Brisbane Block.

IT MAY ENCOURAGE Buffalo and other owners of real estate to know that Joseph Ellicott, an associate of Albert Brisbane's father, gave a deed for a piece of land in Buffalo to Albert Brisbane, on the latter's twelfth birthday in 1821, saying to the boy,

"Albert, you will live to see that piece of land worth $500."

The land now is worth much more than a million dollars, and bargains as good are to be had in many places today, although easily discouraged human beings refuse to believe that anything will ever be worth anything again.

BOUND FOR Niagara, you head toward Tonawanda, driven by William Packer, who has brought from Los Angeles all the fierce, determined salesmanship of that sunny city. He has met you early at the train, and would gladly drive you through to Timbuctoo, to convince you that:

"After you have seen this newest Chevrolet model, you might as well put your eyes out, for you have nothing left to see."

SIGNS ALONG the road, with arrows pointing, are marked "Niagara," as they might be marked "Hoboken," or "Farmingdale." Familiarity breeds contempt.

The river that flows over Niagara's rocky edge is more exciting than it used to be, says Mr. Packer. Bootleggers and hijackers that have been beaten to death are allowed to drift over the edge, boat and all. If they are found "it is an accident."

HARDWORKING "LEGITIMATE" bootleggers that row the liquor over the river from Canada, taking all the risk, are held up by hi-jackers, and the liquor taken from them, after all their toil.

Can you imagine what bitterness of spirit this breeds? It causes many "bumpings off."

AS YOU TRAVEL with the current, beside the edge of Niagara River, you notice that the water moves a little more swiftly, and see thousands of wild ducks swimming about, dark flocks of them. Nobody shoots them, although they are near enough to shore, because nobody would dare row out to pick them up. Niagara's fearful brink is too near.

Bunyan says that hens are grateful to their Creator, and prove it, raising their beaks and eyes to the sky, with every swallow of water. How grateful must these ducks be to the Creator of Niagara.

DO NOT LAY this sheet aside, fearing that one more description of "Niagara's grandeur" may be forced upon you. This time of depression is no time for such needless cruelty.

You have seen a child fall downstairs. Imagine a river, carrying all the Great Lakes, falling down a precipice, creating millions of horsepower, as it drops, and describe it in your mind, to suit yourself. No human mind can grasp or describe it, just as no half-pint can hold Lake Superior.

What pain, anguish, boiling pitch, freezing, lowest depth, would Dante have invented for him who built the hideous bright yellow brick skyscraper-tower-hotel that dwarfs and belittles the American Falls, as you look at them from Goat Island?

Nothing in the inferno would be bad enough for him and even sawing the body lengthwise, a punishment favored by the late Chinese Empress, would not deal adequately with the other, that built a tall, mean building and turned the dead rough wall, with its airshaft and tiny windows, toward the cataract.

Such a soul would paste up

KLINE, KERR BONDS TO BE SCANNED

Indictment of Schooley's Aides Leads to Council Action; Banker Quizzed

Investigation of Roy D. Schooley's administration as City Treasurer today brought these developments:

1—Council caused surprise by calling upon Mayor Kline and Controller J. P. Kerr to present their bonds for an inspection to determine whether either bond has been allowed to expire.

2—C. A. Bardolph, president of the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company, and Herman Friedman, who has had business dealings with Schooley, were subpenaed to appear before the grand jury investigating the Treasurer's office, December 28.

3—Arrest of the two employes of the Treasurer's office on embezzlement charges was expected to lead to prosecution of city officials high in Mayor Kline's administration.

Council's request to examine the Mayor's and Controller's bonds came at the suggestion of Councilman W. Y. English after the members, sitting in budget session, had asked Kerr to furnish them with information as to the amount of money handled by John M. McKibbin, chief clerk in the delinquent tax division, and Albert L. Brandner a cashier, the employes indicted yesterday.

KERR'S BOND VALID

Later it was learned that the premiums on both the Mayor's $25,000 bond and the Controller's $10,000 bond are paid up.

Council asked also the amount of the bonds posted by McKibbin and Brandner, and suggested to Kerr that bonds of all employes in the Treasurer's office be increased.

Friedman and Bardolph, who were associated in the Modern Service Company, which failed to win the city garbage contract, are expected to reveal to the grand jury details concerning the $10,000 note Schooley gave the bank

TROOPS, ARMY PLANE WIN IN CHASE AFTER LEAVENWORTH RIOT

BULLETIN.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Dec. 11.—(INS.)—The warden's office at the federal prison announced today that the six escaped prisoners were captured in a cornfield 15 miles southwest of here.

The announcement stated that an Army airplane that followed the progress of the manhunt flew over the prison and dropped a note into the yards that the convicts had been captured.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Six convicts made a spectacular escape from Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary today, kidnaped Warden Thomas B. White and shot off one of his arms when he tried to escape, 12 miles from here today.

The desepradoes were cornered shortly after noon in a farm house near the spot where the warden was freed.

A posse of soldiers, police and private citizens, armed with machine guns, prepared to attack the building. They hoped to take the fugitives alive.

The escaped prisoners, all life-termers and branded desperadoes, fled with the warden in an automobile commandeered from two oFrt Leavenworth soldiers they encountered outside the gate, after seizing White in his office and taking him with them for protection under threat of exploding nitroglycerine with which they were armed.

A riot which flared as the men fled was reported to have been subdued, but a short time later other rioters within the prison walls were said to be holding three guards as hostages in a new outbreak. Soldiers, armed with machine guns, were patrolling the top of the prison walls.

White lost his arm when he rebelled against his abductors in front of the farm home. One of the convicts discharged a full shotgun load into him.

The warden was rushed to the Cushing Hospital here and his left arm was amputated.

The convicts had halted in front of the farmhouse. Three youths came along in an automobile. The desperadoes stopped the car and tried to confiscate it. White struggled with his kidnapers.

After the warden was shot he was abandoned, and the convicts forced their way into the farmhouse and barricaded the door. They apparentlty severed the telephone wire to the place.

REPORT GUARDS WOUNDED

The farm belongs to a family named Gates. It was impossible to determine whether anyone was on the premises when the convicts arrived with White.

It later was reported that two guards had been abducted with Warden White and that they also had been wounded by the convicts.

Later it was reported the men had split into two groups and fled

TOKIO CABINET RESIGNS

TOKIO, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Laying the groundwork for an increasingly aggressive Japanese policy in Manchuria, the cabinet of Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki resigned tonight to make way for a ministry endowed with a strong head to deal with foreign and domestic problems.

Tsuyoshi Inukai, father-in-law of Kenkichi Yoshisawa, Japanese delegate to the League of Nations, was named as most likely candidate for the post of premier, due to his position as leader of the opposition.

Jotaro Yamamoto, former president of the South Manchuria Railway, outstanding champion of Japanese interests in Manchuria, was slated for the ministry of foreign affairs. Baron Shidehara, whose policy of moderation in the Manchurian crisis was one of the factors leading to the cabinet's resignation, will have no place in the new ministry.

The Wakatsuki cabinet resigned to circumvent demands for a coalition, in fear of re-establishment of the gold embargo and deflation of the yen.

The Wakatsuki government resigned within a few hours of the adoption by the League of Nations Council in Paris of a resolution providing for a cessation of hostilities in Manchuria, and the appointment of a neutral commission of inquiry to investigate the cause of the trouble there.

NICHOLAS' WIFE TRIES SUICIDE

VIENNA, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—An attempt at suicide by Mme. Jana Lucia Deletj, pretty dark-haired bride of Prince Nicholas, of Rumania, has climaxed the bitter quarrel between King Carol and his brother over the latter's morganatic marriage, according to reports from Bucharest today.

Despite denials issued in Bucharest messages reaching Vienna said Mme. Deletj was in a critical condition after swallowing a probable fatal dose of poison.

Mme. Deletj left farewell letters, reports here said, including one for her young husband, in which she said that in death she sought his "eternal love."

Nicholas had planned to leave Rumania within a few days with his wife, taking up his residence in Switzerland and Holland as a private citizen, and it was thought, in the event that his wife dies, he would still carry out his plan to resign from the Rumanian royal family.

Walker Returns, Gets Big Ovation

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Mayor James J. Walker returned today from California to his own home town, and a welcome very like many over which he has presided for distinguished visitors.

In the great rotunda of Grand Central Station thousands of New Yorkers stood and cheered, inspired by the fact Mayor Walker had gone to California to plead for Tom Mooney at the request of Mooney's mother.

Warm Weather, Rain To Continue Tonight

Intermittent showers today boosted the rainfall of the present wet spell to 86-100 of an inch. Rain and mild temperatures will continue tonight. Forecaster W. S. Brotzman predicted, giving way to cloudy and cooler weather tomorrow, with likelihood of a clear, snappy Sunday. The low mark overnight was 42 degrees.

Europe Must Disarm Or Pay, Says Watson

Senator Declares U.S. Won't Scale Debts To Aid New War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Reduction in European armament was demanded today by Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, in return for the revision of war debts suggested by President Hoover. He declared:

"Our people will never be satisfied to scale down the war debts, much less to forgive them, unless Europe shows some disposition to reduce her armaments.

"It is unthinkable that the American people should shoulder Europe's debts in order to enable those nations to build navies and equip armies for future warfare, literally using our money for that purpose."

Senator Watson's stand, coupled with the opposition of Chairman Borah, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is expected to check early action on the President's proposal for revival of the War Debts Commission.

It is the obvious intention of the congressional leaders to hold up this move, pending action in Europe at the February disarmament conference.

Meanwhile, it became clear the administration is not disturbed by the fact that Congress will not have ratified the Hoover moratorium by Tuesday, the 15th. That is when the next payments fall due.

Mix Nearly Ready To Leave Hospital

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Tom Mix, cowboy film star, probably will be able to leave the hospital by the end of the week, his physicians said today.

Mix underwent an emergency operation for a ruptured appendix and peritonitis set in. For several days physicians virtually abandoned hope for his recovery.

Wife of Vanished Japanese Sails

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Mrs. V. Fujimura, wife of a wealthy Japanese importer of New York, who disappeared recently from a "weekend" ship out of New York, sailed from here yesterday on the Tatsuta Maru for Japan. Her four children were with her.

Mrs. Fujimura declined to discuss her husband's disappearance from the Belgenland during a holiday cruise. She also refused to be photographed.

KANE IN TEARS DENIES GUILT

By DOROTHY DUCAS

International News Service.

HAMPTON, Va., Dec. 11.—Prof. Elisha Kent Kane III, with tears in his eyes, took the witness stand today at his trial for the murder of his wife and testified that he loved her and made heroic efforts to save her from drowning.

The professor had just finished his story when an attorney asked if he had ever cursed his wife, as relatives of his wife had charged. Kane leaped from the stand, rushed to the judge's bench and shouted denial of testimony of his "in-laws."

His face flushed, he was led back to the stand where he said his brother-in-law had "hated him" because of long standing difficulties between them.

RELATES HISTORY

Every spectator in the courtroom leaned forward expectantly as he began the story of his life in a deep, cultured voice.

He told of his birth in Kane, Pa., his early education, his army service, his marriage with Jenny Graham in 1919 "shortly after

Ralph Capone Enters West Coast Prison

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Ralph Capone, older brother of Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, entered the McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary, 15 miles from Tacoma, yesterday. He was transferred from the Leavenworth (Kan.) prison, and is under sentence for three years for federal income tax evasion.

Marconi Hints Discovery Of Invisible 'Death Ray'

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—The possibility that Senator Guglielmo Marconi, world-famed inventor of wireless, may have stumbled across the long-sought "death ray" in his radio experiments, developed here today as preparations went forward for the celebration of the thirtieth anniversary of the first trans-Atlantic wireless tomorrow.

Discussing his new "ultra-short wave" radio, Marconi revealed that the rays of the new device have killed mice and birds which strayed into their path, but so far merely bring welcome warmth to the human body. He said:

"The actual ray feels hot, although you cannot see anything. When we deal with waves like these it almost ceases to be radio and begins in effect to be invisible light."

Senator Marconi indicated that before his experiments are completed he may look into the possibility of developing a death ray. The Evening News declared in an editorial:

"There is something faintly disturbing in the Senator's casual revelations. The potentialities are incalculable."

The newspaper envisaged the possibility of the ray being used to warm up England's treacherous winter climate or to enable life at the North Pole.

Mary Nolan Again Faces Jail for Bills

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Thirteen warrants charging Mary Nolan, film actress, with failure to pay wages amounting to $500 were issued by the city prosecutor today after 13 men and women, former models and tailors employed in the actress' dress shop, demanded her arrest.

Al Smith's Son Denies Marrying Stenographer

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Walter Smith, youngest son of former Gov. Alfred Smith, denied here today he had secretly married Miss Florence Watson, of Schenectady, pretty 22-year-old stenographer in the State Education Department. He explained:

"We're good friends, but we are not married."

Reports that Walter and Florence had eloped became prevalent when he failed to return to his studies at Manhattan College after coming here for a week-end visit with his sister, Mrs. John A. Warner.

Young Smith, who will be graduated from Manhattan College next June, drove to Albany last Saturday in a new roadster recently presented to him by the former Governor on his twenty-second birthday. It developed today that Walter had been a guest at the Watson home in Schenectady over the week-end.

DRY MODIFICATION PLEAS APPLAUDED IN HOUSE DEBATE

LEGALIZED BEER DRIVE STARTS IN CONGRESS

Volstead Act Change Would Add Millions to Treasury, Prohibition Foes Declare

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Appeals for modification of the Volstead act drew applause in the House today as the first prohibition debate of the session got under way.

In the Senate anti drys have initiated an attack upon the alleged criminalities of enforcement and the arbitrary restrictions in the Volstead act.

The drive in the House for legalization of beer started with bipartisan pleas by Representative William E. Hull (Rep.) and Representative Adolph Sabath (Dem.), both o Illinois.

ANTI-DRY CLAIMS

Declaring that Congress can consistently modify the Volstead act despite the Eighteenth Amendment they maintained that manufacture of beer would provide hundreds of millions for the treasury, aid the farmers and end rebellion against prohibition.

Representative Sabath urged both modification of the Volstead act and repeal or amendment of the Eighteenth amendment. He characterized the Volstead act as "crime-breeding" and expressed doubt that President oHover would sign any measure modifying it, he added.

"But an election will take place next year and the American people will speak."

PRESENTS FOUR BILLS

Taking command of the Senate movement Senator Hawes (Dem.) of Missouri has introduced four bills which would effect far-reaching reforms. Three of them strike at restrictive provisions of the Volstead Act. The fourth would require all prohibition agents to give bond against illegalities that they may commit.

The first of the Volstead law amendments proposed by Senator Hawes would completely remove all limitations surrounding the prescription of liquor for medicinal purposes by licensed physicians.

The others would remove the definition of what constitutes intoxicating liquor as such definitions are "ridiculous and completely out of line with the facts."

In addition one of the bills would give to each state the power to fix alcoholic contents.

SLAYER OF DANCE HOSTESS DIES IN CHAIR

Crowley's Pal Executed; Four Put to Death in Illinois Pen for Killings

OSSINING, N. Y., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Rudolph (Fat) Duringer, convicted slayer of a dance hall hostess and associate of Francis (Two-Gun) Crowley, police killer, was put to death last night in Sing Sing's electric chair on his twenty-sixth birthday.

The former Yonkers (N. Y.) truck driver, who was captured with Crowley last summer in a siege of a New York City apartment house in which police employed riot guns and tear gas, was electrocuted for the murder of Virginia Brannen, who earned her living at a "dime a dance" in a Harlem dance hall.

Duringer never said a word from the time he walked into the death chamber at 11:03 p. m. until he was pronounced dead five minutes later. He listened with bowed head as the prison chaplain uttered a prayer.

An hour before he died, he kissed his mother goodbye.

WEIGHED 260 POUNDS

The dance girl's slayer was the largest man ever put to death in Sing Sing, having gained 40 pounds since he was brought to the death house in June. He then weighed 220 pounds.

Duringer, who manifested no interest in his fate during his trial, wept earlier in the day, both when his parents visited him and at his last meal which he was permitted to share with Crowley.

Crowley, who drove the motor car in which Duringer fatally shot the dancer, laughed as they sat down to roast chicken, mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce and ice cream.

He is under sentence to be electrocuted next month for the slaying of a Nassau County policeman.

Bars separated the pair, but Duringer put his hands through an opening and grasped Crowley's.

FOUR EXECUTED

CHESTER, Ill., Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Following each other rapidly to the electric chair, four convicted murderers were executed at the state penitentiary here early today. Three of them were Negroes. The white man, Henry Pannier, 57-year-old farm laborer, was the only one to maintain his composure as he marched to the chair. He was convicted for the slaying of Herman Schuline and his wife, his benefactors.

The first to meet death on the chair was Hazel Johnson, 23-year-old Negro. The other two Negroes executed were Willie Green, 31, and James Jackson, 31.

JAPAN'S MOVE AWAITED, SAYS GIBBONS

Army to Advance or Else Retreat, but Giving Up Ground Is Not Expected

By FLOYD GIBBONS
International News Service.

MUKDEN, Dec. 11.—Hello everybody.

Here we are in Mukden at last after three weeks travel by train, boat and plane from New York and things are sure popping right off the bat.

It's bitter cold, or at least it seems so to me, and the city lies under a white blanket of snow, the first heavy fall of the season.

Everybody's muffled up in fur coats and hats and felt boots except the Chinese ricksha coolies hauling loads through the streets. They are wearing cotton shoes and blue pajamas and I even saw one with last year's flat straw hat and fur earmuffs.

At that, they don't look as cold as the Japanese civilians who are unaccustomed to this climate and are visibly shivering.

Mukden has just received the news of the resignation of the Japanese cabinet and the consequent removal of Baron Shidehara from the foreign office.

CHINESE REVOLT

The Chinese soldiers in a town with a Chinese name north of here have revolted on the "no pay, no fight" principle and are reported to be joining up with bandit gangs to get more money for shorter hours.

A Japanese airplane fell on a Chinese railroad south of here in a snowstorm today. So the Japanese suspended traffic on the line while a special military train with a repair crew went after the pilot and the crashed machine.

Will Rogers spent 24 hours here, changed from a Japanese to a Russian diet and left by an afternoon train for Harbin.

Retirement of Shidehara as foreign minister is the biggest subject of debate in all circles, military, civilian, Japanese and foreign. Neutral observers here believe that the prime minister's withdrawal foreshadows rearrangements of the army's defensive lines in Manchuria.

JAPAN HOLDS CAPITALS

Here's the dope as I gather it on the first grab:

The three capitals of the three provinces of Manchuria are now in the hands of the Japanese army. The Chinese army and bandits numbering more than 200,000 are scattered all over the country with their real leader, Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang sitting pretty in Peiping.

But through his lieutenants he is making a last stand out in Eastern Manchuria, just north of the Great Wall which bounds China proper.

The center of this stand is the railroad town of Chinchow which Chang designates as his new capital, having been run out of the other three.

The Japanese army declares Chinchow forces numbering 30,000 menace their railroad and the entire peace of Manchuria and, as military men, they desire to remove this menace.

A Japanese army of occupation in Chinchow would eliminate the last capital of the former Manchurian government within the borders of the old province and entire military control would be in the hands of the Japanese army.

AWAIT NEW MOVE

It is believed here that Shidehara gave pledges to foreign governments to the effect that the army would not occupy Chinchow. Foreigners are now asking whether Shidehara's loss of office will force the army to relinquish plans which it deems necessary for defense, or whether disruption of the old cabinet will relieve the army of opposition in Tokio and remove the last obstacle to the execution of its plans.

All are agreed that now it's up to the army to make some move, either backward or forward, and but few here believe it will be backward.

While this question is being decided I am shopping for an interpreter and heavier underwear and praying for peace, at least until warmer weather.

DEMOCRATS LAY TAX PLANS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Congressional Democrats held informal discussions today on the formulation of a tax increase program designed to distribute the burden of government costs evenly.

The party leaders meet next Tuesday to put their proposals on paper. They now expect to propose an increase in the surtaxes, a raise in the income taxes in the higher brackets, a gift tax and to advocate a bond issue to take care of some of the treasury's deficit.

The administration's tax program undoubtedly will undergo considerable revision if it is not entirely supplanted by the new congress.

U. S. Deficit Gains $600,000,000 in Year

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—The government's deficit increased nearly $600,000,000 during the year preceding December 9, the Treasury's daily balance sheet revealed today. This year's deficit on December 9 was $925,345,000 as compared with $349,345,000 last year.

ESCAPED LIFERS SHOOT WARDEN

from the farmhouse to throw pursuers off the track.

The first car the six used in their flight was found abandoned later on a soggy road a few miles north of the prison. Officials were informed another automobile had been commandeered nearby.

GUNS PERIL CLERKS

The six prisoners, armed with sawed-off shotguns, appeared at the warden's office and covered clerks and employes. The warden, who was at work at his desk, was forced to join them.

Forged passes permitted the prisoners to pass the gate guards and enter the warden's office.

Soldiers were sent to the rescue of the warden in large Army trucks. They were armed with machine guns.

All work in the prison was suspended and the inmates returned to their cells. Prison attaches refused information concerning the escape and kidnaping and would not reveal the identity of the escaped convicts.

The entire town was aroused by the escape and kidnaping. Crowds thronged about the prison reservation and guards and soldiers kept them from entering prison grounds.

SOLDIERS ON TRAIL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—A squad of soldiers from the Leavenworth (Kan.) barracks were sent in pursuit of the six "lifers" who escaped from the federal prison at Leavenworth today, taking their warden as hostage, the Department of Justice was told in a telephone call from Assistant Warden Zerbst.

A group of special agents from Kansas City and a "high official" here were ordered to Leavenworth prison at once to co-operate in the search for the prisoners and to investigate the escape.

Three Chillicothe Fugitives Captured

CHILLICOTHE, O., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Three of four men who escaped from Ross County Jail early today after slugging Sheriff E. T. Argenbright, were captured a few hours later in a farmhouse near here. They offered no resistance.

The captured men were Fred Starr, of San Francisco, and Vernice Myers, federal prisoners, and Harley Hines, of Chillicothe. The fourth fugitive, Lester Simrau, of San Francisco, was not found.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Investigations of police department activities reached up to the top today to include orders issued by Chief George J. Matowitz and Safety Director Edwin D. Barry.

U. S. TAX FRAUD TRIALS LISTED

A special session of United States District Court in February was ordered today by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, who directed that the November grand jury be reconvened January 25 and that 250 petit jurors be summoned, 125 to report February 1 and the remainder February 15.

Among the cases listed for trial are those of F. F. Nicola, real estate broker and capitalist, charged with evasion of income tax; Dr. Jacob H. Ruben, on a similar charge; Thomas D. Byrne and his nephew, Frank H. Byrne, respectively, cashier and teller of the former Broadway National Bank of Scottdale, where an alleged fake robbery occurred last year, charged with misuse of funds; and six officers of the American Bond and Mortgage Company, charged with using the mails to defraud.

Tri-Secting Angle Baffles Ohio Man

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Inability to prove that "point N prime" and "point N" were the same led P. E. Shields into difficulties in his attempt last night to demonstrate before an audience of mathematicians that he had solved the problem of trisecting an angle.

Vet Loan Interest Elimination Asked

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Passage of a bill offered by Senator Black (Dem.), of Alabama, today would eliminate interest charges on all future loans made by the government to World War veterans on their adjusted service certificates.

It would apply only to loans made after its enactment and would also remove the two-year limitation on the granting of loans to veterans.

PINCHOT CALLS FOR RATE CUTS

BERWICK, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot in a message sent to the meeting of municipal representatives here last night, predicted that organization of municipalities into a fair rate league may "lay the foundation for sounding the death knell of the public utility domination of Pennsylvania." He said:

"On the evidence produced by their own books and records, the electric light rates in our state must come down." They should have come down four years ago. They began to drop a little after you nominated me for Governor. They must go down much further."

Making his first attack on utilities in Pennsylvania since the close of the last Legislature, which defeated his proposed public service company law changes, the Governor said practically all the big companies should reduce rates at once.

Among companies whose rates he said should be reduced was the Duquesne Light and West Penn Power.

FIGHTS TO GET BABY BACK

Mrs. Louise O'Leary, 23, blonde, pretty and jobless, whose 3-year-old son, George, was taken from her by Judge Sara Soffel in Juvenile Court yesterday, said today:

"They'll keep him over my dead body."

Mrs. O'Leary said that the child was taken from her through a misunderstanding. That she had only offered to leave her child with any family that had $500 to guarantee its care until she found a job, but the court had interpreted the proposal as an offer to sell the boy. She added:

"I've had 20 proposals to marry since people learned of my trouble. If I don't get my Sonny Boy back by tomorrow, I'll accept one of the proposals so I'll have a home and they'll have to give him back."

While Mrs. O'Leary worries over the separation from her child she faces the prospect of a hospital operation, having been afflicted with appendicitis since September.

She is now living with Mrs. Martin Noah, Jr., a friend, at 1415 Margaret street, Munhall. Mrs. Noah has four children of her own and her husband is working but three days a week. Mrs. Noah said:

"I can manage to scrape up enough to care for George until Louise gets a job, if they'll let her alone."

Hoovers Entertain Diplomatic Corps

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(Universal.)—Some 1,500 guests in colorful garb mingled at the White House last night when the President and Mrs. Hoover were hosts to the diplomatic corps, most picturesque function on the capital social calendar.

The gathering was so large that dancing was impossible and was dispensed with on the program. The United States Marine Orchestra played.

Water Heater Gas Fumes Kill Three

DETROIT, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Gas which leaked from an unlighted water heater was blamed today for the deaths of a man and two sisters, found overcome in an apartment here during the night. The dead were Miss Mildred Johnson, 23, of 1225 South Bedford avenue, Evansville, Ind.; Mrs. Mabel Grandmason, 30, and Alec Gregoire, 30, both of Detroit.

Experts Blast Russ 5-Year Plan Menace

CONVINCING evidence that the Soviet's much-heralded Five-Year Plan is doomed to failure, and that Communism's vast program for the transformation of Russia into an economic menace to the United States is only an exploded bogey, is presented in a notable series of articles, the first of which will appear Sunday in the March of Events Section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

FRANK E. DOWNS, American engineer, who spent nearly three years in Russia, presents vivid, close-range personal observations showing that the Five-Year Plan is breaking down industrially and agriculturally and that the condition of the Russian people is growing steadily worse, despite the flood of Soviet propaganda to the contrary.

ISAAC DON LEVINE, noted author, correspondent and authority on Russia, reveals for the first time in America vital data from official documents of the Soviet Government itself, showing that the natural resources of the Soviet Union are insufficient to realize the grandiose aim of the Five-Year Plan or to make Russia a formidable trade rival of the United States.

BASILE W. DELGASS, former Vice-President of the Amtorg Company, official Soviet representatives in the United States, contributes important facts disclosing the progressively weakening financial position of the Soviet government. Russia is presented by Mr. Delgass as a hopeless bankrupt, vainly hunting for foreign credit.

Speaker Garner Foregoes Special Automobile

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Speaker Garner decided today to forego the special automobile that goes along with the speakership.

Many a quip he and the late Speaker Longworth exchanged in past sessions over "our car," as Garner called the machine.

As minority leader, he often told his friend Longworth that the car, bought by the government for the Speaker's use, some day would be his to use by a Democratic overturn of the Republican majority.

But today, as Garner sat at his desk signing letters, he said:

"Mrs. Garner and I don't need the automobile in the first place, and I believe in setting an example in government economy."

Lenz 1,815 Points Ahead After 16 Rubbers in Battle To Test Contract Systems

This is another in the series of articles written for International News Service by Mrs. Josephine Culbertson, wife of Ely Culbertson and, with him, originator of the approach-forcing system of contract bidding, on the match being played between the Culbertsons and Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby. In today's article Mrs. Culbertson tells of the play in the third session of the dramatic bridge battle.

By MRS. JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

World's Greatest Woman Bridge Player. Written Especially for International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The play last night, the third session of the 150-rubber match between my husband and myself, as representatives of the approach-system of contract bidding, and Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, as representatives of the "official" system, was by far the most spectacular of the three sessions thus far. Although our opponents held but a slight preponderance of the honor tricks, the imp of finessing worked overtime in their favor, while he seemed to be quite peeved at us.

At the end of the third session we had played, in all, 16 rubbers, six of them being played last night. During this session we reduced our opponents' lead 260 points and they will start the session tonight with a lead of 1,815 points, having won ten rubbers out of 16.

My opponents and my partner were all alert to grasp the slightest opening and doggedly defended every inch of the contested battlefield. Mr. Jacoby, in keeping with his reputation, put up a relentless barrage of "psychic" or bluff bids. They were too obvious to be very effective. Ely counter-attacked with light, semi-"psychic" bids and they were also ineffective, except in the following instance:

NORTH (Mr. Lenz)
S—3.
H—Q-J-8-7-6-5.
D—A-K-7.
C—J-4-2.

WEST (Mr. Culbertson)	EAST (Mrs. Culbertson)
S—A-8-7-6-4-2.	S—K-Q-9-5.
H—K-10-3.	H—9-2.
D—J-9-6.	D—Q-8-3.
C—7.	C—K-10-5-3.

SOUTH (Mr. Jacoby)
S—J-10.
H—A-4.
D—10-5-4-2.
C—A-Q-9-8-6.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	1 N. T.	2 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass	3 clubs	3 spades
Pass	3 spades	Pass	Double
Pass			Pass

Final contract, 3 spades by East. Score made, 3 spades. Lead, ace of hearts by South.

It will be noted that, while I am permitted to play the contract at 3 spades, for a gain of 90 points for us, our opponents could have made 4 hearts without difficulty.

SLOW PLAY DISPUTE

The session was interspersed with arguments, more or less facetious, between the players. In these I did not join, because I do not like arguments. After hand 64, for instance, a very interesting point in play was raised when Mr. Lenz protested because he thought my husband had taken too much time to play a card. Ely replied:

"It's a very difficult hand. I must re-establish both opponents' hands. However, if we want to save time, tell me what you have."

Unquestionably the suggestion would save a good deal of time on many hands, but, unfortunately for us, Mr. Lenz, while suavity itself, did not comply, and my husband went down one trick through a most unfortunate guess in a 5-diamond contract.

Another hand in the first rubber furnished an additional test of the "Optional" two-bid, which is part of the "Official" system, but which players of the approach-forcing system regard as useless when it works and costly when it fails. As a result of the opening two-spade bid on this hand, a four-spade contract was reached, which was defeated two tricks. The hand and bidding follow:

NORTH (Mr. Lenz)
Spades—4-2
Hearts—J-9-7.
Diamonds—Q-7-2.
Clubs—A-J-9-7-2.

WEST (Mr. Culbertson)	EAST (Mrs. Culbertson)
Spades—Q-7.	Spades—10-9-8-5.
Hearts—K-Q-5-4-3.	Hearts—10-8-2.
Diamonds—10-3.	Diamonds—A-J-9.
Clubs—K-10-8-4.	Clubs—6-5-3.

SOUTH (Mr. Jacoby)
Spades—A-K-J-6-3.
Hearts—A-6.
Diamonds—K-8-6-5-4.
Clubs—Q.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spades	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

I have never seen a session replete with so many interesting hands as was that of last night.

The session was also notable in the fact that one-half of the hands played resulted in defeated contracts.

It was the third rubber of the evening and the thirteenth of the session that brought the first redoubled contract. It was a contract of four hearts played by Mr. Lenz, which was doubled by my husband and redoubled by Mr. Jacoby. The result was a set of three tricks for a total of 800 points.

Wifely Frowns, Partners' Rows Mark Tourney

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—The Ely Culbertson vs. Sidney Lenz battle of the century became good old free-for-all bridge last night with kicking on the shins the only thing barred.

Culbertson—expert that he is—was no safer from the wrath of the missus than any ordinary duffer. He wanted to eat while he played and he ordered up the biggest steak he could call to mind. Mrs. Culbertson said:

"Ely, we are playing cards, you know. Can't you wait until after the hand?"

Mr. Culbertson said:

"No!"

Mr. Culbertson continued his eating. Another hand was dealt. Mrs. Culbertson was about to bid. Mr. Culbertson cut off a piece of steak.

A WIFELY GLOWER

No word from Mrs. Culbertson—but she looked across the green felt with the nearest thing this side of a glower. Mr. Culbertson quit eating.

Nor was expert Lenz, defender of the official system, any safer from a good call-down from his partner when an expert bid resulted in his going down three, redoubled.

There were post moriems, too. Just as in any poker game, and Lenz's oft-said "Let's get going" couldn't stop them.

Sometimes the conversation was polite and sometimes it wasn't. As, for instance, when Mr. Culbertson said to Mr. Lenz:

"May I see that last trick again?"

And Mr. Lenz answered:

"Gladly, my cross-eyed bear."

OMENS ENTER

Omens and good-luck pieces crawled into the game last night. Mrs. Culbertson put a rabbit's foot in her purse. Culbertson hung a wishbone on a bridge lamp, and Oswald Jacoby, Lenz's partner, had a finger decorated with antiseptic.

Ossie got the finger decoration through a little Park avenue heroism as he walked to the battle arena. A nondescript pup was run over by an automobile. Ossie picked him up, carried him off the street and further danger, and was bitten on the hand.

MORE BETTING

Lenz brought Culbertson an offer from a friend last night who wanted to bet $10,000 on the outcome of the match. Culbertson said that if Lenz's friend would be so kind as to send up a certified check it would be immediately covered with one for $20,000.

The Culbertson confidence so far totals $14,200 against approximately $5,450. The wager in the agreement with Lenz is $5,000 to $1,000, winnings to go to charity. He has $1,500 against $750 from Jacoby, $1,000 against $500 from a man in San Francisco, $200 against $100 from a man in Newark, N. J., and another $6,000 at varying odds.

'Gags' King Liked Roused Partner's Ire

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Al Trahan's "gags" amused the King of England, but they weren't always funny to Vesta Wallace, his vaudeville partner. Once he "brought the house down" when he referred to her as "Miss Walrus." She became enraged. They parted in 1928 and now she's suing him for $20,000 breach of contract.

LAKE DRAGGED FOR MISSING SOPRANO

Letters of Metropolitan Opera Singer Cause Friends To Fear She Ended Life

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Santa Biondo, youthful lyric soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company was mysteriously missing today.

Letters she wrote before her disappearance said she intended to commit suicide.

Friends could not understand what could have led her to contemplate ending her life. She vanished just before she was to have made her first major appearance at the Metropolitan. One of her letters read:

"I have lived a life of lies. I tried to commit suicide by gas, sat down by the stove and turned on the gas jets.

"But I couldn't go through with it. So now I have decided to end my life in the waters."

FATHER ILL

Mme. Biondo's father, Mauro Biondo, was reported seriously ill in New Haven, Conn. Her husband, Salvator Muzullo, also lives in New Haven.

Authorities were dredging the lake in Central Park today in the belief she might have drowned herself.

Her rooms were found in great disorder after her disappearance, but apparently Mme. Biondo had taken none of her possessions with her when she left. The lights were turned on in all the rooms.

Enrico Rosati, her voice teacher, received two of the letters she wrote before her disappearance. One of them was the one in which she spoke of suicide.

SINGERS IN PANIC

A fear-inspired panic seemed to prevail at the Metropolitan Opera House when Mme. Biondo's absence became known. Friends were completely mystified. They said the singer had been cheerful and kind to other members of the company.

One friend revealed Mme. Biondo told not long ago of financial losses, but said she did not seem to be seriously affected by them.

Rosa Ponselle, who sings the leading role in the opera in which Mme. Biondo was to have appeared, was incredulous when informed of the mysterious vanishing of the singer.

An understudy took Mme. Biondo's part, to the playing of which she was said to have looked forward eagerly.

Chilean Congress Resumes After Row

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—The Chilean Congress resumed its session last night under a heavy guard of mounted lancers after an attack upon it by a mob Wednesday, with rioting in which one person was killed.

A check-up of the casualties revealed that more than 40 persons, including citizens and carabineers, who cleared the streets of the rioters just as firing began, had been wounded. A number of leaders in the disturbance were arrested.

AMOS 'N' ANDY ACT CENSURED

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—In his capacity as president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, Hugh D. Harper protested against the portrayal of police methods as given by Amos 'n' Andy over the radio.

In a telegram to the sponsors of the radio program, he said:

"I wish to protest in the strongest terms against the misleading and totally false impressions that are being implanted in the minds of the people everywhere by the attempt of Amos and Andy to impersonate the so-called third degree. Such propaganda cannot help but seriously handicap law enforcement officers in the prosecution of crime. No up-to-date officer ever uses the methods as employed in your radio program."

Vote Machine Case Acquittal Criticized

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 11.—When they returned a verdict today acquitting Donald McIntyre, judge of the Fourth Ward, Uniontown, of seven counts of election violations in connection with manipulation of voting machines, 10 men and two women were severely criticized by Judge Thomas H. Hudson.

Judge Hudson declared he felt McIntyre was guilty and that there were "higher-ups" involved.

58 Grandchildren Survive Woman

STONEBORO, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Fifty-eight grandchildren and 81 great-grandchildren survive Mrs. Mary Ann Gregg, 89, who died at the home of a daughter here yesterday. She was born in England, but has been a resident of Mercer County for more than three-quarters of a century. She was the mother of 11 children, six of whom are living.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 11.—Fifty more coke ovens at Standard plant of H. C. Frick Coke Company near Mt. Pleasant were fired yesterday, making three shifts necessary daily. The plant is now on a five-day week.

MOTHERS FINED FOR DRINKING

Two mothers whose nine children were taken in charge by the Juvenile Court yesterday following their parents arrest, were reprimanded by Magistrate T. D. Jones, in Morals Court, today.

The were Mrs. Loretta Siebert, of 2615 Carey way, mother of four, and Mrs. Catherine Booker, of 3133 Sarah street, mother of five.

Patrolman James Challis testified that on complaint of neighbors, he had visited the Siebert home where he arrested the two women and three others. He said he found the house in filthy condition, and the Siebert children in rags, playing with a dog which had a broken leg.

Magistrate Jones told the mothers:

"Your place is to take care of your children instead of carousing around drinking moonshine. If the law permitted me I would send you to the workhouse."

The two mothers, along with Frank Booker, husband of the Booker woman; Robert McFaul and Betty Mitchell, of the South Side, were fined $10 each with the option of 10 days in jail.

Norma Shearer Gets U. S. Citizenship

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Norma Shearer, film star, a native of Montreal, Canada, need only appear briefly today in the United States District Court to become a citizen of the United States. Her final papers await her at the naturalization bureau.

The process was simplified by her marriage to Irving Thalberg, motion picture executive and United States citizen.

BACK IN JAIL, 'BLUEBEARD' STAYS CALM

Declares He Expected Death Verdict; Attorney Frames Plea for Another Trial

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

CLARKSBURG, Dec. 11.—"I got just about what I expected."

With these words, Harry F. Powers, convicted Bluebeard, turned from the spotlight of an opera house courtroom drama to a cell in Harrison County Jail—his next stage booking the gallows.

Powers yesterday was found guilty of first-degree murder in the killing of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, 50-year-old Worcester (Mass.) divorcee, one of five victims found buried on his Quiet Dell love farm last August. The jury was out only an hour and 50 minutes. The death penalty is mandatory.

ATTORNEY TO APPEAL

J. Ed Law, Powers' counsel, plans to appeal the verdict. His first step was a motion made yesterday before Trial Judge John C. Southern to have the verdict set aside and asking a new trial. Judge Southern reserved his decision, adjourning court until tomorrow morning, when he will announce his decision.

The gray-haired defense attorney, who 25 years ago was prosecutor of this same county, made an eloquent plea—as tears streamed down his own cheeks—for his client's life.

Law said later that he had feared the death penalty for his client and was not surprised at the verdict. He added:

"I had told Harry what to expect, and when it came it was no surprise to either of us.

"No, I can't say he showed any emotion."

LAW ALLOWS TIME

Law said the practices of West Virginia courts would give him "all the time necessary" to file his appeal for a new trial. Under provisions of the court, he has 30 days before any further action need be taken, and before the expiration of that time if the appeal is not ready, he may file a motion for a stay of execution and an extension of 60 to 90 days would automatically be granted.

Powers on his way to the jail had little to say to Sheriff William B. Grimm and the state police guard which rushed him through the crowded streets. Met in the corridors of the jail by Warden Andrew Moore, he shuffled listlessly to his cell, where Moore unlocked the handcuffs which bound his wrists.

Powers resumed his normal prison life in the county jail, as if he had been away only on a business trip. He told Sheriff Grimm:

"The verdict was just as I expected."

WOMAN SEIZED IN DAVIS' OFFICE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Mrs. Katherine M. Chadwick, 45, of McKeesport, Pa., was in Gallinger Hospital for mental observation today. She was taken into custody yesterday in the office of Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, in the Senate office building, after she had displayed a 10-inch knife.

Mrs. Chadwick visited several offices, including that of the Vice President, to file a claim against the government. While talking to a clerk she warned him not to get rough, and exhibited the knife.

She was mollified and later was taken from the senator's office by Department of Justice agents. Davis was in the Senate chamber at the time.

Three Found Guilty Of Giving Bad Bills

Three men pleaded guilty in Federal Court today to passing counterfeit $20 bills. A fourth, Michael Markla), 43, of Cleveland, who elected to stand trial, was acquitted.

Mark Vukcevich, 37, of McKees Rocks, and Joseph Starcic, 47, of Sheboygan, Mich., were sentenced to one year in the reformatory at Petersburg, Va., by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker. Sentence will not be passed on Joseph Zupn, 34, of Cleveland, until February because of his wife's illness.

KANE ON STAND DENIES KILLING OF WIFE

Victim Able to Swim, He Asserts; Details Events Leading Up to Drowning

Valentine's Day," his teaching duties at various colleges in the East and South, and came quickly to the events of last summer. He related smoothly:

"We went to Virginia Beach for dinner. Jenny had learned to swim. I wish to state emphatically that she had written me she had learned and wanted to show me what she could do.

"We went swimming at Virginia Beach. She could float, although she was nervous, and could do a sort of scissors stroke which was not very good. She always kept her head up too high. She was afraid of the water and I tried to teach her to put her head in without getting nervous.

"The swimming lesson took place on a remote part of the beach, because people made Mrs. Kane self-conscious."

On September 11, they decided to take a picnic lunch to the beach. That morning Jenny did not come down to breakfast because she never ate with her father, W. C. Graham, the professor declared. They did not get along well.

Also, Jenny said, her mother's breakfasts were "all grease," according to the professor. He went on:

"We got down to the beach about 9 o'clock, I judge. We always went near the lighthouse, because it threw a shadow where we could sit in the heat of the day.

TELLS OF SWIM

"We went swimming as soon as we got there. Jenny swam about 50 feet on her back. She did rather well on her back, although she was afraid to swim face down. Whenever she got nervous she would call 'get me' and I would grab her."

They played on the beach and chased the dog up the beach. He related. Mrs. Kane called the dog "Honey," explaining:

"You see, when two people have been married 13 years and have no children, they get fond of a dog."

Before lunch, they put the dog away in the car so he would not bother them while eating. Then the Kanes went for another short swim before eating. He testified:

"I told Jenny to watch me swim out and get some pointers on swimming.

"She was standing on the rocks looking. As I turned and went toward her, she said, 'Now watch me.' I don't know what she wanted to do, but suddenly she keeled over and fell in.

"I called 'Get on your back,' and swam as fast as I could toward her.

"She seemed to be crawling on the floor of the ocean. I submerged my head and grabbed her. She held on convulsively, and I got scared, so I broke her hold by pressing my hand against her head. I got what is called an 'arm and head hold' on her then, and swam in. Her face was out of the water all of the time.

BECOMES LIMP

"It seemed as if the whole weight of the ocean was pressing against me—I don't know if it was because I was fatigued or what, but just before I reached the shore she went limp. As if she had fainted.

"As I reached hip deep water I squeezed her around the waist to induce artificial respiration. I was screaming all the time until my voice was only a sob."

Then he told of rushing his wife to a hospital, where she was declared dead.

Dr. Evan O'Neill Kane, father of the defendant and famous Kane (Pa.) surgeon, was cross-examined today. His direct testimony was the final event in yesterday's session.

FATHER TESTIFIES

Shrivelled and gray bearded, but possessing an amazing gift of words, Dr. Kane reiterated his tale of an over solicitous husband and a hysterical wife who exaggerated her heart troubles until she actually became seriously ill.

In refutation of prosecution testimony that the professor was an agnostic, Dr. Kane said his son was "upright—a member of the Presbyterian Church."

Dr. Thomas L. Kane, the defendant's brother, followed the battling old man to the witness stand. He knew Jenny, he declared, for 13 years, and was very fond of her because she was "delightful in her conversation."

The state's case was considered considerably weakened by the ruling of Judge C. Vernon Sprately, barring the letters of "the other woman," Mrs. Elizabeth H. Dahl, of Mt. Holly, N. J., as evidence. Only one witness, a deputy sheriff, has spoken of her up to now. Veiled references to "a beautiful creature" with whom the professor was infatuated were made by several prosecution witnesses, members of the Graham family, kin of the dead woman.

Wagers as to the outcome of the case are being laid around town with the odds favoring a verdict of "not guilty."

Man Held for Trial In Dentist's Death

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Roy Maness, 34, charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of William J. Koerner, 29, Butler dentist, has been held for court by the Butler County Grand Jury. Koerner's body was found along a highway near Bruin, November 27.

Maness, who formerly lived at Huntington, W. Va., told police he and Koerner had attended a Thanksgiving party at the home of a young woman where liquor was served.

with Friedman's indorsement. It was the Franklin bank in which Schooley kept $125,000 of city funds without bond protection.

Neither District Attorney Andrew T. Park nor Controller Kerr would reveal the entire story of the arrest of McKibbin and Brandner, but reliable reports were that only the surface has been scratched thus far in the investigation.

One city official is said to be linked with "loans" from the City Treasurer's office, made to him frequently in cases of emergency.

McKibbin was freed under $5,000 bond last night; Brandner on a similar amount today.

Both employes were aides of Schooley, fired by Mayor Kline after it was revealed that he deposited $125,000 in the Franklin Savings and Trust Company without bonded security required by law.

In its presentment the grand jury charged McKibbin with embezzling $2,563 and Brandner with $6,486.48. McKibbin, the jury found, pocketed $1,500 overcharges on delinquent taxes and $1,065 collected from the Prothonotary as a refund of costs in court cases in which the City was a party.

Brandner shielded his accounts by obtaining an extra receipt book from which he issued receipts to taxpayers whose payments he diverted, the jury charged.

The grand jury criticized the "very loose system" in the delinquent tax office and promised to report futher to court.

Silas Strawn Tells Of Trade Upturn

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—(INS)—Silas H. Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, declared today that business was showing signs of recovery in the East. He said:

"Signs of recovery are probably more encouraging in the East than here. The businessmen there are getting down to brass tacks."

COOKE PICKED FOR NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Philadelphia Banker and Friend of Hoover Slated To Succeed Atterbury

By LEO V. DOLAN
International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 11.—Pennsylvania's political batteries wheeled into line today in the first maneuver of the 1932 presidential campaign with the selection of Jay Cooke, Philadelphia financier and a personal friend of President Hoover, as a member of the Republican National Committee from Pennsylvania.

Cooke will succeed Gen. W. W. Atterbury, outspoken president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who resigned his post on the National Board of Strategy rather than support Gov. Gifford Pinchot in the 1930 gubernatorial campaign.

POLL CONDUCTED

Selection of Cooke is being made by a poll of the Republican State Committee. Members of this body elect national committee members. Gen. Edward Martin, committee chairman and state treasurer, wrote the various committeemen suggesting Cooke for the post and it was authoritatively reported that Cooke had received overwhelming indodsement.

Formal declaration that Cooke has been chosen is expected before the National Committee meets in Washington on Monday. Cooke's seating in the national conclave will give Pennsylvania a second vote when the committee makes plans for the 1932 Republican national convention.

BOOST TO PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia's political prestige may be enhanced considerably by the selection of Cooke, since the City of Brotherly Love has made strong overtures seeking the national convention for next year. Since the resignation of Gen. Atterbury, Mrs. Worthington Scranton, of Scranton, has been the sole member of the national group from Pennsylvania.

Cooke's appointment is regarded as the first open move to organize Pennsylvania for renomination of President Hoover. The Philadelphian entertained the President on fishing trips at the Cooke hunting lodge in Lycoming County during the 1928 campaign, and again in May, 1930, immediately following Mr. Hoover's Memorial Day address at Gettysburg.

In the Hoover-Smith campaign of 1928, Cooke was chairman of the ways and means committee which collected campaign contributions for the Republican National Committee in Pennsylvania.

HEMPHILL OUT FOR RITCHIE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11.—(AP)—John Hemphill, Democratic and Liberal party candidate for Governor against Gifford Pinchot in the 1930 election, last night announced he favored Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, for the Democratic nomination for President.

Hemphill is the second prominent Pennsylvania Democrat to make a definite statement on his choice of a candidate. Last summer Joseph F. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, former national committeeman, said more than 60 of the delegates from Pennsylvania favored Gov. Franklin Roosevelt, of New York, for the nomination.

In supporting Ritchie, Hemphill said he believed the Maryland Governor "is the most available candidate and the one whose selection would best serve the interests of the Democratic party and the nation."

Referring to Guffey's statement that most of the delegates would be for Roosevelt, Hemphill's announcement said he had "seen no title and know of no authorization for such a startling claim."

Ohio Police Rout Jobless Marchers

MARTINS FERRY, O., Dec. 11.—(AP)—More than 100 unemployed marchers, en route to their homes in the Middle West after having participated in demonstrations in Washington, were driven from Martins Ferry by police yesterday, following street fighting.

One man was clubbed and tear gas was used to break up the crowd. The injured man, one of the marchers, was carried away by his companions.

Diamond Loses First Round in Legal Tilt

TROY, N. Y., Dec. 11.—(INS)—Jack (Legs) Diamond lost the first round of a legal battle which Troy authorities hope will result in his conviction for kidnaping, when Supreme Court Justice Bliss denied a motion made by Daniel Prior, his attorney, to dismiss the indictment on the ground that it placed Diamond in double jeopardy.

Diamond was acquitted last July when he was tried for the kidnaping of young James Duncan.

Minister Shot Over Baptism Dispute

BOSEMAN, Mont., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Thomas Lyness, 48, an evangelist, was shot and wounded dangerously in an encounter with Elwood T. Sumner, a barber, in the reading room of a hotal last night.

Officers said Sumner, who is held, protested the influence of Lyness over his wife and family. The proposed baptism of the Sumners' elder daughter by the evangelist brought affairs to a crux, he said.

Fails to Identify Abandoned Infant

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A baby abandoned in a Baltimore hotel was not the granddaughter of Mrs. Clara Newcomber, of this city, she said today when she looked at pictures of the infant.

Mrs. Newcomber told police last night that she believed the baby was that of her daughter, Mrs. Esther Martin, 31, of Martinsville, who recently left her husband and four other children.

Stars Unveil Shaft To Lillian Leitz

LONG BEACH, Cal., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Stars of the screen, sta and of the sawdust ring paid the final respects here yesterday to the memory of Lillian Leitz world renowned aerialist, kill last February while performing Copenhagen. Miss Leitzel's ash were brought to Long Beach la May by a friend.

Following the service, a marb monument, sculptured in Ital was unveiled in Inglewood Cem tery.

REFRIGERATOR BUSINESS GAINS

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—A cheerful chirp came today from an infant industry, the electric refrigerator business.

An announcement said more than a million units were sold in 1931. Not one suspension has been reported and a number of new firms have entered the business, said the announcement made by James E. Davidson, chairman of the electric refrigeration bureau of the National Electric Light Association.

In the boom year 1929, a total of 660,000 sales were recorded, followed by 775,000 in 1930. A co-operative selling campaign, backed by advertising, Davidson said, helped roll up an increase of about 33 1-3 per cent this year. Gross sales were more than a quarter billion dollars.

Shop Foreman Hurt In Elevator Crash

An elevator bearing a heavy truck crashed from the first floor to the basement of the Brockway Motor Truck Corporation plant, Liberty avenue and Main street, early today, injuring Paul Garraus, 40, of Bakerstown, the shop foreman. The truck, owned by J. E. Smith, of Sheraden, had been driven on the elevator to be moved to the second-floor repair shop.

3 Face Hearing In Drug Charge

Shelter Denied Aged Wanderer Shunning Bath

Because he declines to take a bath, an aged wanderer known as "Methuselah" has been refused admittance to charitable institutions, according to H. W. Shepard, secretary of the Pittsburgh Association for Improvement of the Poor. Even the jail and workhouse shun him, Shepard asserts.

Every inducement, including perfumed soap, has been offered him without avail. He is believed nearing the century mark.

SEEKS MELLON IMPEACHMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—A resolution of impeachment of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon because he is engaged in private business contrary to law will be offered in the House in 10 days, Representative Patman (Dem.) of Texas, said today.

After gathering information for several months concerning the business affiliations of Mellon, Patman is ready to take the case to the House.

His resolution will be offered as a question of highest privilege and will contain a provision requiring the Judiciary Committee to investigate the charges and report to the House.

DAUGHTER AIDS 'DREAM KILLER'

KINGWOOD, W. Va., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Mrs. Evelyn Harader's 10-year-old daughter, Glenna, told a jury here yesterday that her mother mumbled and acted strangely before she shot and killed Cecil Michael, postmaster and storekeeper at Clifton Mills. She appeared as a witness in support of her mother's insanity defense.

Mrs. Harader, who last week was found sane by a jury, is on trial now for her life for Michael's slaying.

The self-styled "dream slayer" has told police she received "messages" from trees, a power line and other inanimate objects directing her to kill Michael.

CARMAN SCORED IN JINGLE LINES

Woman Is Given Award For Most Original Rhyme; Cash Prizes Aid to Santa

That mythical "Motorman Farr" who was "careless in starting his car," according to "Christmas Jingle" No. 23, was the recipient of a deluge of criticism from hundreds of Sun-Telegraph readers who submitted breezy answers to this limerick.

Ninety per cent of them figured that "jar" was the only word that would rhyme with "Farr." Alice E. Wagner, 1542 Howard street, according to the judges, seemed to get the most original slant at a last line and was awarded the first prize — a Sun-Telegraph check for $5 for her Christmas shopping.

The jingle as Miss Wagner completed it now reads:

Here's a wallop at Motorman Farr,
Who was careless in starting his car.
If you hadn't a strap
You would fall in some lap
Or fix to the end of the car.

The five $1 prizes were won by Mary J. Dalbey, 559 Twelfth avenue, New Brighton; Mrs. Nina A. Held, 204 Fourth street, Freeport; Mrs. Frances Sieley, 214 Shady avenue, Charleroi; Mary Petrarca, Torrance; G. M. Agnew, 9 Wood street.

Try your hand on No. 30, appearing on this page today. The "last line" judged the best will win $5 and the next five $1 each. All readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph with the exception of employes are invited to enter the Christmas Jingle contest. You can send in as many last lines as you like. Equal awards will be paid to readers whose answers are tied in the judging. You do not have to buy a Sun-Telegraph to enter this contest. You may examine the files of this newspaper at the public library or at any one of the offices of the Sun-Telegraph where you may make a tracing of the "Christmas Jingles" blank if you wish.

Each Sun-Telegraph "Christmas Jingle" will be consecutively numbered.

Spanish Police Head Declines U. S. Post

MADRID, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Angel Galarza, resigning director of Spanish police, was offered the post as ambassador to the United States by the government yesterday but declined to accept it.

JOB FOR LEECH AVERTS CLASH

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—President Hoover's appointment of Representative J. Russell Leech of the present Twentieth Pennsylvania District, as a member of the United States Board of Tax Appeals yesterday eliminated the possibility of a contest between two sitting members of the state congressional delegation in the 1932 Pennsylvania Republican primary.

Leech, under the redistricting bill passed by the state Legislature, was thrown in the same district as Representative Nathan L. Strong of Brookville, the present Twenty-seventh District. One of them would have been eliminated in the contest for renomination.

a wart cure advertisement on the side of the Taj Mahal.

YOU ARE dazed at first as you stand by the roar and rumble of the Horseshoe Falls, masses of fearful weight tumbling, bellowing, never ceasing their awful power.

Then reflection restores peace you think.

"All that roar is only so many separate drops falling. All that power means small drops, going the same way. What could human drops do, if they went the same way, worked together and combined forces."

FOR YOUR further comfort and recovery of equilibrium you say to yourself that you are watching clumsy, cumbersome power that will seem as old-fashioned as an ox cart when men harness the tides, the sun and ultimately release atomic forces. Those Niagara drops are molecules in which atoms of hydrogen and oxygen are yoked together, two of the former hitched to one of the latter, like two mules harnessed with one horse.

Each atom is a solar system, and two teaspoonfuls of those atoms have locked up in them, says Eddington, power enough to drive the biggest steamship across the Atlantic and back again.

THE ATOMS reeling over that precipice in one second carry down to the sea, locked up in their whirling electronic mechanism, more power than Niagara can develop in 10 years. And they have carried that power within them for billions of years, untouched, undiminished.

YOU CONCLUDE that you, able to think, quote and almost understand Jeans, Eddington and Einstein are the really important molecule and continue on your way through "Queen Victoria Park" on past Chippewa to the bridge and across to "God's country."

You immediately recognize it when customs officials "frisk" your automobile to make sure you are not smuggling.

'Human Fly' Held As Society Burglar

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—New York's "human fly" burglar who, with confederates, is accused of $1,500,000 gem thefts in fashionable homes, was captured today, police believed, when Robert Russell Negri was arrested after he climbed up the façade of a Park Avenue building and apparently tried to enter the home of Mrs. John Woodruff Simpson, society matron.

Detectives later rounded up eight men suspected of having aided in the robberies that recently terrorized wealthy residents.

Dominion Equality Approved by King

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—The statute of Westminster, placing the British dominions on an equality with Great Britain under the crown, went into effect today when King George's assent to the parliamentary bill was signified by a royal commission.

Rail Brotherhoods Study Pay Problem

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Railway labor was discussing the problem of wage reduction today beset by a fog of rumors but keeping its own counsel.

General chairmen of the 21 rail brotherhoods and unions met yesterday behind the carefully guarded doors of a Chicago hotel's grand ballroom. Outside the air was thick with rumors that the men would accept a 10 per cent wage cut, that they would refuse, that they were anxious to compromise. From inside came only the official word that the wage problem was finally being discussed.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"DEAR MARK," writes Pajo, "If you saw Jerry you'd almost swear the man was a minister. He's the holiest-looking gentleman you ever gazed upon, what with that silvery hair and those soft, trusting eyes.

"The strangest thing about the man is that he is almost as holy as he looks—except for one fault. And that one fault is a honey. He derives his greatest pleasure—and his greatest income, I'm fresh enough to say—from frequenting the outgoing liners and relieving several trusting passengers of what he is pleased to call 'just a wee but of cash that they'll never miss.'

"His racket and he'd be the last one to consider it as such is rather simple. On an average of twice a week he picks out a large liner that is sailing that day. He marks the time of departure very carefully and then arrays himself in a traveling outfit. An hour or so before sailing time he is waiting the decks and nodding and smiling to people whom he thinks will be good prospects.

"A short time before the 'All Ashore' call is sounded he looks over to the most likely looking prospect with a worried expression on his benevolent map. He explains that a C. O. D. package has just come aboard for him and that it calls for, let us say, $20.

"Jerry fishes into his pocket and draws out a $500 bill. A legitimate one, in case you feel like asking. And he looks at it dubiously.

"'I must have this changed at once in order to get the package,' he murmers. 'I wonder if by any possible chance you have the change.'

"In 99 out of 100 cases the prospect hasn't the change. Whereupon Jerry's face developes just that much more worry.

"'Oh my,' he cries. 'Oh my. What am I ever going to do.' I need that package so badly for the voyage. Oh my.'

"You'd be amazed how many times the sucker comes through without a murmur. He offers to lend Jerry the $20—and he hands over the money in a spirit of great camaraderie.

"They take it for granted, you see, that Jerry is going along on the voyage. As long as the man displays the $500 bill and looks so totally innocent why should the prospect even dream that he is about to become the victim of a racket? To make the thing just a little more convincing Jerry often offers to leave the $500 bill as security. Not one sucker ever took his offer.

"As soon as he has the borrowed money in his hand Jerry promises to give it back as soon as he has his bill changed.

"'Let me have the number of your stateroom,' he requests. 'If I'm not able to get the change before the boat leaves, I'll be down to your room with it as soon as I can see the purser. And thank you for your kindness.'

"He then races to the other side of the boat and looks for his next prospect. He goes through the exact same routine—and then travels on to a third. Before the boat actually sails he has done plenty all right for himself.

"But, as you seem to know, there's always a topper. A few weeks ago Jerry was starting his usual line on a prospect aboard a large German liner over here in Brooklyn. He had just reached the punch line of his sob story when a young man in the uniform of a ship's officer tapped him on the shoulder.

"'Pardon me, sir,' said the officer courteously, 'but did I hear you say that you wanted to change a $500 bill?'

"Jerry nodded. What else could he do?

"'Well, sir,' the officer went on, 'I'll be glad to help you out. If you'll give me the bill, I'll run down to the stewards' office and have it changed for you immediately. No trouble at all, sir, I assure you.'

"What was Jerry to do? He didn't know whether it was a pinch, or what it was. He certainly couldn't back out at such a moment. So he handed the money to the officer.

"'You'll do me a great favor by hurrying along,' he said. 'I want to get that package as soon as possible.'

"The officer assured him he wouldn't be but a minute or two. He left. And Jerry stood there tapping the deck nervously and waiting for his change. He knew that he'd go no business that day. All he wanted was his $500 back.

"He didn't get it. Jerry waited as long as he could and just did get off as the ties pulled in the gangplank. The boat sailed out and aboard it was Jerry's precious $500 bill.

"Jerry hasn't been on a boat since. He's been brooding ever since he lost that money. He sits on benches and scans the ship news. But it's the arrivals he's interested in now and not the departures.

"He told me the story yesterday and I've hastened to send it to you. He told me he's just waiting for the day that ship returns and that he's going aboard to look for that 'flat officer' who never did come back with his $500.

"And as I left him I heard him mutter something about that officer. It sounded very much like 'that dirty, double crossing crook.'"

DEAR MR. HELLINGER"—

Writes Elmer Conklin. "Here is one for your column, and it's not a fairy tale either. It really happened.

"I was employed as captain on a tug boat for the Hudson Tow Boat Company. Like a good many more I was laid off when the depression was over and the panic came. I tried all over to get work, but I had no success.

"After trying various angles, I finally found a job with a battery company in New Jersey. I was to mold grids for auto batteries, and they told me I was to receive 27 cents for every hundred grids I molded. Well, sir, it was my first break in a long time. I thought I was going to have a racket.

"I started in at 9 o'clock the following morning and went to work with a vengeance. After five hours of steady work I felt my hand getting sore—and when I took off my glove it looked as though three red peppers had suddenly grown on the backs of my fingers. At 5 o'clock I quit and went home.

"At the end of a week I went to the office to collect my pay. I didn't know how much I had earned but I did know I had worked mighty hard and that I would have a nice salary check coming to me. The man behind the cage adjusted his glasses.

"'Mr. Conklin,' he said. 'During the week just passed, you made 625 grids. Of these, only 225 were good—which earns you a salary of 65 cents.

"'When you started work, however, we supplied you with a pair of canvas gloves. These gloves cost us 40 cents, and we charged you no more than that sum for them. Accordingly, your salary check for the week just passed is 25 cents. Here you are, sir.'

"I still have the check Mr. Hellinger. Amusing isn't it?" . . .

May Ask Removal Of School Board

A citizens' committee being organized in Neville Township, following the arrest of Charles Daub, former school board secretary on a forgery charge, may ask for the removal of the school board. At a meeting in the home of C. G. Shields, Fourth street, F. C. Parsons, J. Jackson, R. L. Moss and Shields were named a committee to push possible court action.

Be sure your Radio Tubes are QUICK Heaters

PROTECT YOURSELF WHEN BUYING TUBES
. . . ask your dealer these three questions:
1—Is this a new-type tube? 2—Is it a quick heater?
3—How quick? (If a tube doesn't heat up in ten seconds or less, it isn't an up-to-date tube.)

BE CAREFUL in buying tubes, or you may get the slow heater kind. The market is being flooded with them . . . and the uninformed purchaser may accept them, only to be disappointed with their stubborn slowness in getting started.

No matter how fine your radio set may be, if it is handicapped with old-type slow-heater tubes, your enjoyment will be ruined time after time. Modern radio programs start on the dot . . . and so do tubes that are really up to date.

Insist on quick-heater tubes such as Eveready Raytheons! They get into action in a bare 7 seconds. Don't buy any tube until your dealer has proved its heating time. A quick start is your guarantee that you are getting an up-to-date tube. Time it yourself.

Don't worry about prices . . . you pay no premium for quick-heating Eveready Raytheons.

Notice the four strong pillars. With this solid foundation the fragile parts cannot move a hair's breadth from their fixed position. Ordinary tubes have only a two-pillar foundation. Two supports instead of four! Jolts, bumps and vibration often impair their vital accuracy.

Here are their new, low prices:

TYPE	NEW PRICE
ER 227	$1.00
ER 224	1.60
ER 235	1.60
ER 551	1.60
ER 245	1.10
ER 247	1.55
ER 280	1.00
ER 226	.80
ER 171-A	.90
ER 201-A	.75

You get an extra, exclusive advantage with Eveready Raytheons. They have the unique, patented 4-pillar construction, which makes them twice as strong, twice as resistant to jolts and shocks, as ordinary tubes. They have a new clarity and beauty of tone, breath-taking in its realism.

EVEREADY RAYTHEON 4-PILLAR RADIO TUBES

We Now Present

By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

WHEN TWO SUCH eminent authorities as Charles Francis Coe and Congressman Fred Britten undertake to discuss "Capital Punishment" and "Our Navy" on the radio, we think program managers have exercised a little more than the usual gray matter in selecting talks that appeal to the public. . . . Coe talks on WCAE at 7 and Britten on WJAS at 9:15. . . . Jessica Dragonette interprets the colorful "Indian Love Call" on WCAE at 8. . . . The News Drama on WJAS at 8:30 is to review recent activities of Adolph Hitler, German Fascist leader, and the Hindu fracas. . . . The evening schedule assumes an operatic atmosphere at 9:30 with Mario Chamlee on WCAE, turns to the light and beautiful Serenade from Lehar's "Frasquita" on WJAS at 10, and once again we have the pleasure of hearing Baby Rose Marie on WCAE at 10:30.

Darrell V. Martin

Last night's Christmas Welfare Carnival drew a capacity crowd and was by far the most elaborate performance of radio stars ever attempted in this city . . . it might be a good idea to stage this affair again, either in Syria Mosque or one of the larger downtown theaters.

Question a Day:

Who composed the theme song for "Slumber Music" and what stations besides WJZ carry this feature?—Esther J., Rochester, Pa.

Answer—"Slumber On" was composed by John Keith McLeod, of the NBC program department. The hookup for this feature changes nightly but WJR, WBAL usually have the program.

* * *

Only surprise to us in the all-America team selected by radio fans was that the Pitt team rated only one first mention—Jim McMurdo at right tackle . . . Marchmont Schwartz, of Notre Dame, received 16,887 votes of the 18,006 votes cast . . . Tommy Yarr, Notre Dame captain, was second in popularity with 14,003 votes.

No question but what Amos' arrest on a murder charge has brought thousands of listeners back to their program, but we raise a brow at the discretion of the sponsors in presenting this gruesome subject to an audience that is composed of many children . . .

Myrt and Marge, incidentally, might be put on trial for this murder . . . they really caused it . . .

Don Bestor broadcasts on WHK (1390 kc.) at 11 o'clock tonight . . .

Joe E. Brown is to speak over KDKA at 7:45 next Monday night from a phonograph record he made while here on his last vaudeville trip . . .

Niagara's majestic roar is to resound once again for radio listeners Saturday, December 19, at 9 p. m., over CBS-WJAS . . . the pickup is to be made by lowering a standard microphone over the crest of the falls . . . In harmony with the rest of the program, Francis Bowman is to narrate one of the best known of Iroquois Indian legends, "The Maid of the Mist," which tells the story of a red-skinned maiden who threw herself into the rushing falls because of unrequited love.

Jan Garber's contribution the Cigaret Dance Hour last night was one of the best so far . . . While the program originated in the studios of WCAE, downtown, the music traveled 1,008 miles before Pittsburghers heard it . . . the mechanical setup required that the program be relayed by direct wire from Pittsburgh to New York to Cleveland before it was put on the air from the WCAE transmitter on the South Side . . .

But that's nothing, says M. F. McGrow, of Crafton, who picked up the Argentina dance band broadcast after it had traveled 10,000 miles—Buenos Aires to New York to Omaha to Crafton.

KDKA has added its short wave station, W8XK, to the Army-Navy game broadcast tomorrow so that Annapolis boys at sea may root for their alma mater . . .

WCAE and KDKA are to take part in the tribute to Marconi, wireless inventor, tomorrow afternoon between 4 and 6:30 . . . Sixteen countries are to be linked for a total air line distance of 70,000 miles . . . Thirty years ago, Marconi sat in Cabot Tower in St. John's, Newfoundland, and heard three faint clicks, a signal from his station in Poldu, England—the beginning of radio wireless . . .

Here's the Cigaret Dance Hour lineup for December: Tuesday, December 15, Jack Hylton from London and Jack Pettis from New York; Thursday, December 17, Coon Sanders from New York; Saturday, December 19, Jack Denny from Montreal; Tuesday, December 22, Teed Weems from Chicago; Thursday, Christmas eve, Seymour Simons from Detroit, Emerson Gill from Cleveland and Herb Gordon from Washington; Saturday, December 26, Jimmy Grier from Los Angeles; Tuesday, December 29, Cab Calloway from New York; Thursday, December 31, Jack Hylton from Paris, France; Jack Denny from Montreal and Al Katz from New York . . .

Henry Biagini, whose orchestra was featured in a CBS broadcast from the military ball at the William Penn not so long ago, is to do another network broadcast from Pittsburgh about the second Friday in January.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK A GLASS OF WATER

Italian Science Working Wonders on Headache and Stomach Sufferers With Simple, Internal Bathing

Why is it that eight out of every ten people today are being miserable, unhappy and inefficient by constant headaches?

Italian science startled the world by giving plain effervescent water before breakfast as the remedy. A homely treatment, but effective sometimes beyond belief. A form of intestinal bathing that makes anemic-looking, pasty-faced, headachy and stomach-acidity people take on new life, new appearance and new health.

The way the treatment works is on the same principle of washing out the intestines every morning before breakfast just like you wash dirt off your face and hands. For just as it is necessary to clean ashes from a furnace before a fire burns bright and clear, so it is necessary to wash out the stomach REGULARLY and guard it.

Otherwise you most likely cause bad condition by mixing the food you eat with ptomaine-like accumulations in the stomach that virtually poison the fresh foods you put in it.

For that reason, every man or woman—whether sick or well—is advised to drink each morning BEFORE BREAKFAST, one-half glass of water with two tablespoonfuls of ordinary Italian Brioschi effervescent in it, followed by a large glass of plain water. That's the whole Italian treatment—tens of thousands of people today are crediting with near-miracles in the relief of constant headaches, sour stomach, acidity, constipation, "bilious" attacks and general lassitude and debility.

The Italian Brioschi effervescent to put with water can be obtained in large cans at any store for a few cents. The way to pronounce the word is Bree-os-kee—ordinary Italian Brioschi. A few days of it will suffice to make most anyone a crank on the subject of intestinal bathing.

East Liberty 'Y.' Plans Travel Talk

The East Liberty branch of the Y. M. C. A., co-operating with A. M. Ocetkiewicz, Polish consul in Pittsburgh, will give the seventh of a series of illustrated travel talks Monday at the Y. M. C. A. Building.

"Poland at Christmas Time" is the title of the program which will include descriptive talks by Joseph Daszewski and John M. Budarz, selections by the Monfuszko Choir and motion pictures of Vilna.

Osteopaths Elect Dr. Spill President

Officers of the Allegheny County Osteopathic Society were elected at the annual meeting of the organization at the Congress of Women's Clubs, Penn avenue, last night. They are: President, Dr. Walter P. Spill, vice president, Dr. R. J. Dunbar; treasurer, Dr. Emma Compton, and secretary, Dr. Fred C. Perkins. Dr. O. O. Bashline, chief surgeon of the Osteopathic Hospital of Grove City, spoke.

TWO GIRLS FACE DEATH QUIZ

Two young women were under arrest today while homicide detectives investigated circumstances attending the death of John Devlin, 27, in a rooming house at 1020 Western avenue, North Side.

An autopsy by the Coroner's office revealed a gas condition in the stomach as the cause of death, but Detective William Harris testified in Morals Court that a second analysis would be made today to determine whether there was poison in the stomach.

One of the women, Sylvia Laughner, 23, tried to end her life Wednesday, Harris quoted neighbors as saying. It was Harris' theory that possibly Miss Laughner and Devlin, attached to each other, had entered into a suicide pact.

Miss Laughner attended to the needs of Devlin, who has been taking food through a tube in the stomach since his throat was burned in an attempted suicide a year ago, Harris testified.

Harris added that he found poison in the bathtub at the rooming house, but the girl charged the detectives had "planted" it there.

The second prisoner, Miss Alice Devlin, 24, of 416 Arch street (no relation), was held simply because she was in the house when detectives arrived.

PRIEST TO LEAD HUNGER MARCH

The Rev. James R. Cox, of Old St. Patrick's Catholic Church today announced he would lead a "hunger march" to Washington. He said he would assume leadership of the marchers to save the demonstration from being branded as the work of "Communists or Reds."

More than 1,000 men from all parts of Western Pennsylvania will take part in the march, Father Cox said. He declared the only object was to impress the authorities with the necessity of immediate action in relieving unemployment, not by insurance or providing food and clothing, but by furnishing jobs.

Father Cox said he did not hope to gain an interview with the President, continuing:

"The ears of our President seem to be open only to the bankers and the very wealthy, and not to the cries of the poor and distressed."

Jefferson Township School Held Model

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 11.—A new central school in Jefferson Township, near here, erected this year at cost of $60,000, has been selected by the State Department of Public Instruction as one of three model schools in the state that will be used as an experimental building.

The state plans to place musical and art courses, manual training and other allied subjects in the school, with the objective of improving rural education.

Gov. Roosevelt 'Fit' After 2 Weeks' Rest

ATLANTA, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—Pronouncing himself in fine physical condition after a two-week vacation at Warm Springs, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today is returning to New York. He plans to be at his desk in the Capitol at Albany Monday morning.

Ask Schmidt Kept As Road Engineer

Retention of Edward L. Schmidt, Mt. Lebanon Township, as chief engineer of the Bureau of Roads in the county Department of Public Works, was asked in a resolution adopted by the Board of Commissioners of Baldwin Township. William E. Armstrong is president.

Mill at Benwood Calls 1,100 Workers

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 11.—The Wheeling Steel Corporation yesterday announced that the Benwood plant of the company would resume in full Sunday evening, including the two buttweld skelp mill, steel works and possibly the lapweld furnace. Over 1,100 workers will return to their jobs.

Bookkeeper Kills Self in Garage

WELCH, W. Va., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—George R. Glenn, 34, bookkeeper at a garage here, shot himself to death at his office yesterday. A letter was found addressed to a brother at Waynesboro, Va. Authorities held that no inquest was necessary. No motive was assigned.

7 Sitting Judges To Be Sworn Dec. 31

Judges of Common Pleas Court, beginning 10-year terms with the New Year, will be sworn in December 31 at 10 a. m., in the assignment room. They are Judge Ambrose B. Reid, re-elected, and Judges Sylvester J. Snee, Samuel H. Gardner, W. Heber Dithrich, William H. McNaugher, John P. Egan and Thomas M. Marshall, sitting by appointment.

McClintic-Marshall Building Oil Barge

Work was started yesterday by McClintic-Marshall Corporation on a 2,500-barrel oil tank barge for the Atlantic Refining Company to be used in the Pittsburgh district. The barge is to be built in the Riter-Conley works at Leetsdale. The craft will be the first all-electrically welded barge of that type to be built in this district.

McGovern Opposed Gollmar; Victory for Coyne

CITY WARS ON PAYROLL CHEATERS

COMMISSIONER DENIED CHOICE FOR SHERIFF

Pinchot Ignored Wishes Of Independent Leader, He Reveals in Radiogram

By MARK SHIELDS

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern did not approve the appointment of Frank I. Gollmar as sheriff of Allegheny County to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Robert S. Cain, who will become County Treasurer in January.

He had communicated this sentiment before the appointment both to Gollmar and Gov. Pinchot.

McGovern's position is explained in a radiogram received from him en route from a vacation in Bermuda and the Caribbean. In response to a radioed question as to his attitude, McGovern replied:

"I did not favor Judge Gollmar for Sheriff, and advised the Governor and Gollmar to this effect some time ago."

This message confirms statements of Independent leaders that McGovern, just before his departure for a rest, assured them he favored another man for Sheriff and would seek to have him appointed.

The Gollmar appointment is viewed as a victory for Senator James J. Coyne, member of the Kline city organization, and a blow to McGovern, without whose approval it had been thought the Governor would make no major appointment in Allegheny County, particularly in what the Independents regard as a key position in their effort to break up the city organization.

Independents have viewed with suspicion the haste with which the appointment was made during McGovern's absence. The Governor's office contends the County Commissioner was kept informed of all developments, and was consulted about the Gollmar appointment.

Gollmar Resigns As Bank Appraiser

Newly-appointed Sheriff Frank J. Gollmar yesterday resigned as an appraiser of the closed American State Bank and Trust Company. The resignation was received by State Secretary of Banking William D. Gordon. No successor has been named.

Sing Sing's Eleven Pittsburgher's Aim

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—"I want to get on the Sing Sing football team," John Becker, Jr., told detectives who asked him today why he got mixed up in an alleged taxicab theft.

Police said Becker and Henry Duffy ran a stolen taxi into an elevated pillar. Duffy landed in a hospital and Becker was accused of larceny. Becker admitted having had a few drinks. He said he was 26 and lived at 201 Winterburn street, Pittsburgh.

Boy Found Hanged On Car Held Suicide

SUNBURY, Pa., Dec. 11.—(INS.)—George Long, 16-year-old school boy, found hanging from the top hand-rung of a gondola car, was apparently a motiveless suicide, police said today. He had been dead two days. He had evidently fastened a slip knot of one end of the rope around his neck and jumped from the top of the box car.

Two Drivers Hurt As Trucks Collide

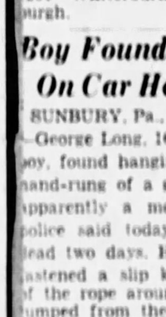
Two truck drivers, Geno Bellaino, 58 Woodville avenue, West End, and Franklin Morin, 3427 Liberty avenue, suffered cuts and bruises when their trucks collided on the Freeport road, near Harmarville, today. Both were treated at Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

DAIREN, Dec. 11.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Gibbons quit me and took the locomotive. These Japanese pilots was flying too close to the tops of the rice fields to suit him. Had a great fight in here (Dairen), the most modern city and port you ever saw, and spent the afternoon visiting historic old Port Arthur, of Russia-Japanese war fame, the birthplace of Japan and the graveyard of old Russia. If I can't find this present war I can find where some of the others were fought. I am only two wars behind.



Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

MRS. J. P. WARNER

Mrs. Warner, 5350 Beeler street, chairman of the public booth sale of Christmas Seals opening today under the sponsorship of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh's workers.

Booths Opened in Downtown District

With society and club women serving as volunteers, booth sale of Christmas health seals, under the auspices of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh, began today at the Pittsburgh postoffice, hotels, department stores and office buildings.

The booth sale will continue through December 22, supplementing the mail sale. Local and national radio programs will be given this week end, starting Saturday night, when Dr. C. Howard Marcy, medical director of the league, speaks from Station WCAE. Sunday a program will be broadcast on the Columbia Broadcasting System at 8 p. m.

Youth's Assailants Sought By Police

Police today were looking for two men who last night attacked Patsy Petergall, 19, of the Kirkwood Hotel, Kirkwood street and Collins avenue, in front of the hotel. The victim, left lying on the sidewalk by his attackers, was taken to the hospital by several men who left without giving their names police said. Petergall was said to be suffering from severe body bruises.

Machado Argues For Longer Term

HAVANA, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—President Gerardo Machado told members of Congress and others last night he believes he ought to be permitted to remain in office until 1935 instead of resigning in 1933 as originally planned by the constitutional reform project.

REED UPHOLDS TRADE WITH RUSSIA

U. S. Gain Great, Senator Says in Denying Peril Of Economic Relations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Senator Reed sees no harm in business trading with Russia and would continue the existing economic relationship with that country.

The Pennsylvania Senator said yesterday all trade with the Soviet nation is "legitimate" except that in products manufactured by indentured labor, such manufacturers are to be barred January 1 under provisions of the tariff act. Reed said:

"We must not confuse economics with political philosophies. It is not sensible to exclude Russian manganese because we do not happen to like their system of government."

WRITES VIEWS

Reed, whose home is at Pittsburgh in the center of a steel producing district using much manganese, gave those views in a letter to J. M. Steele, head of an engineering and construction firm of Philadelphia.

Steele had asked Reed to sponsor legislation barring all Russian-made goods because of "the rapid growth of Communist activities and propaganda" which he said are being carried out by the Soviet trading organization in this country and the Communist party. Steele said:

"While Amtorg (the trade organization) strives by unfair competition to aggravate the depression, Communism is made champion of liberty and equality and Americanism, the enemy."

NO FEAR OF REDS

Saying he was "no more in sympathy with Communism" than Steele is, Reed reminded him of the constitutional guarantees for freedom of speech and freedom of assembly, saying:

"So long as the Communists in the United States stick to persuasion as contradistinguished from force in their efforts to promote their cause, they are within the law.

"The government is watching them and knows everything they do, and there is no reason to be apprehensive on this score.

"So far as the proposal to place an embargo on all Soviet products is concerned, I must say that it does not appeal to me as logical arbitrarily to cut off all Russian communications when we are selling Russia much more than we are buying from her. The balance of Russian-American trade is heavily in our favor."

DONOR OF BLOOD STILL SOUGHT

A satisfactory donor of blood for a transfusion necessary to save the life of Mrs. Julia D. Kosco, of 82 Island avenue, McKees Rocks, a patient in Magee Hospital, was still sought today, following a police call for volunteers over radio and teletype systems late yesterday.

Hospital authorities said laboratory tests were being made but no satisfactory results had been obtained. Several patrolmen responded to the call yesterday, among them Officer James McGuire, of the Oakland radio car, who has donated blood for a number of transfusions.

Hospital authorities declared student nurses may be called upon for tests if the police call does not yield a satisfactory one.

Brewery Raided, Gin Reported Seized

A wildcat brewery housing a bar was raided by state constables and federal agents at 2500 Brownsville avenue. Whisky, gin and beer were reported seized.

Other raids yesterday were made on an alleged speakeasy at 309 Thirteenth street, Braddock, and an automobile in an East street garage.

Bride Sales Like 'Deb' System—Only More Honest, Says Scientist

This business of girls offering themselves in marriage for $5,000 and up is a new form of an old idea, even if cruder, Dr. Nathan Miller, sociologist and anthropologist, of Carnegie Institute of Technology, believes.

The increasing number of pretty girls offering themselves on the block drew this comment from him:

"It's not much different from the debutante system—simply more honest."

Other scientists commented:

"It's in the air to get publicity, to push names ahead of the mob. The attitude is not normal, although thousands of girls would like to do the same thing."

CITES ECONOMIC PHASE

But Dr. Miller maintains it is normal, and predicts that some day there will be an honest service to promote marriages of this kind. He said:

"It's quite normal, only its crude and more public.

"Ever since man has held the economic control, women, without economic status, have had to find ways to establish themselves, and have consented to barter for one reason or another—some for life. In times of distress, such as this, some drop the veneer—the social amenities—and the marriage contract is suggested crudely.

"It's justifiable. Why not? There are a number of men who react to this sort of a proposal—particularly men who are not always able to meet desirable young women, or men with some defects. As the social structure is now, there are only informal ways by which marriages can be made."

BELIEVES THEM SINCERE

Commenting on the impulse inspiring the young women to seek husbands by advertising, Dr. Miller continued:

"I think these girls are sincere. There may be some who do it for show.

"Society makes no provision for cases of this kind. Society provides no old age pensions, no insurance against want. Marriage is a matter of economics, a division of labor. It always has been.

"Marriages in heaven? Well those that were made there belong there.

"Of course the flair of publicity is undoubtedly a part of these proposals. No one can escape, these days, that which H. G. Wells calls 'the most precious commodity of modern times.'

"The fact that such offers are made does indicate a weakening of the social ties, the deterioration of the control and authority of parents. The girls have thrown over the traditional background. It shows that this is possible in this country, where old tradition and restraints have fallen away, with none built up to take the place of the old."

Bellevue Pupils Working For Auto Poster Prizes

Several hundred children between the ages of 10 and 14 are preparing posters in Bellevue public schools under direction of Miss Helen Gates, art instructor, for the Automobile Dealers' Association poster contest, which closes December 17.

The competition is open to all public, parochial, grade, high, industrial and art schools to interest students in creating original poster art work, to create additional interest in the automotive industry and further civic pride.

Prize-winning posters will be displayed at Motor Square Garden during the Automobile show from January 23 to 30. Four prizes totaling $250 will be given to students. Four additional prizes totaling $125 will be awarded teachers of the winning students in appreciation of help and instruction given the students.

Prizes will be awarded at the auto show opening night. Posters will be judged December 18 by three newspapermen, one from each Pittsburgh newspaper, and two other persons to be selected by the Automobile Dealers' Association.

Elephant Will Strangle Self With Own Trunk

By Arthur (Bugs) Baer

Let's take the rest of the year off and look at the Washington huddle.

The Republican tax program will defeat them in 1932 as sure as a pumphandle is iron.

All the Democrats have to do is to mark time and let the elephant strangle itself with its own trunk.

The Mellon tax menu means we are going to get the same old dishes with worse cooking at higher prices.

The Democrats are fighting the administration tax schedule instead of donating more eggs to make the omelet bigger.

That means the Democrats are either honest about it or they are going to put up a sham skirmish with wax bullets.

Then in 1932, they will be able to say:

"Well, it was like the bow-legged man and the greased pig. It got through. But we did our best to stop it."

The more you try to dope out Washington the more you wish that Longstreet and Stonewall Jackson had captured the town.

Witnesses Deny Rum Guilt Hurts Man's Reputation

Three character witnesses in Federal Court held by their testimony that former convictions in liquor cases were not detrimental to the reputation of Angelo Garufi, of Greensburg, on trial before Judge Nelson McVicar on a charge of unlawful possession of whisky and home brew beer.

C. O. Campbell, a former Westmoreland County detective and former Burgess of Latrobe; Edward Brinker, an automobile dealer, and Antonio Prunto, a banker, testified Garufi bore a good reputation in his community.

Cross-examined by Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans, they admitted knowing of Garufi's former convictions on liquor charges. He conducts a confectionery store in Greensburg.

After the jury found him guilty of possessing three quarts of whisky and 12 bottles of home brew beer, the court ordered him to pay a fine of $500 and costs.

Mike Zeravica, of Trafford City, pleaded guilty of violating the prohibition law and was sentenced to serve two months in the Westmoreland County Jail and pay a $200 fine. Twenty-five other defendants pleaded guilty to liquor charges and were fined and placed upon probations.

WELFARE FUND GIFTS LAGGING

A total of $736,477 must be raised by Monday by volunteer workers before the campaign of the Welfare Fund and the Allegheny County Emergency Association can be brought to a successful close. Meeting in William Penn Hotel yesterday, workers reported another $95,993.61 gained in the drive, bringing the total to date to $5,244,707.26. This includes the $750,000 pledged by 20 individuals and corporations providing the remainder needed is raised.

Yesterday's reports indicated that the increases are slow in coming in and unless some big increase boosts the total considerably, there seems slight possibility of reaching the goal by Monday. If the workers fail to collect the necessary amount, they will lose the $750,000 pledged by the corporations and individuals.

Yesterday 205 subscriptions totaling $335 were turned in by the faculty and students at Arnold School.

N. Y. Tops Quota For Welfare Fund

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—The drive for $18,000,000 by New York City's emergency unemployment relief committee went over the top yesterday.

The grand total in the campaign was $18,248,000, with many pledges still to be turned in, Harvey D. Gibson, chairman of the committee, announced.

ALL SHIRKERS ORDERED FIRED BY COUNCIL

Kline Backers Join Foes in Move to Purge List of 'White Collar Laborers'

War on alleged city payroll cheaters was declared by Council today following a declaration by Councilman Charles Anderson there were men drawing pay who didn't do "two minutes' work."

Former supporters of Mayor Kline joined with his avowed opponents in unanimous approval of Anderson's motion to discharge any employe who is found not doing the work for which he is paid.

A motion by President of Council John S. Herron also was passed calling on any Councilman, city officer, employe or any citizen knowing of such instances to inform Council.

PAY FUND DRAWS FIRE

Discussion of a proposed $600,000 wage appropriation in the Highways and Sewers Bureau drew fire of Anderson:

"All members of Council and officials of the Public Works Department know that for the last 12 years there have been white collar laborers who haven't done two minutes' work for the city.

"This is not the fault of the present administration, but is a practice that has gone through all the administrations since I have been in Council."

Herron objected that he didn't know of any such cases. Councilman R. J. Alderdice held the same view. Anderson replied:

"About 12 years ago we had an investigator who went down to the theaters and saw men at the shows who were on the city payroll and should have been working."

Herron said:

"At that time these men proved to us and the Civil Service Commission that they had performed eight hours daily service."

Anderson replied:

"That is a lot of baloney."

REPPERT QUIZZED

Charles M. Reppert, chief engineer of the Public Works Department, said he didn't know of any employes in the Highways Bureau who were not doing their share of work. Anderson returned:

"You couldn't do anything about it if you did now."

Reppert replied:

"I am only an engineer, not the administrative officer of the department."

Chairman W. Y. English, of the budget committee, said:

"I will entertain a motion to fire any man if it can be proved he doesn't do the work he is paid for."

Anderson's and Herron's motions followed.

1 HURT, 2 HELD IN PARTY FIGHT

One man was in South Side Hospital with a possible fracture of the skull, and two others were held by South Side police today as a result of a fight at a party at 2204 Carson street, shortly after midnight.

The injured man is Harry Marx, 24, of 2816 Larkins way. Those under arrest said they were Alex Gentile, 23, of Franklin street, Overbrook, and Alex Warashis, 23, of 129 South Twenty-second street. They were charged with being suspicious persons.

Police said the fight was the result of a remark made to one of Marx's sisters who attended the party, but left before the trouble started.

PAINTERS' WORK OFFERS MUCH LOCAL COLOR

Oil, Water Club Exhibits River, Surburban, Winter And Industrial Scenes

By PENELOPE REDD

The Oil and Water Color Club of Pittsburgh presents a first annual exhibition at Gilbert's, 632 Smithfield street, through December 30.

The club is composed of five young painters, Paul O. Bower, Joseph Durso, Everett W. Glasgow, Robert Reamy and I. T. Sharp.

The collection appeals through its relevancy to Pittsburgh. A majority of the paintings are based upon familiar themes but the themes are enhanced by the artists' difference in seeing the usual.

Penelope Redd

I. T. Sharp has a penchant for the river and the cottages that venture perilously near. November with houseboats perched on the wintry rivers edge seen through a tangle of boughs, demonstrates his romantic vision.

Robert Reamy's eye roves about for feminine loveliness. His "Gypsy" in brilliant scarlet scarf is typical of his complimentary brush.

POETIC TENDENCY

Everett W. Glasgow's group points to an interest that is undaunted by the season. His winter subject, four green pears on a white plate with scalloped edge against a maroon cloth, is as nicely posed a problem in the inter-relations of form as one is likely to see.

When he ventures out of doors in winter to produce a landscape with a brook and sensitively rendered trees, his poetic tendency is in evidence.

The subjects most suited to his poetical transcriptions of realism, however, are the Provincetown series. The prim but characterful houses staunchly accept the menace of the ever-present sea in canvases that are beguiling in composition.

Joseph Durso is quite different again from the others in the group. He has the sensitiveness to convey the mood of nature yet deftly avoids sentimental overemphasis. Even in a suburban landscape, he shows us the unity of persisting earth. Of his group from the Fox Chapel neighborhood, the lost and happy valleys of the Little Pine Creek are his finest contributions.

INDUSTRIAL SCENES

Last, but by no means least, a reverse alphabetical consideration brings us to Paul O. Bower.

Mr. Bower is more daring in his encounters with nature than his confreres. His water colors of the industrial aspect near Pittsburgh are excellent.

"Drave," heroizing a hoist on Neville Island, "Converter Baden," and "McKees Rocks Bridge" meet and conquer the abstract in disarming style.

Mr. Bower's paintings in oil of hilly landscapes are stimulating to the city-bound eye. "Mt. Nebo Hills," the least finished from the viewpoint of the layman, is the most revealing of a fine talent that is on the verge of maturity.

WESTINGHOUSE CUTS PAY RATE

A reduction in the base hourly wage scale for employes of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company was announced today by J. S. Tritle, vice president and general manager of the company. Instructions have been issued to the plant managers to make a reduction which will average 10 per cent, to take effect the first of the year.

In announcing the reduction, Tritle said:

"Immediately upon the change in business conditions starting in October, 1929, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company proceeded to effect economies in all departments. Eventually it became necessary to make reductions in the salary payroll.

"It was hoped that these measures would be sufficient, thereby avoiding reduction in the basic wage scale. In place of an improvement in the electrical business a recession in the third and fourth quarters of 1931 was shown.

"The necessity for a reduction in the base hourly wage scale became evident and instructions have been issued to the various plant managers to make a reduction which will average 10 per cent."

COLDS GO

"Imagine—a miserable cold yesterday—none today"

"My method is simple and sure: the minute I feel a cold coming on, I take a few tablets of Bromo Quinine—that's the one remedy that gets at the cause and eliminates it quickly from the system."

This is what millions of people the world over have discovered about BROMO QUININE.

PHILA. BALKS TAX RISE PROTEST

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—The voice of the people was heard and heeded in Philadelphia's City Council yesterday. Taking warning from a rising city wide protest against an increase in the tax rate, Council surrendered to the will of the protestants and ordered that there be no increase in the tax rate next year.

Council referred back to its finance committee the 1932 budget with binding instructions to slash it to a point where no increase over the present rate shall be required.

The action came after mass meetings had been held last Sunday and Tuesday nights and a demonstration of 5,000 persons on City Hall plaza yesterday under the office window of Mayor Harry A. Mackey.

Council last week decided to increase the tax rate 35 cents from $2.77½ to $3.13 for each $100 of assessed real estate valuation. It also had decided to increase water rates 50 per cent. It had been sitting for a month paring the 1932 estimates and wound up with a budget of $101,453,827.

Policeman Saves Dog Auto Victim From Suicide

Police and residents were puzzled today concerning the escapades of "Tiny," pet airedale of Panfi Bruno, 646 Seventh avenue, West Homestead, last night.

"Tiny's" luck began, police said, when he was struck by an automobile. Officer Harold Russell was sent to investigate. "Tiny" was found lying on the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad with his head pillowed on a rail. A train was bearing down on him.

Russell dragged him from the tracks and carried him home. Bruno asked the officer not to shoot him.

While the men deliberated, "Tiny" got up, wagged his tail, and walked into the house, the officer said.

North Sider's Auto Injures Butler Man

Morris Leceich, of 456 Bessemer avenue, Butler, was injured last night when he was struck by an automobile in the Butler plank road near Glenshaw. The man was taken to St. Francis Hospital by the driver of the car, Frank E. Jones, of 1929 Charles street, North Side.

ARRANGE RITES FOR JULL

The body of Charles H. Jull, 56, vice president of the Pittsburgh-Erie Saw Corporation, who died in Buffalo, N. Y., yesterday, was to be returned today to his home at 325 Breading avenue, Ben Avon, for burial. Mr. Jull died in a hotel in Buffalo, where he had gone on a business trip.

Mr. Jull

Mr. Jull was president of the Pittsburgh Goodwill Industries and a trustee and a member of the official board of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church. He donated a 10-foot revolving electric cross for the church steeple when the edifice was dedicated last May.

Mr. Jull was a member of the Keystone Athletic Club.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Grace Jull, and a brother, Samuel W. Jull, of St. Louis.

18 HENCHMEN OF O'MALLEY ACCUSED

City Officers, Ex-Pugilist Among Aides Sought on Election Fraud Charges

Informations against 19 adherents of P. J. (Pat) O'Malley, Second Ward political leader, have been made before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan, as a result of disorders at the polling place of the Second District in the O'Hara School, Twenty-fifth and Smallman streets, during the primary, it was learned today.

Among those implicated in the charges, which range from assault and battery to conspiracy to prevent a fair election, are John Burkowski, better known as Jack Burke, an ex-pugilist; City Detective William Stewart, Deputy Sheriff Frank Wolowic, Michael Pilecki, city fireman, and Thomas Geary, alderman-elect of the Second Ward.

BEATING CHARGED

At a preliminary hearing Tuesday before Alderman Flanigan, decision was reserved in the case against Burke and Mrs. Helen Rowinski, arrested for assault and battery on information of Mrs. Edward J. Noftz, of 2642 Penn avenue, an anti-Coyne-O'Malley watcher at the voting place. Burke and Mrs. Rowinski kicked and beat her when she attempted to assist a voter who asked her aid, Mrs. Noftz alleged.

In another information Mrs. Noftz preferred a charge of conspiracy to prevent a fair election against Burke, Detective Stewart, Deputy Sheriff Wolowic, Pilecki, Geary, John Bovard, Adolf Levandowski, Clark Smith, Edward Rowinski, John Hickey, Bernard Blume, Andrew Nolan and Michael Sweeney. The information also averred the defendants intimidated voters. Mrs. Noftz is being assisted in the prosecution by Attorney James D. Gray.

FOUR MEN ACCUSED

Matthew Lawton, 29, of 208 Twenty-sixth street, preferred a charge of felonious assault and battery against Edward Burke, Jack Burke's brother; Roland Bonde and two other men for whom "John Doe" warrants have been issued.

Miss Josephine Morgan, who was beaten as she left the polling place, swore to an information against Mrs. Florence McMackin, whose husband was judge of election in the district. Miss Morgan averred Mrs. McMackin struck her in the face when she learned that she voted for the opposing faction.

N. Y. Subway Equipment Order to Recall Workers, Bring Full Christmas Pay

A $1,750,000 order that will mean full Christmas pay for many employes has been received by the Westinghouse Airbrake Company, according to announcement today by S. G. Down, vice president.

The order is for air brakes and couplings for use on 500 cars for the Eighth avenue subway, New York, and is said to be the largest individual order for such electric car equipment ever given.

The contract was let by the American Car Foundry Company, which received the general contract for construction of the cars.

Many men who have been on part time will go on full time and others who have been idle will be recalled to work, Down said. Deliveries are to begin in January.

Viennese Actress Gets Rid Of Accent for Role in 'Marriage Interlude'

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 11.

Universal will launch another foreign star in Luigi Pirandello's "Marriage Interlude."

She is Tala Birell, blonde Viennese actress, who has been in Hollywood since last July getting rid of an accent. Prior to this, she had taken English speaking parts on the London stage, and for British International Pictures.

Universal had her out here a year ago to make the German version of "The Command to Love." Carl Laemmle Jr. liked her work so well he offered to give her a contract as soon as she could return to England and complete engagements there.

Carl Laemmle, Jr.

Since her second arrival here, the studio has conducted a leisurely search for the right vehicle. They were content to wait until she could perfect her English.

Edwin H. Knopf is writing the adaptation of the Pirandello play and William Wyler will direct.

LATEST GOSSIP

To the horror of his fellow writers on the R-K-O lot, Edgar Wallace wrote his first screen story in one day. It is called "Control No. 2." Handing it in, Wallace remarked: "If you don't like this one, I'll do you another tomorrow" . . . So far the English mystery writer has only one fault to find with Hollywood. An inveterate coffee-drinker, he finds the hotel can't serve him when he gets up at 5 a. m. to start work . . . Douglas Fairbanks Jr. had a narrow escape from injury yesterday when his car turned around three times on wet streets and mounted a bank . . . Incidentally, Doug is trying his hand these days at short-story writing. A national magazine is negotiating for a series . . . Dolores Del Rio has 300 different kinds of perfume . . .

Miss Bankhead

Tallulah Bankhead arrived in Hollywood with 50 trunks. She has rented Bill Haines' house and has denied herself temporarily to interviewers. Her first picture does not start for six weeks. In the meanwhile, Paramount has nine stories under consideration . . . Monroe Owsley, now on his way to New York via the canal, will return to Hollywood in February. Buddy Rodgers is another departure. He has left for the East to organize his radio orchestra.

If you want to start a riot, yell fire.

Adela Rogers Hyland was using the telephone, when her young son, Dickie, made a bee-line for the hearth.

"Get away from that fire, Dickie," she cried, "you know better than to do that at Malibu."

IN THE NEWS

Failing to find the right girl in Hollywood, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is trying to borrow Nancy Carroll from Paramount to play the lead in "The Red-Headed Woman." Several obstacles will have to be overcome, however. Nancy is working in New York in "Wayward." When I last saw her she told me she didn't want to return to Hollywood to make another picture unless her husband, Bolton Mallory, could come along, too.

Another M. G. M. rumor is that Dorothy Jordan will have the feminine lead in "The Wet Parade." As this production still is some time in the future, there is small chance of confirming the report. Walter Huston and Lewis Stone are the only two names definitely announced for the cast. Victor Fleming will direct.

HIS WIT SAVED DAY

At one of the early rehearsals for the local stage production of "Grand Hotel," Actor Ian Keith failed to report at the appointed time. When 20 minutes later he still had not arrived, Director Fred Keighley (pronounced Keeley) was looking dangerous.

Just then Keith walked briskly on the set.

Keighley started to tell him about it.

After a moment, Keith smiled.

"What is this I'm getting?" he inquired. "The Keighly Cure?"

Busy Man

Channing Pollock last night attended a rehearsal of his play, "The Enemy," to be given December 18 and 19 by the Dramatic Club of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. At the same time his latest play, "The House Beautiful," will be finishing a week in the Alvin. This afternoon he will lecture for the Drama League in the Twentieth Century Club. He spoke to the Tech drama students Wednesday.

Spanish Strikers Fight Police, 3 Die

ZARAGOZA, Spain, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—One person was killed and three were wounded yesterday in a clash between strikers and police, growing out of the refusal of women factory workers to pay for maternity insurance out of their wages.

GIJON, Spain, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Four police were wounded yesterday in a renewal of fighting with strikers, and 40 agitators were arrested. Two persons have died in the last two days as a result of the dispute.

Horror Film On Stanley Screen

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Frankenstein," screen adaptation of the novel, by Mrs. Shelley, of a young scientist who created a monster that destroyed him, and thus gave the world a synonym for dangerous ambition, is on the screen in the Stanley. Only, in the film, the monster does not destroy Frankenstein, which is the name of the student and not the monster.

There has to be a "happy ending" in films so this has one, which seems a little extra silly, as the picture as a whole is unpleasant and a little more horror that would be provided by sticking to the text of the novel wouldn't make it any more terrible than it is.

GHOULISH YET CHEATS

"Frankenstein" didn't please this reviewer, but that is not to say that it may not "appeal" to a great many. It has been drawing well, wherever shown, and it is expected to do so here. It is ghoulish and yet it cheats on its horrors. It lets you see the grave and gibbet being robbed and the dissecting room looted to provide material to manufacture the monster, but only by suggestion to you get the idea that it is fabulous destroyer. You actually see only one murder, and there isn't anything gory about even that one. Hence, "Frankenstein" could be lot more grisly, for one thing. We've seen "Macbeth" and "Hamlet" and blood—on the stage—doesn't fease us.

So, if you are tender-hearted and adult, pay no attention to the admonition that it is "not intended for children," and accept as true the statement that most of the terror is that of suggestion and the contemplation of the forbidding visage of the monster. In fact, the only remarkable thing about the picture is this characterization, which is a masterpiece of makeup and harrowingly realistic acting by Boris Karloff, who, as a result, is being compared to the late Lon Chaney.

STORY IS TRIVIAL

The story is trivial, being that of a young student who alarms his friends and sweetheart by his queer actions and his absence from home. They decide to seek him out and enter his distant laboratory, in an abandoned windmill, just at the time he is about to succeed in bringing life to an assemblage of arms, legs, etc., taken from graves and the gallows, and the brain of a criminal, taken from a medical college. The hokus-pokus thereof seems very impressive, with a lot of electrical machines in use. The monster lives, wreaks havoc and is destroyed by the mob seeking it, after it has killed several persons and injured its creator.

Colin Clive does good work as the young student, Frankenstein. Mae Clark plays the sweetheart and John Boles is a mutual friend, who gets into most of the action. Edward Van Sloan, as a university professor, and Dwight Frye, as a dwarf who does the grave-robbing, are very good in their roles.

Girls Get By In Fulton Film

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Girls About Town" came to the Fulton screen yesterday. It is one of these breezy, frisky pictures, that gets the laughs and so gets by.

Lilyan Tashman and Kay Francis are the girls. They are a couple of ladies who take a bromo seltzer and an evening paper for breakfast. They spend the night hours digging for gold.

Eugene Pallette, the rotund cowboy of many westerns, and Joel McCrea, who is a better looker than an actor, arrive on the scene as a couple of big business men from Lansing, Mich. Miss Francis falls for Joel in that big way and Miss Tashman falls for Eugene's bankroll in still a bigger way.

Eugene is quite the village cut-up. He tries his practical jokes on everyone he meets. He peeps into stateroom windows behind false faces and he juggles glasses of water. But he's stingy. He hates to part with a buffalo nickel, let alone a George Washington dollar. However, Miss Tashman is the capable one. She finally gets $52,000 worth of jewelry out of him.

Well, everything ends merrily. Miss Francis lands in the arms of true love and Miss Tashman continues in the mining business.

HOSPITAL HEAD, SECRETARY WED

Abraham Oseroff, director of Montefiore Hospital, was honeymooning in the East today with his former secretary, who was Miss Irma Hirshberg, as the culmination of a romance begun more than a year ago.

The two were wed at a quiet ceremony yesterday morning in Rodef Shalom Temple, with Rabbi S. H. Goldenson officiating, and left on a two weeks' wedding trip.

At the marriage license office Oseroff gave his age as 42 and his address as 1821 Murdoch street. Miss Hirshberg gave her age as 24. She is a daughter of Mrs. Sol Hirshberg, 5680 Munhall road.

Oseroff has been head of the Montefiore for two years and previously had been a member of the board of directors and vice president. Prior to coming here he was European representative for a New York department store. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The Nixon, which is winding up its week of comedy of "As Husbands Go" with night shows tonight and Saturday and the Saturday matinee, and then will take a holiday while the rest of us prepare for one, has no booking as yet for that period, but is expecting to be notified of one almost any minute. Meanwhile, "As Husbands Go" so go you.

Small Timer wonders if the unemployment-relief extra session of the legislature was called only to give employment to the legislators.

Channing Pollock has written about war and religion and labor, and one wonders if all are not factors, in a way, of "The House Beautiful," which is a story of domestic life. When it comes to the Alvin next week as the third offering in the Professional Players series, it will have the original cast, headed by Mary Philips and James Bell. For those not allowed out at night, and those who don't want to be, there'll be afternoon shows Wednesday and Saturday.

Small Timer says there are only 12 more days in which to do your Christmas-present hinting.

Evidence Concluded In Triple Murder

IDABEL, Okla., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Presentation of evidence against Charles Draper, brawny mountaineer, accused of murder in the death of three men whose nude bodies were found in "Dead Man's Hollow," October 19, has been completed.

Defense attorneys said they would seek a reduction of the charges to manslaughter on the grounds that Draper was "crazy drunk."

Draper decided after the birth of a boy to his wife last month to fight the state's efforts to send him to the electric chair.

Russian Plays For Screen

Cecil B. De Mille has about decided to desert his million dollar bathroom scenes in order to depict life in Russia, where bathing is done au naturel in the river during the summer and more or less dispensed with in wintertime.

Returning to New York this week from an eight months' trip to Europe and the Orient, De Mille brought back with him two Russian plays and a host of stills made during his 5,000-mile tour.

Asked whether he had made a definite decision to produce films in Russia, he said:

"I am strongly considering making pictures there upon invitation of the Soviet government. Russia is a most interesting country, more interesting than any save America. There is more drama there to the square inch than is to be found here by the square mile. The Russians live beautifully and intensely."

WARD TRAFFIC PRIZES TONIGHT

Prizes will be awarded to 250 winners in the fifth annual traffic essay contest of the Better Traffic Committee tonight in Syria Mosque. President of Council John S. Herron will award the $2,250 in prizes, it was announced by Walter Rosenbaum, chairman of the education section of the committee.

A feature of the program will be a model radio safety program in which firemen, traffic policemen, school safety patrols and school musicians will appear. Speakers will be Herron, Frank X. Duggan, chairman of the traffic committee; Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools; the Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent of parochial schools, and Councilmen W. Y. English and M. J. Muldowney.

R. H. Edgar, of the Horace Mann School, will lead community singing and the Schenley High School band play. The exercises will close the contest in which 5,500 essays were submitted by pupils in 70 parochial and 144 public schools.

Gun Threat Story Wins Wife Divorce

Mrs. Jean G. Collingwood, of Marion avenue, Bellevue, a private secretary, was locked in a pantry by her mother to escape her husband's threats to shoot her in June last, she testified in Common Pleas Court. Judge John M. Egan granted her a divorce from Blair M. Collingwood, of Bellevue.

They were married July 3, 1926, and lived with her parents in Bellevue. Collingwood associated with other women, drank and stayed away from home nights, and once struck her, Mrs. Collingwood testified. He neglected to pay his debts after an inheritance of $14,000 from an aunt, she said. The suit was uncontested.

Department Store Santa Claus

Three weeks at most—and after that who knows
What fate has laid away in store for him?
Poor pay of course—but soon the Winter's snows
Will have their day, and pickings now are slim;
A bell to ring—a costume made of red,
A jolly voice to greet the passing throng,
He bends to smile and pat a youngster's head,
And time turns back and carries him along.

Through misty eyes he sees a touseled boy,
Who creeps downstairs with wonder in his eyes,
And lifts with awe each dear and tinselled toy—
Gay tokens of a fleeting Paradise;
(Three weeks to go—and after, who can tell?
He sets his smile—and sounds his cheery bell!)

—Don Wahn.

Merciless Truth

Take it from Herman Timberg—Cholly Chaplin hardly needs a press agent on this side what with Lita Grey and Mildred Harris keeping his name in electric lights.

And on the front pages.

Proof

In a restaurant last night one of the big-time comedians was telling his listeners that he had decided to take a certain gag out of his act.

"Aw, don't be a dope!" argued Izzy Elinson. "That's one of the funniest gags you have!"

"Oh, how good can it be?" groaned the comic. "I've been using it three nights already, and nobody stole it yet!"

Simile

By Sam Rose:

"Knocked him flatter than the feet of a jobless actor who had visited every booking agency in town!"

Just for the Records

"Since you call anyone for erroneous statements," writes Admirer, "I want to correct the legend that Harpo Marx never spoke a word on the stage in his theatrical career.

"At one time I was the musical director for the 4 Marx Brothers when they appeared in 'Fun in Hi School.' That was just before they went on the Major Circuits. They did the gag than went: 'Do you know your alphabet?'—'Sure I do!' said Harpo—'All right, let's hear it!' yelled Groucho, and Harpo snapped: 'Do you want to hear the little letters or the capital letters?'"

And they got on the Big Time!

Love Me

Love me with burning intensity
Or let it fade and die,
The star beyond the farthest star
Is closer, love, than I.

He's Telling Me!

And Al Klein, who hasn't made the column in over a year, observes that Broadway is where you can trust any man—until he turns a corner.

It Really Happened!

It concerns the N. Y. office of a well-known film firm. A publicity man was building ballyhoo for one of those rise and fall pictures, and in the newspaper ads he blurbed:

"From the Heavenly Heights into the Arms of Lucifer."

Next day the producer, button-holed him and fumed:

"Hey, who is this Lucifer? Do I know him?"

"Listen," countered the amazed p.a., "the dizziest blonde in the place knows Lucifer. Don't kid me."

So they took the advertisement to the switchboard gal and questioned her.

"Nope," she noped, "he ain't ever been up here."

"So there you are!" screamed the producer, as he fired the p. a.

The Morning Mail

"Dear Walter," writes J. H. Burke, the advertising manager for the Marlboro, Mass., Daily Enterprise—that city's best newspaper! "We had our city election the other day, and Morton L. Stevens, candidate for the school board, reached the constituency in a novel manner. Mr. Stevens wrote an open letter to you, advertised it on our political page, and went into office by a substantial majority. Thought you'd like to know."

Early December days are days of anticipation of the approaching holiday season. Just now society folk are busy doing their Christmas shopping, adding new gowns to their wardrobes for the holiday festivities, and holding small informal luncheons.

Among these is the luncheon Mrs. William M. Robinson, of Westminster place, gave yesterday afternoon in her home in honor of Mrs. Alan Garland. Before her marriage in June Mrs. Garland was Miss Sara Thompson of Edgewood.

Passing host visits to New York recently: Mrs. Morgan B. Schiller stopped at the Weylin; the James B. Dews at the St. Regis Hotel, and Mrs. John O. Brown and Mrs. Benjamin F. Jones, Jr., at the Savoy-Plaza.

A recent debutante is betrothed. Her mother, Mrs. James Hay Reed, Jr., of Castleman street, is making known today the engagement of her daughter, Frances Preble Reed, to James Chambers McKay, son of the Thomas Jefferson McKays of Morewood avenue. Just when the wedding will be has not yet been decided.

Members of the 1927 Pittsburgh-Mississippi Gulf Tour and their families will be the guests of Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, at a theater party Monday evening in the Theater of the College of Fine Arts. A special performance of "Kismet" will be given by students of the department of drama.

Rossyn Farms Women Present New Congeries

An unusually beautiful edition of Congeries, its "magazine," was published yesterday by the Rosslyn Farms Woman's Club when the members met with Mrs. W. C. Plummer of King's Highway. Mrs. W. M. Henry dressed to represent a grandmother sitting at the fire turned the pages of the big book, the children of members furnishing its contents. While the chorus sang a cradle song to Mrs. H. M. Austin's piano accompaniment, little Peggy Plummer and her dolls came down the stairs to sit quietly beside the grandmother and to see four little fairies, Betsy Bell, Mildred Hamilton, Sally Parrish and Lucy Riddle, dance. Jane Parrish in pajamas, did a Teddy Bear dance and joined the fireside circle. Dorothy Dignam's contribution was a wooly lamb dance and Jane Moore, arms filled with packages, interpreted "The Spirit of Christmas" in another dance number. Then, to close Mrs. L. K. Hoffman, in the costume of an English waife, and carrying a bell and lantern, led the choral through the house singing carols. There was also ensemble caroling from time to time throughout the afternoon. Tea, with Mrs. W. H. Parrish and Mrs. John Baglin at the table, concluded what was one of the most delightful programs the club has had in a decidedly original year.

Alumnal Group Plans Series Of Parties

The Dilworth Hall Alumnae is holding a series of bridge parties in the homes of the members. This year, instead of the annual benefit bridge, the various members entertain 6 to 10 tables at a party. The proceeds are contributed to the Janet L. Brownlee scholarship fund, which the organization is giving to the Pennsylvania College for Women.

Recently Mrs. Paul D. Hutchison of Browning road gave a bridge assisted by Mrs. M. R. Balbom, Mrs. J. Frank McClurg, Mrs. B. F. Daley, Mrs. Oscar Bierer and Mrs. C. Bradley Gibson, and another was given by Mrs. Albert S. Crandon of Woodwell street, assisted by Mrs. Thomas F. Sheppard, Mrs. H. A. Kohman and Mrs. Robert E. Dinkey. Today Mrs. Benjamin F. Daley, assisted by Mrs. Paul D. Hutchison, will entertain six tables at her home in Bryant street.

RAIN POSTPONES MERCY RITES

Exercises commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of the Sisters of Mercy were continued today at Mt. Mercy College and Our Lady of Mercy Academy, Oakland, as well as in more than 15 parochial schools.

Ground breaking for a new activities building at Mt. Mercy College were postponed, because of rain, until Monday.

Students' day was observed today. The Rev. Jerome D. Hannan, chaplain of the college, officiated at mass, which was sung by the choir of the Academy High School. The Rev. D. A. Lawless, pastor of St. Mary's Church, of the Point, preached the sermon. A purse was presented to the college in behalf of the student body by Miss Dorothy Engel.

This afternoon a pageant was to be presented in the nurses' building of Mercy Hospital.

WOMAN HELD UP IN STORE

Mrs. Edna Emlich, manager of a chain grocery at 1800 Jenny Lind street, looked up from her work this morning to see a big blue steel revolver pointing at her. A negro, holding the revolver, commanded silence, stepped behind the counter to extract $60 from the cash register and fled.

Mrs. Emlich told police that the man in the store was accompanied by another Negro, who remained on the street and acted as a lookout. The one in the store, Mrs. Emlich said, had been in the store yesterday and begged some sugar.

The store is located in a residential section and has been held up several times, according to the police. Mrs. Emlich ran to a telephone in a nearby store and summoned police.

Club News

The Review Club held its annual Christmas party and guest day at the home of Mrs. James C. C. Holding, Bryant street, yesterday afternoon, with Mrs. E. M. Henkel and Mrs. J. E. Foreman as assistant hostesses. Entertainment included piano selections by Miss Helen Osborne; Christmas carols by Mrs. John Chislett, accompanied by Miss Elsie Guffey; a Christmas story read by Mrs. Guy E. Thurber, and a one-act play given by Mrs. Holding, Mrs. George MacGregor, Miss Jean Wood and Mrs. James C. Murdoch. Miss Laura Ann Holding, Mrs. James C. C. Holding, Jr., and Miss Virginia R. Murdoch served as aides.

TORNADO KILLS 2 IN ARKANSAS

TEXARKANA, Ark., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Two persons were killed, three seriously injured and several others were slightly hurt in a tornado which struck north of here early today.

The storm, accompanied by a terrific downpour, struck about a mile north of Texarkana, demolishing two homes and killing J. E. Hardin and Mrs. H. L. Perry. Two Hardin children were found in a field, having been blown from their bed. Mrs. Perry's husband also was hurt.

About a mile northeast of the Hardin home, the storm hit a log cabin and a church. A Negro, his wife and seven small children were found in the cabin wreckage, but all had escaped with minor injuries. The church was demolished.

Hoover and Cabinet Pose for Photograph

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP)—President Hoover sat in a chair upon the White House lawn today surrounded by his full cabinet while a solid bank of cameras clicked—the first picture of the full cabinet in more than a year, and the first since Secretary Doak became the Labor Secretary.

Sisson, Prober in Capitol Graft, Dies

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A. E. Sisson, 81, former state auditor-general, died at his home here today after a long illness. Sisson, who for many years was Senator from Erie County, was a member of the commission which investigated the capitol building scandal.

DRYS DEFENDED BY WOODCOCK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Prohibition Director Woodcock talked his job over with the Crusaders, most militant of anti-dry groups, last night and all had a thoroughly good time.

Invited to speak by the anti-prohibitionists, the Colonel accepted immediately, and told them with all politeness they were making his job more difficult. They fired sharp questions at him, tried to get him to admit the Eighteenth Amendment could not be enforced. He smiled and kept out of all traps.

The Crusaders cheered his statement that enforcement is more lawful and gentlemanly than ever before.

CO-ED'S KIDNAP STORY DOUBTED

COLCHESTER, Vt., Dec. 11.—(INS)—Rebuffed in attempt to question Miss Esther Pitts, 20-year-old University of Vermont "model" co-ed, who said she was kidnaped, drugged and carried to Montreal, State's Attorney Frederick W. Wakefield, Jr., today said he was frankly skeptical of the story.

Refused permission to talk to Miss Pitts because of her hysterical and nervous condition, Wakefield said that if the girl and her parents continued to refuse to discuss details of the alleged kidnaping he would subpena them.

The girl, pale and hysterical and close to another nervous breakdown, was in seclusion at the home of her parents today. Known as the "ideal college girl," Miss Pitts was found sobbing in Windsor railroad station Montreal, after she had telephoned her father and mother yesterday.

7 'NUMBERS' SUSPECTS HELD

Seven men arrested when state police raided an alleged lottery headquarters at 1268 second avenue, New Kensington, are under $1,000 bond for court trial.

Charles Cheatam, Earl Fields, William Barnett, who gave the Second avenue address as their residence; C. H. Massey and John Daugherty, of New Kensington; Larkin Moore, 38, of Ford City, and Lewis Fitzpatrick, of Lincoln Beach are accused of conducting a numbers racket in valley towns. Police said they seized several books, $100 in cash and equipment.

Two Runaway Girls Returned to Home

Two runaway girls, in Morals Court today, were turned over to their parents on condition they report to the Missing Persons Bureau each Tuesday for three months. They are Mary Schott, 18, of 1228 Buena Vista street, and Dorothy Laughlin, 17, of Buena Vista street.

Mountains Scoured For Lynching Mob

LEWISBURG, W. Va., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The mountains of Greenbrier County were searched today by state and county officers seeking evidence as to the identity of the members of the mob that lynched two Negro prisoners here yesterday after storming the Greenbrier County Jail.

Von Luckner Fasts One Day Each Week

Because his father discovered the lions in a German zoo went without food one day a week, and he lived to be 98, Count Felix von Luckner, German sea raider, takes no nourishment one day out of the seven, he told members of the Westinghouse Club in Wilkinsburg last night.

Mail Truck Stolen In New Kensington

Police today were seeking thieves who stole a mail truck from a garage in the rear of the New Kensington postoffice early today.

According to police, the truck, containing two empty mail bags, was temporarily parked in the street to relieve congestion in the garage.

SNIPER KILLING LAID TO BOY

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A boy of 16, shooting at a street light and killing a woman instead, was called to court today to answer a charge of murder.

Erwin Flaster, high school student, admitted last night that he fired the shot which fatally wounded Mrs. Grace Juliano, 28-year-old bride, while she was drawing a bath in her home.

Four other youths, who with Flaster comprised a neighborhood rifle club, faced arraignment as material witnesses. The boys held their regular practice session Wednesday in the attic of Flaster's home. A particularly bright street light was the object. Two had missed and it was Flaster's turn. He fired. There was a crash of glass and screams of a woman. The bullet struck Mrs. Juliano's back. She died half an hour later.

U. S. Town Claims Mary's Little Lamb

STERLING, Mass., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Published reports of the death in London of Mary Hughes and the claim that she was the Mary in the Mary's Little Lamb nursery rhyme, have brought a protest.

Sterling residents claim the school in which Mary's lamb caused such commotion was located in Sterling until Henry Ford removed it to his Wayside Inn estate, and that the original Mary was Mary E. S. Sawyer, of this town, and the author of the poem was John Roulstone, at that time a student at Harvard College.

Oyster Yields Pearl, Finder Refuses $125

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Dec. 11.—C. H. Temple, a telephone supervisor, found a pearl in a bowl of oysters at a restaurant today. He refused $125 offered by a local jeweler.

PARROT'S CRIES REVEAL KILLING

NEW CANEY, Tex., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A 22-year-old motion picture projection machine operator was sought today as the suspected slayer of two members of an itinerant minstrel show.

Shrieks of a starving parrot, rising above the slapping of the canvas walls of the L. H. Brownlee Mobile Minstrels' tent, led to the discovery of the bodies late yesterday. The man was believed to have been Brownlee, about 55, and the woman, a gypsy performer. The victims' heads were crushed with an ax.

Two coons, a wildcat and a monkey were in small cages in one corner of the tent. Apparently they had not been fed for about a week.

WAR INFLATION SEEN IN SLUMP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Wartime inflation was described today as the underlying cause of business troubles by Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago banker, who has been suggested for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Before the Senate Manufactures Sub-committee considering proposals for a national economic council, he said there was an inflation of credit in excess of $200,000,000,000, which started the world off with that much debt following the conflict. The major portion of this burden, he said, fell on the United States.

American exports were tremendous and production was further stimulated by consumer credit, Taylor said, and speculation was a natural consequence.

Stepfather Linked In Girl's Suicide

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Mildred Piller, 20, daughter of a former New York business man, died at a hospital here today. Police said her death was due to poison self-administered.

The girl and her widowed mother had lived here for a year. She had been seen much in company with a Budapest physician whom her mother recently married.

DOLL LADY

Headquarters Crowded With Little Girls, All of Whom Are Delighted With Glorious

"Honeybunch"

—the Aristocrat of All Big Dolls!

Read the Doll Lady's Message Today:—

Dear Little Girls:—

I told you a week ago that the rush for my Christmas dolls was on. I told you the truth, but the rush of a week ago was nothing compared with the demand that is on today! My headquarters puts me in mind of a beehive—it is more than humming with activity. All day long it is crowded with happy little Pittsburgh girls who have come in for their "Honeybunches," and I have a big force of assistants wrapping and packing dollies for shipment to little girls outside of Pittsburgh.

Little Lois Claire Dittman was thrilled yesterday when the Doll Lady gave her "Honeybunch"

Christmas is altogether too near to suit me, because I have so much to do in the few short days before Santa Claus comes to Pittsburgh. I heard yesterday that good old Santa doesn't know anything about the depression that everybody is talking about. I heard that he is going to bring just as many toys and dolls to little girls as usual. The crowds in the stores seem to bear me out in this statement. Anyway, I am glad that I am here with hundreds of "Honeybunches" to take some of the burden from that droll wit some little fellow.

I suppose the reason I am so fearfully busy is because I have made "Honeybunch" so easy to get. Twice as many children have already received one of my dolls this year than a year ago at this time. Everybody seems to have discovered that "Honeybunch" is really a glorious big doll. You can get an idea of how big she is by looking at the picture in this announcement and you can see how gorgeously she is dressed—dainty colors, lace trimmed and everything. You will fall in love with her charming voice and flirting eyes, her laughing dimples, her cute rubber hands and arms, and you'll be surprised at the many, many things she can do.

Yes, you can have a "Honeybunch" all for yourself. I have a big supply on hand—there will be no disappointments if the little girls will do the simple things I ask them to do. Send me your name and address on the coupon in this announcement and I will send you a letter telling just how you can get a "Honeybunch."

Here are the names of some of the little girls of Pittsburgh who already have secured a "Honeybunch": Margaret Wachter, 22 Diamond Square; Ida Mae Reagan, 236 Glenwood Ave.; Alma Cross, 297 S. Elizabeth St.; Rosetta Miller, 318 Paulson Ave.; Evelyn Zona, 406 S. Evaline St.; Jeanne Shelby, 421 Ella St.; Elizabeth Gardner, 521 S. Braddock Ave.; Hilda Held, 839 Peralto St.; Marilyn R. Gordon, 933½ Lilac St.; Rita Long, 1435 Penn Ave.

Here are the names of some of the little girls outside of Pittsburgh who have already taken home a "Honeybunch": Dorothea E. Corcoran, Duquesne; Betty R. Ashton, Elizabeth; Jeanne Wunder, Greenock; Joan Davidson, Jeannette; Mary E. McAllister, McKeesport; Margaret Brown, Monaca; Jeanne Brisbin, Parnassus; Kathryn Sue Black, Parnassus; Eleanor Rogan, Slovan; Mary C. Briggs, Steubenville, Ohio.

CLAM GUMBO—Drain from their liquor enough small clams to make a solid pint. Clean clams, cut out the hard parts. Put these through the food chopper, add to the clam liquor enough fish stock or water to make up a quart and in this cook the clams with the chopped portion for 15 minutes allowing the mixture to simmer only. Cook 1 tablespoonful of minced onion in 4 tablespoons of fat until nicely browned; add 3 tablespoons of flour, stir until smooth and turn into kettle containing the clams. Stir until the whole boils. Add 1 cup of canned okra and 1½ cups steved tomatoes, salt and peper to season. Boil up once before serving. Serve with toasted water crackers.

ESCALLOPED PORK CHOPS AND POTATOES—Season 6 pork chops with salt and pepper and sprinkle with flour. Brown well on both sides in butter. Butter a casserole and place chops in the dish, cover with finely chopped carrot and onions (1 carrot and a small onions). Now brown ¾ of a tablespoon of chopped onion in 2 tablespoons butter for 2 minutes. Then add 4 tablespoons flour, stirring until smooth; then add 1 cup stock or water. Stir in 1 tablespoon lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste, and ½ teaspoon paprika, and pour this over the chops. Bake them in a slow to moderate oven for 1 hour. When they have cooked 30 minutes and 1 small potato, diced.

* * *

SILVER LINING FUDGE—Part 1: One cup sugar, 1 tablespoon light corn syrup, 1-3 cup milk, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup shredded cocoanut. Part 2: One cup sugar, 1 tablespoon light corn syrup, 1-3 cup milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 square chocolate, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ cup nut meats, ½ cup pasteurized dates.

Part 1: Place sugar, corn syrup and milk in a deep saucepan. Stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved, then cook to soft ball stage (236-238 degrees F.). Remove from stove; add butter and vanilla; cool until lukewarm; then beat until creamy; add cocoanut and turn into buttered loaf pan.

Part 2: While Part 1 is cooling, place sugar, corn syrup, milk and chocolate in a saucepan. Proceed as in Part 1. Add chopped nuts and dates and pour this chocolate mixture over the cocoanut mixture (Part 1 mixture) in the loaf pan. Cut in small squares when cold. About 1¾ pounds.

* * *

CHOCOLATE OAT MACAROONS—One and one-half cups rolled oats, ¾ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons melted butter, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 ounces chocolate. Cream the sugar and butter. Add the eggs, salt and chocolate which has been melted over hot water. Stir in the oats and baking powder, and when well mixed add the vanilla. Drop on a greased cookie pan, about three inches apart. Bake 15 minutes.

* * *

OYSTER COCKTAIL: Allow 6 oysters per person. Serve on half shells; arrange on cracked ice in deep plate; or mix oysters with cocktail sauce and serve in stemmed glasses. Prepare cocktail sauce as follows: 1 cup catsup; 3 tablespoons chili sauce; 2 tablespoons vinegar; 2 tablespoons horseradish, which has been soaked for 10 minutes in 2 tablespoons cold water; few drops pepper sauce; ½ to 1 teaspoon salt; dash of pepper. Mix all ingredients thoroughly together. This makes about 1 2-3 cupfuls of sauce.

* * *

ORANGE CANDIED SWEET POTATOES: 1 cup orange juice, ½ teaspoon grated orange rind, 1 cup water, ½ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons light corn syrup, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup butter, 6 to 8 sweet potatoes.

Combine first seven ingredients and pour over peeled uncooked sweet potatoes arranged in casserole or baking dish. Bake covered in a moderate oven (375-400 degrees F.) until tender, 30 to 40 minutes. Baste occasionally. Remove lid last 10 minutes to brown. Serve six. Variations: Just before removing from oven, add a layer of marshmallows and brown.

* * *

MODIFIED MAYONNAISE—Two egg yolks or 1 whole egg, 4 tablespoons vinegar or 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 cup salad oil, 1¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon mustard, ⅓ cup flour, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup cold water, 1 teaspoon sugar.

Put egg yolks, vinegar, spices, seasonings and vinegar into mixing bowl. Make paste of flour and water, cooking until thick and the raw starch has disappeared. Add the butter. While still hot, pour this paste into the mixing bowl with the other ingredients and beat all with rotary egg beater until thoroughly blended and a uniform dressing results. Keep in covered jar.

* * *

TASTY SANDWICH—One small loaf of sandwich bread, ½ cup of chopped pecans, ¼ cup of pimento, ripe olives, butter, 1 cup grated pineapple, 1 cup cream cheese, ½ cup mayonnaise.

Cut the loaf of sandwich bread in slices lengthwise and butter. Make a filling with the cream cheese, grated pineapple, chopped nuts, chopped pimento and enough mayonnaise to spread nicely. Spread the buttered slices and place one on top of the other, forming a loaf again. Make a thick paste of the cream cheese, using mayonnaise. Spread over the loaf as though iceing a cake. Use pastry tube to make fancy designs, using whole nut meats and sliced olives. Place on a platter and when ready to serve slice crosswise and serve as sandwiches with a hot drink.

* * *

FISH CAKE SANDWICHES are equally good served as breakfast or noonday luncheon sandwiches. Make the fish cakes as follows: Flake enough salt codfish to make 1 cupful, pare and cut into pieces 2 cupfuls of potatoes, boil together without soaking the fish until the potatoes are very tender, then drain, mash well, add 1 well-beaten egg, and pepper to taste. No salt will be required, but a very little milk may be added, if the mixture seems too dry. Make up into finger-length rolls and wrap each in a strip of wafer-thin bacon. Arrange two of the bacon-wrapped fish rolls on rounds of biscuit dough, set in a hot oven and, when the bacon crisps, turn the fish rolls to cook on the other side. When the biscuits are done, serve at once with chili sauce.

* * *

HOT CHICKEN SANDWICHES are nice for supper when the Sunday dinner has had chicken for its piece de resistance. Cut into very small pieces enough of the cold chicken to make 1 cupful and slice very fine half a cupful of canned button mushrooms. Saute the latter in 1½ tablespoons of butter, add 1 tablespoon flour and cook to a paste; pour in ¾ cupful of milk and stir till thick. Add the chicken, 1 well-beaten egg and a teaspoon of chopped parsley and simmer for a few moments. Serve between slices of bread lightly buttered and then browned on both sides in a pan. If this part of the operation is done on the table grill, the sandwiches will be deliciously crisp and fresh. Serve with a glass of

Children's Energy, Growth Promoted by Milk

The only food known to mankind which, in itself, is complete, should never be neglected in the diet of kiddies and adults.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City,
United States Senator From New York.

Because of economic depression there has been a gradual decrease in the daily amount of milk consumed. This is unfortunate and unwise. The necessity of giving the children as much milk as possible cannot be over-emphasized. If any stinting of foods is necessary, it should be done with something less essential to health.

In milk we have our greatest protection against disease. It is the only food known to mankind, which, in itself, is a complete food. It is by all odds the most important thing we consume.

Milk is palatable, easily digested and may be used in the preparation of a variety of foods. From an economic point of view, it is one of the cheapest of the standard articles of food. No matter what its price, milk should be generously provided in every home.

The importance of this food for children is well known. For many years all public health officials have stressed the importance of a quart of milk daily for every growing child. It should be included in the diet of every man and woman.

Milk promotes health. It gives those important things that are needed for energy and growth. Good bones and good teeth are possible only by the drinking of large amounts of milk.

An investigation conducted in Scotland definitely proved the importance of milk in relation to the growth of children. In this survey more than 20,000 children were examined, of whom 5,000 received raw milk, 5,000 pasteurized milk and the remaining 10,000 children did not receive the usual quota of milk.

From the studies of these children, it was found that milk added to the diet produces a definite increase in the rate of growth both in height and weight. Its use showed definite improvement in the quality of the school work. The experiment was of great interest to all concerned.

Here is a food that decreases the early death rates. It brings about a very definite improvement in the health. It adds length of life to those who partake of this food. It is wise to take a lot of milk.

SPANISH SANDWICHES are especially inviting and piquant and make a delightful noonday luncheon, served with a perky salad and a beverage. Chop enough green pepper and onion to make 2 tablespoonfuls of each, saute in 1 tablespoonful of butter to a light brown, then add a scant cupful of thick tomato pulp and simmer five to seven minutes. Stir in a cupful of soft grated cheese, ½ teaspoonful salt, ¼ teaspoonful paprika and 1 well beaten egg. Cook just a moment or two, then serve at once, spread thickly between slices of freshly made buttered toast.

* * *

STUFFED EGG CANAPES—Three hard cooked eggs, 1 tablespoon grated cheese, 1 teaspoon grated onion, salt and pepper, 2 tomatoes, 2 sardines, ½ cup mayonnaise, ½ tablespoon minced green pepper, ½ tablespoon minced olives or onions, ½ cup chili sauce, 1 tablespoon minced pickle, 6 stuffed olives.

Cut eggs in halves. Remove yolks, mash and mix with cheese and grated onion. Season with salt and pepper. Fill whites with yolks mixture. On a round of toast place a slice of tomato spread with a paste of mashed sardines. Place egg in center. Add a dressing made of mayonnaise, pepper, chives, chili sauce and pickle. Garnish with an olive. Yield: Six servings.

* * *

CREAM CHEESE-NUT SANDWICHES—One package cream cheese, 2 tablespoons evaporated milk, 2 tablespoons chopped nuts, mayonnaise.

Mash cheese, add evaporated milk and blend. Add nuts. Spread thin slices of white or graham bread with mayonnaise, cover half the slice with the cheese mixture and the remaining half with lettuce leaves. Put together in pairs. Yield: Six sandwiches.

* * *

FROZEN CHEESE SALAD—One-half cup evaporated milk, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 package cream cheese (3 oz.), ¼ cup mayonnaise, ½ cup sliced dates, ½ cup crushed, drained pineapple, lettuce leaves.

Scald milk in top of double boiler. Cool. Then chill in a bowl surrounded by chipped ice and salt. Whip until firm. Add lemon juice and continue beating until very stiff. Mash cheese. Add mayonnaise slowly, blending well. Add milk and fruit. Pour into a mold and freeze in an electric refrigerator. Serve on lettuce leaves, with or without salad dressing. Yield: Six servings.

* * *

LEMON SOUFFLE—Four egg yolks, 1 cup sugar, 4 egg whites, grate rind and juice 1 lemon. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar slowly, beat thoroughly, and add lemon juice and rind. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into greased pudding dish, set in a pan of hot water, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 50 minutes.

* * *

CHICKEN AND SUCCOTASH—One can succotash, 2 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons chicken fat or butter, melted, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup buttered bread crumbs, few grains pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 2½ cups cooked chicken, cut in large pieces.

Beat egg yolks and add succotash, fat, salt, pepper and parsley. Put one half of this mixture in bottom of casserole, add the chicken and cover with the remaining succotash. Sprinkle top with bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about ½ hour. Serve with hot baking powder biscuits. Cold cooked ham, lamb, or veal (cut in pieces) may be substituted for part of the chicken.

Engagement Should Be Ended After Love Is Gone

Is it dishonorable to break an engagement? Is a man a cad who tells an engaged girl of his love? Is a girl selfish and cruel if her heart goes out to a new man, though she's engaged to another?

Kyra wants to know, for her whole life's happiness is at stake.

The folks insist she should march up the aisle with Harry because she has been engaged to him for four years, but Kyra has discovered that she loves Bob.

Then shouldn't she tell Harry the truth? Or would that be a "dirty trick," and brand her as a heartless, fickle femme?

LOVES ANOTHER

"Dear Sally Martin:

"You have probably heard stories like mine before, but I am in a tight spot, and I need your advice.

"Yes, it is about love and two men. Harry and Bob. I have gone steady with Harry for four years, and we were engaged. In fact we still are, and that is where the problem comes in.

"Harry loves me, but it will be a long time before he'd be able to marry, so our engagement would be a long one. However, that is not the trouble. The trouble is that two years ago I met Bob, who came to board with us, and lately we have discovered that we love each other.

"My father and mother have always thought that Bob was a wonderful fellow, till they discovered the way he and I feel about each other. They were very angry then, and called him 'unprincipled,' and a 'double-crosser,' and said if he had any decency he'd never have told me he loved me, knowing I was engaged to Harry.

CAN'T DECIDE

"Now they are quarreling with me, and mother hardly speaks to me. They insist I gave my promise to Harry, and the only decent thing to do is marry him and put Bob out of my mind.

"Do you think that is true? Am I fickle, as they say? Must I marry him when I don't want to? Don't you think it would be better to tell him how I feel, and break with him?

"I don't know, myself, because I am thinking so much about being unhappy over it all, that I can't decide. Honestly, I don't know what would be fair. Am I being selfish to want to break with Harry? KYRA.

Are you being selfish to want to tell Harry the truth?

No, honey, you're not. Telling Harry the truth is the only fair thing to do. You are not bound to marry him because you once thought you loved him. In fact to do so, now that you no longer think so, would be to do him a terrible injustice.

You may think, and your parents may think, that you could fool him, make him think you loved him, when you didn't. But you couldn't. You would soon betray your real feelings, no matter how hard you might try not to, and you would end up by hating each other.

A TRYOUT PERIOD

Telling him now will hurt him, of course, but it won't hurt him half so much as discovering, after you're married, that you've cheated him by coming to him without love.

You see, an engagement doesn't mean that you must marry the person you're engaged to, Kyra. An engagement is a sort of tryout period, to find out whether or not they are really suited to each other, and can live happily together.

When they, or one of them, find out that love is not there, the only fair and honorable thing is to say so, and break it off.

So go ahead, dear. Tell the truth, and be thankful that you discovered it now, before it is too late.

Household Hints

Cleanliness and dust never travel together.

Knots and sharp bends in the cords of electrical appliances tend to break the fine wires.

A successful way of keeping the house plant fresh when away for a week's trip is by placing a large sponge, which has been soaked thoroughly in water, on the dirt in the pot. The plant will absorb moisture to keep it fresh without watering for some time.

Fay King Finds Youth Advancing Too Fast, Age Retiring Too Reluctantly

By FAY KING

These days, it seems to me, the youth consider it a crime to be young, and the elders consider it a crime to be old.

Even little children are dressed so they seem older.

The delightful age between childhood and young womanhood has been entirely eliminated. A precocious child becomes a fashionable young lady in a day.

She acts beyond her years so she will not seem so young.

Then suddenly the struggle not to seem so young is changed to a struggle not to seem so old.

She begins to dye and diet.

The mellowness of age is frowned upon as furiously as was the tenderness of youth.

With youth advancing too rapidly and age retiring too reluctantly, it's all a resentful mixup!

Heart of a Wife

-:- -:- Continuation of Love's Re awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Stumped for Ideas to Carry On

For fully five minutes, I pondered and worried—over the tangled skein into which the idyl of Noel and Mary appeared to have snarled. Then as the clock in the hall chimed the half hour, I realized that I had only that length of time before dinner in which to read over the first two acts of my play, and resolutely putting everything else out of my mind, I took up the manuscript so rumpled by Dicky's impetuous embrace of me and buried myself in it.

I have trained myself in concentration and I am a rapid reader, so that when the dinner gong sounded its first warning, Katie always gives us 10 minutes leeway before she serves dinner—I had completed the reading and laid the loosely bound pages down with the feeling of having finished a race. Indeed as Lillian had said, my "uncanny memory"—joint product of some obscure brain kink and my mother's careful training—had enabled me to anticipate every word of the dialogue and stage directions, and I knew that with the manuscript turned downwards, I could recite it faultlessly.

But I asked myself drearily, what good did that do me when the only effect of reading the two acts seemed to be the actual tying up of my brain cells into knots. I had the general plan for the third act before me, but any ideas for dialogue or action had withdrawn sullkily into some far closet, and I greatly doubted my ability to get them out again.

A clatter of feet in the hall, accompanied by an audible "Sh sh," from Lillian told me that the youthful fish-cleaners must have hurried through their dressing with breakneck speed. The noise ceased abruptly, and though I could not hear them, I knew that they had gone tip-toeing down the stairs.

Mary and Marion were the next victims of the hushing, and I realized that Lillian must be doing sentry-go in the hall. I stood up abruptly, and walking to the door, leading to the upper hall, I opened it, seeing Lillian bending over the banister, and shaking a warning finger at the girls as they ran down the stairs.

"Time to change the Horse Guards," I said, and she whirled to look at me with an appraising eye.

"Relieve them for mess, you mean," she retorted. And then, with a second keen glance at my troubled eyes she asked:

"What's the matter? Isn't it jelling?"

"It isn't even simmering," I said, despondently. "I haven't an idea."

"In the well-known system," Lillian finished for me with an impish grin. "Well! It doesn't need to have, so it doesn't. It shall go out to dinner, and absorb bottle-fish—not too many, but enough to stoke up its little machinery for the night."

I smiled at her, subtly cheered, as always, by her purposeful foolery. My brain was as blank as ever, but my discouragement had retreated, slowly, and showing its teeth as it went, but surely, before the cheery optimism of Lillian's voice.

"Let me drop a hint into your shell-like ear," she said, slipping her arm through mine, "Park that manuscript for the next hour or two, away from your mind as well as your hands. Eat, drink, listen to the fish stories, and watch William 'Baxter' Harrison 'being 17.' By the time we foregather after dinner your brain cells will be as pepped up and ready for action as a freshly overhauled motor . . ."

"I can be 'pushed just so far' myself," I retorted, "and if you refer to me again as a temperamental genius, I'll tear up this manuscript and make you eat the pieces."

"Thereby proving your title to annex the Angora," she said. "If I can get you peeved enough, so you'll forget being scared to death over this hayride, we'll be able not only to pull the chestnuts out of the fire but to serve 'em up with salt. Come on down with me now, and do the chatelaine-of-the-castle-presiding-over-the-evening-meal stunt."

She drew me with her down the stairs and into the living room, where Hank and Bill, with Marion and Mary, were gazing forlornly at the phonograph. But when I appeared in the doorway, Hank called out "Whoopee! Let 'er go, Kid!" and sprang for the machine. But Bill stopped him with a quick gesture and turned to me.

"Is it all right, Aunt Madge?"

"Perfectly all right, Bill," I said, and he rushed over to Marion and swept her into the dance with such a beatific expression on his face that I did not need Lillian's low "What did I tell you," to remind me irrepressibly of Tarkington's immortal William Sylvanus Baxter.

And then, more temperamental than any prima donna, Katy came into the living room and glared at the dancers.

"Ef you tink I going to try beat dot phonograph mit my dinner gong," she said, "you got nudder tink comin'. Dose bottle feeshes are just climbing out of de pan waitin' to be swallowed. And you better not waste any time gettin' in dinin' room."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Three kinds of foods must not tempt the heavyweights—fats, sweets and starches. And they are the foods that the heavies love best.

To coax spreading nostrils to unspread, place thumb and first finger on either side of the top of the nose and stroke gently down toward the end.

By using cotton for applying powder you're through worrying about powder pads that pick up dust quickly. You can buy cotton in a long cylinder-like box. There's a hole in the top and the cotton comes through to be snipped off as you please. More convenient than pulling wads from thick rolls.

Camomile tea does not bleach the hair, it merely brings up the high lights. Half an ounce of the leaves should be added to a quart of water, boiled for five minutes. Strain, cool and pour over the hair after it has been lathered and rinsed. Camomile is suitable only for blonde locks; it has no effect upon the brunette crest.

There's no better way of developing a double chin than by sleeping on the back with the head resting on a high pillow. Throat muscles, pushed forward, relax and take on a collection of adipose cells. A good way to roll two chins into one is to bind on an astringent compress at night and sleep with the head thrown back over a small pillow arranged in a roll under the back of the neck.

-:- Correct Manners -:-

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Married Student

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Would it be correct and lawful for a married woman to go to school and still use her maiden name?

2. Would it be correct to send the wedding announcements after the wedding. How long after? JUST A THINKIN'.

1. I think that the school would probably have no objection to this. There is no reason why you should not talk it over with the principal, for principals are quite used to keeping secrets!

2. Wedding announcements are always sent after the wedding. Usually they are all ready before the wedding, . . . engraved, addressed, stamped, sealed . . . so that they may be put into the mailbox directly after the ceremony has been performed. But it is not necessary, of course, to send them as punctually as this. They should, however, be sent within a few days of the wedding, or as soon as convenient.

A Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a daughter who is to be married. Is it proper to give a shower here without her being present, or do I have to have a card announcing her wedding? MOTHER.

It would not be proper for you to give a shower for your daughter when she could not attend the shower. It would, indeed, be in questionable taste for a mother to give a shower for her daughter, even if the daughter could attend, for this would seem like too much of a "begging party."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Studying the Functions of the Spleen

What do you know about the spleen? The spleen is a great gland—a ductless gland. It is located in the left side of the body just below the lower end of the stomach.

Dr. Copeland

This organ is believed to manufacture the red corpuscles found in the blood. It also manufactures the hemoglobin which gives the color to these cells or corpuscles.

The spleen is believed to do team work with the liver, having important functions that aid in the direction of food. However, the definite purpose of this organ is not very clearly understood.

It used to be thought that life could not exist without the spleen. But a man severely injured in an accident, was rushed to a hospital, where it was found necessary to remove his spleen. He made a remarkable recovery. This is the first proof that life could go on without the spleen.

A dozen years ago it was discovered that the spleen had some significance in a disease known as purpura hemorrhagica. In this disease severe hemorrhages or bleeding, occur at unexpected times and places. These hemorrhages recur, grow worse, and may terminate fatally.

Research into a means of relief for purpura hemorrhagica proved that removal of the spleen benefits this disease, reducing the number of hemorrhages. Many cases have been reported showing the advantages of this radical operation.

Unfortunately, not all cases have received the expected benefit. Some authorities believe that where splenectomy—the name for removal of the spleen temporary. On the other hand, is performed, the relief is only there are other authorities who advocate the operation, claiming that the relief obtained is permanent. In a recent review of over 100 cases of purpura hemorrhagica, 80 per cent of the cases were regarded as cured after the operation.

Cases must be carefully watched from three to five years before anyone can definitely say that a cure has been effected. We have much yet to learn about it.

Purpura hemorrhagica is a disease that usually affects young and delicate individuals, particularly girls. It may also attack adults who have been in perfect health.

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

Responses to Informatory Doubles

On its face an informatory double shows strength in three suits; it may or may not be that the doubler holds considerable strength in the suit doubled; in any event the doubler's partner assumes that strength is held in the three unbid suits, and answers accordingly. Probably the most desired response is a major suit bid, and the least wanted reply to the double is no-trumps. Lack of a biddable suit sometimes obligates a no-trump response upon two stops to the adverse suit plus average side cards, or even upon a single stop to that suit in case better than average side cards are held.

Of course the doubler's partner should let the double stand upon great strength, lacking a sound suit declaration. If not certain to defeat the bid doubled, in case no biddable suit is held, the doubler's partner must make his best bid. In some circles a response of 1-No Trump is made to show utter weakness, but I prefer my partner to bid ever a three-card suit to bidding 1-No Trump unless he holds cards upon which he is willing to play that declaration.

I dislike conventions that leave a partner in doubt as to what the responder holds. In my vocabularly, a reply of 1-No Trump says: "Partner, I have no sound suit declaration; I have at least one stop to the doubled suit and some side strength."

The following hands show preferred procedure of the doubler's partner when 1-Heart is the contract doubled.

1-Spade
♠ K-10-7-5 ♥ A-8 ♦ A-Q-9-3 ♣ 8-6-4

If your partner raises your response on the above hand, bid game.

1-Spade
♠ 10-7-4 ♥ 9-7-5-2 ♦ 8-7-3 ♣ 9-5-2
1-No-Trump
♠ 9-6-5-2 ♥ A-J-7 ♦ K-9-6 ♣ Q-5-2
1-No-Trump
♠ K-5-2 ♥ A-8-7 ♦ K-9-6 ♣ 10-4-2
2-Clubs
♠ 10-8-4 ♥ K-J-8-3 ♦ A-J-7-4 ♣ 8-4
2-Diamonds
♠ 9-7-3 ♥ Q-7-2 ♦ 8-6-5 ♣ 10-7-5-3
Pass
♠ 6-3 ♥ K-9-7-6-4-2 ♦ K-8 ♣ 9-6-2

A 2-No Trump response to a double of 1-No Trump seldom works well. Rather than bid that way, or bid 2-Diamonds over partner's double of Z's 1-No Trump, B made "a business pass" on the holding shown below, collecting 200 points when he could not have gone game.

When you sit for your picture in 1941

REMEMBER that snapshot taken a few years ago? You've changed a good bit since then. How will you look in 1941?

That depends on how well you guard your good looks today. So many women and men allow their beauty and opportunities to fade through neglect of constipation.

This widespread ailment is a persistent enemy of enthusiasm and personality. It often brings headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Eyes lose their sparkle. Wrinkles and pimples frequently appear.

Why endanger your youth and health—when there is an easy way to avoid constipation? Just eat a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily will promote regularity. If you suffer from intestinal trouble not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies three essentials: "bulk," Vitamin B and iron. The "bulk" is much like the "bulk" in lettuce, and gently exercises the intestines. Vitamin B tones them up. Iron builds blood, which helps make red cheeks and lips.

ALL-BRAN is far pleasanter than taking pills and drugs—so often habit-forming. Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking.

Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Be sure you get the original ALL-BRAN. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

'ARMY' PLEADS FOR SHOE FUND

With its shoe fund nearly exhausted, the Salvation Army has issued a plea for additional funds with which to buy and repair shoes for children. It was announced today by Col. C. B. Campbell, divisional commander. He said:

"All records for shoe-giving have been broken this year. More than 2,000 pairs have been given to children who otherwise would not have been able to go to school. We now need more help."

HEINZ WORKERS GET MEDALS

Veteran employes of the H. J. Heinz Company were awarded medals and watches in observance with their years of service at a special assemblage of the workers in the Heinz Auditorium yesterday.

The awards, given by 125 employes, were presented by Howard Heinz, president of the company. Employes from throughout the country, England and Canada were present. Ten-year service was rewarded with gold medals, while women with the company 12 years and men for 20 years received watches.

Braves Await Answer.
Hack Would Add Power.
Ochsenhirt's Big Load.
Confidence in Knothe.
Jolley May Be Catcher.
Singer in Tough Spot.

M'KECHNIE'S CLUB PACKS MUCH COLOR

IN THE EVENT that Bill McKechnie completes his proposed deal which would transfer Hack Wilson from the Cardinals to the Braves, the Wilkinsburg citizen will find himself at the head of one of the most colorful parades in baseball when the major league campaigns swing open next April. For Skipper Bill already has two of the sport's most striking characters under his charge in Walter (Rabbit) Maranville and Arthur (Whataman) Shires so that the acquisition of the Martinsburg mauler would set off the Tribe with such a glow that good results surely would be reflected at the turnstiles.

Bill McKechnie

McKechnie and Judge Fuchs, president of the Braves, are awaiting an answer to their flat proposition concerning Wilson. The Boston bosses have offered the Cards in exchange for Hack a performer whose identity they do not care to disclose at this time. If an outfielder, he probably is a left-hand batter, as the Redbirds are surfeited with good right-hand swingers for outfield duty, Chick Hafey, Pepper Martin and Wally Roettger all being of that type.

BILL HAS LANCE RICHBOURG and Randy Moore on his roster, both of whom are southside stickers and it may be that he is willing to include one or both of them in a deal for the erstwhile slugging king who right or wrong, good or bad, is the best drawing card in the National League when he is doing his home-run stuff.

As a Chicago writer has pointed out, the fans are never neutral regarding Hack. They're either for him or against him, and that means he is a source of constant controversy while the pennant fight is on. And this condition, of course, enhances the gate. Nor is the Great Shires a retiring violet on any man's ball club. Inasmuch as he batted at a terrific pace in the American Association to win his way back to the big tent he is apt to come up with a lot of new didoes that will keep the fans in an uproar in every park.

SHIRES DOES NOT require any certain locale for his sketches. He will break out on the slightest provocation, often with no cause whatever. Maranville's appeal has been remarkable through his years of service.

This physical marvel appears not to have slipped to any great extent, either as a player or as an attraction. The Rabbit has the faculty of combining great baseball with the colorful nature that makes him popular in all cities.

THEN, AGAIN, THERE is Al Spohrer, the boxer-catcher, who sought to take Shires' tutsie honors away from him. Al and Art will now be bunkmates. Wilson also was one of Shires' challengers but Judge Landis appointed himself a fight commissioner for the moment and put his foot down on the proposed match. Adding further to the exceptional color of the Braves is Outfielder Wally Berger, the youthful giant who can run like a deer, field like a ball hawk, and clear any fence in the league with his circuit clouts. Moreover, McKechnie has a powerful player named Wes Schulmerich, who appears to be strong enough to carry Hack and Art off the field under his arms if that pair ever attempted to stage the tangle which Landis banned.

Russ Ochsenhirt

IT ISN'T OFTEN that a youngster just out for his first year on a college basketball team has thrust upon him the responsibility that has been loaded onto the shoulders of young Ochsenhirt, Pitt center for the new season.

Here's a boy called upon suddenly to fill a regular varsity position for the Panthers with only two years of basketball behind him. That's all the experience he boasts. The former Perry High star played only one season in high school and one as a freshman at Pitt under Coach George Kowallis.

THE ORIGINAL INTENTION of Doc Carlson, Pitt coach, was to use Ochsenhirt as a reserve guard or center, with Bus Albright holding down the regular starting berth at center. But with the loss of Albright it became necessary for Ochsenhirt to move up to the varsity starting outfit.

Coach Carlson has plenty of confidence in the youngster, even with a 31-game card ahead and no replacements of known value to fall back upon should Ochsenhirt be lost. Russ is a good shot and a fast but as yet somewhat inaccurate passer.

THE NAME OCHSENHIRT is not new in basketball to old timers of the district. They remember another Panther passer of that name, and a real star in his day, in Norman Ochsenhirt, an uncle of the present Pitt pivot man. Norman played under Coach George Flint in 1912-13-14-15 and was captain of the 1914 and 1915 teams. Referees who have seen Russ in action are willing to predict a bright future for the lad, provided he has the stamina to hold up all season. Independent passers who have played against him in practice games say that he will make an acceptable substitute for Albright.

HOME FROM THE scene of the major league meetings in Chicago, Bill McKechnie says he feels that he has cause for rejoicing in the acquisition of Third Baseman Arthur Knothe from the Seattle club in the Pacific Coast League for Pitcher Harold Haid, Third Baseman Bill Dreesen and a sum of money.

"We expect fine things of Knothe," said McKechnie. "Our new infielder is a big, rangy fellow who owns a great arm, and from what I understand he can hit and field. On the coast he was regarded as the top-notch third baseman."

ONE RADICAL SHIFT which Lew Fonseca, new White Sox manager, has in mind for next year is the converting of Smead Jolley from an outfielder into a catcher. Jolley couldn't find himself in big league outfields, as did the Waners, Earl Averill, Roy Johnson and other Coast League recruits, but Fonseca believes he may fit in behind the bat.

Al Singer

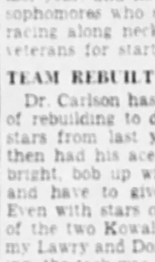
Jolley can hit them far and owns a great throwing arm, but the job will be to teach such a slow starter to get after foul flies without a fatal loss of time. Jolley won't be the first player made over into a catcher on the Chicago club. It was the Sox that changed Moe Berg from a shortstop into a receiver.

THOUGH HE WILL have an advantage in weight and has sought to cut down his opponent's edge in the possession of admittedly greater stamina by insisting that the distance be reduced from 15 rounds to 10, Al Singer is likely to have a task on his hands to escape defeat at the hands of Battling Battalino in their New York ring meeting tonight. The featherweight champion, who takes the place of Kid Chocolate against Singer, has improved greatly during the last year, is a solid puncher now instead of being merely a mauler, as formerly, and the way he dropped Freddie Miller twice, Earl Mastro three times, and knocked out Bushy Graham in the first round indicates that Singer may have trouble going the distance tonight in view of his reputation for being either unable or unwilling to take it. If Battalino wins this number he may blossom out as a full-fledged challenger for the lightweight championship. An added feature of interest on tonight's bill will be the American debut in the 10-round semi-final of Franto Nekolny, Czechoslovakian welterweight, against Andy Saviola. Nekolny has been hailed as a championship prospect.

PANTHERS PLAY TEMPLE IN LID-LIFTER

By JESS CARVER

The fixin's are all in place for Pitt's second annual basketball clinic, evolved by the mind of that wonder of the age, Dr. Cliff Carlson, the head basketball coach at Pitt, and put on for the first time last year. The college, high school and prep school coaches and players went for the idea last year in a big way.



Len Gudd

Tomorrow morning they'll gather again, 400 or 500 of them, and the good Doctor and his merry, merry lads will put on another swell basketball show. The Doctor will interpose a lecture or two, they'll have a feed in the evening and then will be guests as the Panthers pry off the local intercollegiate lid by taking on the highly explosive Temple University varsity in the Stadium Pavilion. In a preliminary game, the Panther freshmen, under their new coach, Poison Paul Zehfuss, do battle with Taylor Allderdice High School.

Despite being on their own court, the Panthers are going to be on better than even bets, if that against the Owls. The Philadelphians (yes, I DO know my geography) have a rattling good ball club, or should have, for they had half a dozen lettermen back from the strong squad of last year, and have half as many sophomores who so far have been racing along neck and neck with veterans for starting jobs.

TEAM REBUILT

Dr. Carlson has had a great job of rebuilding to do. He lost four stars from last year's team, and then had his ace center, Bus Albright, bob up with a bum heart and have to give up the game. Even with stars of the magnitude of the two Kowallis laddies, Timmy Lawry and Don Smith remaining, the task was a difficult one.

One of the Temple luminaries is Leonard Gudd, a pip of an all-round athlete and one of the best football ends in the East. Gudd starred last year for the Owls, being the second high-point gatherer. He is big and husky, has a pugnacious nose (see accompanying photo) and likes to get in there and mix it.

HAS WEIGHT ADVANTAGE

Temple will have a weight and height advantage, but the Panthers have been making up for such deficits in the past with speed.

HORTON SMITH BREAKS WRIST

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Horton Smith, golf star from the Oak Park Country Club, Chicago, fractured a bone in his right wrist in an accident here last night, a few hours after he had won medal honors in the $7,500 national match play open championship.

He was returning to the Lake Merced Country Club in an automobile driven by Joe Kirkwood, a fellow professional from Chicago. As Kirkwood backed into a parking space Smith put his arm out of the window and it was jammed between the car and a post.

Smith was taken to a hospital for X-ray and treatment. Dr. Bert Frohman said the radius bone of the wrist had been cracked and that it would take probably six weeks for the break to knit. Smith will be out of play for several months.

As a result of the injury the tournament lost one of its most colorful figures. Smith set the pace for a huge list of qualifiers, scoring a 68-75—143 for the 36 holes. He was a strong favorite to capture top honors, including $1,500 first prize money.

Smith was to have opposed Willie Goggin, San Francisco, in the first round of match play this morning.

Harry Cooper, of New York, finished in second place with a 74-70—144. Gene Sarazen, of Great Neck, L. I., former national open champion, and Harold McSpadden, Kansas City, tied for third place with 145. Pairings for the first round follow:

Leo Diegel vs. Bid Hanson; Harold McSpadden vs. H. Asami; Otto Jahn vs. R. Espinosa; Frank Walsh vs. Larry Brazil; Harry Cooper vs. Henry Espinosa; Fred Morrison vs. Harold Hamilton; George Von Elm vs. Paul Runyan; Joe Kirkwood vs. Arthur Bate; Horton Smith vs. Willie Goggin; Willie Hunter vs. Johnny Perelli; Dewey Longworth vs. Benny Coffin; John Golden vs. John Foss; Gene Sarazen vs. Al Zimmerman; Willie Ogg vs. Roland McKenzie; Billy Burke vs. T. Wigamoto; Mortie Dutra vs. Jimmy Thomson.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE MAYOR OF ROME—Ernesto Nathan was a native of England, being born in 1845. He came to Italy at the age of 13 to study at the universities of Pisa, Florence, Milan and Genoa. As editor, author, lecturer, university professor, social reformer and political leader, he soon identified himself with the cause of a United Italy. After the King of Italy entered papal Rome to take up his abode at the Quirinal, and the Pope withdrew to the solitude of the Vatican in September, 1870, there was a revival of Liberal thought in Italy which led to the election of Signor Nathan, a Jew and grandmaster of Freemasonry, to the mayoralty of the capital of Catholicism, in 1907. He was re-elected in 1910. His office was in the Palace of the Senators, erected by Pope Boniface IX in 1389. THE "LAST WORD" IN ENGLISH—The new Oxford English Dictionary, consisting of 10 volumes, the completion of which required 70 years and cost six million dollars, winds up with the word "Zyxt," defined as "glorious rarity," the fourteenth century form of the expression "thou sayest."

HUNCH BETTORS BACK NAVY

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Navy's chances of surprising the Army, just as the Cadets dumfounded mighty Notre Dame, came in for serious consideration as the two service elevens made ready to move on New York for the battle tomorrow in the name of charity.

Partly through weather forecasts that rain will fall again on the crowd of 80,000 that is expected to jam the big Yankee Stadium, Navy has become the favorite of the "hunch" betters.

There is a feeling that this is the season of surprises, the year that old settlers may remember as the one in which Notre Dame lost twice, and that perhaps the greatest upset of them all is being saved for the last.

W. Va., D. & E. Patch Up Sports Relations

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Football relations have been resumed between Davis and Elkins and West Virginia University, it became known with the signing of an agreemet to play November 19, 1932. A "break" occurred between the two schools after the 1929 season.

It was announced at West Virginia University that agreement by Davis and Elkins to abide by the three-year and migratory rules for the Mountainer game had resulted in signing the 1932 contract. The schedule:

September 23, Duquesne at Pittsburgh (night); October 1, Pitt at Morgantown; October 7, Temple at Philadelphia; October 15, West Virginia Wesleyan at Morgantown; October 21, Detroit at Detroit (night); October 28, Marquette at Milwaukee; November 5, Georgetown at Morgantown; November 12, Washington and Lee at Charleston; November 19, Davis and Elkins at Morgantown; November 26—Washington and Jefferson at Wheeling.

Grove City Added To Tri-State Conference

Grove City College has become affiliated with the Tri-State Conference, Athletic Director Robert Thorn has confirmed the report that the Crimson athletic council was unanimously in favor of the move.

Acceptance of the Conference's invitation to join was said to have been made early this week. The action makes Crimson quintet eligible to the conference basketball championship race this winter, its runners enter the Decoration Day track meet, and, next fall, will permit the Grovers to play for the tri-state grid gonfalon.

WALLACE STOPS BOJARSKI

CLEVELAND, Dec. 11.—Frankie Bojarski, Erie lightweight, who has a record of 47 consecutive victories to his credit, was knocked out by Billy Wallace, local lightweight, in the fourth round of one of the preliminary bouts at the annual Christmas fund boxing show here last night.

Lou Brouillard, welterweight champion, won on a foul from Paul Pirrone, of Cleveland, in the seventh round.

Ernie Schaaf, Boston, technically stopped Frankie Simms, Cleveland heavyweight, in three rounds.

SWITCH PLAYS TUBE ELEVEN

By TOM BIRKS

Soccer fans will have a couple of games to become enthused over tomorrow afternoon. The big game will be staged at McKeesport, bringing together the league-leading Union Switch outfit in opposition to National Tube.

National Tube, while not setting the world on fire, is no set-up for any club, and unless the Swissvale aggregation is set to go, the Tubers may turn the tables.

Jack Campbell is having real luck in keeping his team intact. Injuries on the Swissvale club have been few.

Tarentum goes to Leslie Park to clash with the Pittsburgh Rovers. The Rovers are hitting a good stride, and should add a couple of points to the team's total.

German Sport travels to Swissvale to meet the Westinghouse aggregation, and the Valley club should have little trouble in winning that game.

The Morry-Morgan National Amateur Cup game is to be played Sunday at the South Park grounds, and probably will be staged before the largest crowd of the season.

Four Pitt Men On W. Va. Eleven

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—An imposing array of players is represented on the all-opponent eleven picked by the West Virginia University football squad. Pitt placed four men on the team. Battles, of West Virginia Wesleyan also was among those selected. The team:

Ends, Cronkite, Kansas State, and McNeil, Washington and Jefferson; tackles, Quatse and MacMurdo, Pitt; guards, Dufosky, Georgetown, and Bolen, Washington and Lee; center, Daugherty, Pitt; backs, Battles, West Virginia Wesleyan; Parsons, Detroit; Murphy, Fordham, and Reider, Pitt.

PANTHERS PLAY FOR ROONEYS

Jess Quatse and Rip Collins, stars of the University of Pittsburgh football team, will be in the J. P. Rooney lineup Sunday when the West Penn Independent Football Conference champions clash with an all-star aggregation in a charity game at West View Park.

The Panthers have been given permission by the A. A. U. to participate in the game without injuring their amateur status.

The final battle for the Lightweight Conference championship between the Rox Rangers and Westinghouse Alumni, originally scheduled for McKees Rocks tomorrow, has been postponed a week because of the poor condition of the field.

PLAYER LIMIT CUT TO 23 PER CLUB

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—There will be less wear and tear on major league benches and uniforms next season and salaries will not be quite so robust, club owners have decided.

There will be less wear and tear because the magnates, at the annual joint meeting of the American and National leagues yesterday, voted to reduce the player limit from 25 to 23 players, trimming the list of bench warmers by a total of two.

The decision was made partly as an economy measure, and partly to give the weaker clubs a chance to use capable ball players who, as members of stronger teams, might see little action. The salary cut was not specified, but the general opinion was that wages would be trimmed 10 per cent. This would save each club about $10,000 annually. The resolution providing for reductions of salaries was brief, reading:

TO CHOP SALARIES

"Resolved, that by reason of prevailing conditions and the decrease in attendance at our games, it becomes necessary that the general operating expenses, including salary lists of ball players of both major leagues, be substantially reduced."

The only moot question over reducing the player limit was how much they should be cut. American League owners favored a cut to 22 men, while the National held out for 23. The question was quickly decided by Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who cast his vote in favor of the National League proposal.

It was also decided that there should be no more "synthetic" doubleheaders, manufactured in the past by moving up games to provide attractive bargain bills, without the consent or the approval of the presidents of both leagues.

The schedules for both leagues again will list 154 games, but will require four days less to accomplish. It was voted to open seasons on April 12 and close them on September 25. The 1931 campaigns opened April 14 and finished September 27.

BACK LEGION TOURNEY

In spite of the leaning toward reduced expenses, the leagues again voted to underwrite the American Legion's junior baseball championship tournament up to $50,000, and to contribute $7,500 for the relief of needy veterans of baseball. Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, were appointed to work with members of the "big five" committee of minor league baseball, to study the problems of the latter branch of the industry.

DUKES, TARTAN FIVES WIN

Collegiate basketeers scored three victories over independent amateur teams last night. Carnegie Tech won a double triumph over the Y. M. H. A. when its varsity copped, 41-31, and its reserves won, 45 to 28, while Chick Davies' Duquesne Dukes walloped the Penn five, 39-17, at Sharpsburg.

The Goslins defeated the Morrys, 27-26, in a West Penn League contest; Goodwill won from the Penn Cadets, 28-16, in the Metropolitan, and Libby set down Bidwell, 30-25, in the Greater Pittsburgh circuit.

St. Joseph's, Downtown Y Bs, Overbrook, Jo Jo, the Rileys and the Ferris five won independent tilts.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS

Boston	1—Detroit	1
Rangers	5—Maroons	2
Canadiens	3—Americans	0

By CARL W. SHATTO

The Yellow Jackets gave a rather creditable but extremely painful exhibition of how to outplay an opponent and still lose by the quite decisive margin of 3-0 as they met the Detroit Olympics in an International Hockey League fixture at Duquesne Garden last night, and as a result of their unique display of cunning they have to look past three other clubs to see the league lead today.

Presented with a golden opportunity to slip past Cleveland and ooze into second place, right behind the pace-setting Buffalo Bisons, in the circuit standings, the local skaters got all tangled up in the pads of Emmet Venne, Detroit goalie, dropped the decision and saw the Michiganders forge past them as they dropped into fourth place.

SCORE DECEPTIVE

The 3-0 count by which the Olympics bagged the verdict is somewhat deceptive in that the score was 1-0 until the last minute of the battle, when the Jackets rushed five men into Detroit territory in an attempt to deadlock the count, only to see the invaders break free and swoop down on the unprotected Pittsburgh goal for two additional tallies.

A severe knee injury which Gordy Fraser sustained in the Windsor game here last week probably contributed no little to the Detroit cause. The defense ace of the Reidmen was in the press box in "civvies" while the battle raged, and while Whitey Fields gave an extremely creditable performance at Gordy's post in the backfield, the rifle-like drives of one of the hardest shots in hockey were sorely missed when Detroit had one or more men in the penalty box and the locals attempted to cash in on their edge in man power.

PROUDLOCK OUT

Cam Proudlock, veteran who patrols the left lane for the third front line, also was not in uniform, and it may be of some significance that the goal which gave Detroit a 1-0 lead and the decision was scored while the locals' third-string forwards were on the ice.

In the first and second periods the Jackets outplayed their foemen so decisively that Goalie Venne had to perform tricks that would have put a magician to shame to keep the Reidmen from breaking into the scoring column, and at the close of the second stanza it appeared to be only a matter of time until the yellow-shirts would crash through with a tally.

About the middle of the initial period Rockburn and Peters were ordered to the penalty box in rapid succession, and Fields, Ingram, Rodden and Arbour swarmed around the Detroit cage while they held a two-man advantage in power.

OLYMPICS ON DEFENSE

Later, an Ingram-to-Arbour combination play missed only by inches, and Matte, on an assist from Arbour, gave Goalie Venne a very anxious moment just before the period's close.

The second period was a repetition of the first in that the Jackets manufactured virtually all of the scoring opportunities while the Olympics, due in no small measure to the spectacular and effective and consistent checking of Center Earl Miller, had to be content with a defensive stand. Halliday and Miller were the leading sufferers from Venne's larceny tactics as the middle period moved on to the finish, but Rodden worked tirelessly in making plays, and Arbour and Ingram also were not without golden scoring opportunities.

The opening of the third stanza saw the tide slowly turn in favor of the visitors, and at mid-period the locals were being played to a standstill for the first time during the engagement. Peters, on a pass from Herberts, gave Goalie Abbie Cox his first opportunity to make a really brilliant stop, and, although he got over this one, he was not able to deflect the puck when, at 10:57, Roy Goldsworthy received a pass from Rockburn at the local net tender's feet and fired a hot shot into the net to break the scoring ice.

ROUGH BATTLE

From that time until the last minute of play the Jackets held the edge as they attempted to force a deadlock, but with only 35 seconds of play remaining Newman swooped down on Cox, who was left without protection, and boosted the Detroit edge to two goals, and Goldsworthy repeated Newman's feat just five seconds before the final gong.

Although a capacity crowd appeared to get a big "kick" out of the milling, the battling was more rough than fast, and more violent than thrilling.

Miller suffered a cut under his left eye when a Detroiter gouged the member with the butt of his stick in the second period, but he was able to return to the ice in the third period.

Rockburn almost knocked Whitey Fields unconscious when he slashed him over the head with his stick in the opening stanza, but Fields survived the wallop and a major penalty was Rockburn's only reward.

Two referees "worked" the game, and persistent off-side whistling kept the play comparatively slow. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—0		Detroit—3
Cox	G	Venne
Matte	D	Evans
Herbert	D	Rockburn
Rodden	C	Newman
Arbour	W	Steele
Ingram	W	Fillmore

First period—No scoring. Penalties—Rockburn (major), illegal check; Peters, holding.

Second period—No scoring. Penalties—Herbert, tripping; Herberts, talking back to referee; Barton, elbowing; Steele, elbowing; Rockburn, tripping; Rodden, holding; Peters, illegal check.

Third period—Detroit, Goldsworthy (Rockburn), 10:57; Detroit, Newman (Gillie), 19:34. Detroit, Goldsworthy, 19:55. Penalty—Evans, tripping.

Pittsburgh spares—Miller, Barton, Fields, Gregg, Halliday, White, Locking. Detroit spares—Peters, Hay, Gilhooley, Goldsworth; Gillie and McCabe.

Referee—Jones and Fitzsale.

LONDON BEATS WINDSOR

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—London's International League hockey team outpointed Windsor, 2 to 1, last night. London held a one-goal lead in the opening period, on a shot by Carrigan, and then clinched the battle with another in the second period off Quenneville's stick. Windsor broke through for a goal by Huggins early in the third period, but could not pierce London's defense thereafter.

SPORT VIGNETTES

A two-hour chat with Jack E. Kennard, the new athletic director of the Keystone Athletic Club . . . He is a dark-haired, personable young man of 30, with a fine record of achievement already behind him and he tackles a big job with an enthusiasm that does not figure to brook defeat . . . A former Detroit high school star in football and track and later an outstanding performer in basketball, track and tennis at the University of Michigan and then at the University of Chicago, he is well equipped for his duties . . . . . He comes here from Detroit, where, following his graduation from college, he served for four years as director of athletics for the General Motors Corporation and then four more years at the Cadillac A. C.

Jack Kennard

Sound ideas and a knowledge of his work as an instructor in athletics are the foundation upon which this young man plans to build here. . . . . He succeeds Harry Hainsworth, who has been promoted to the position of assistant manager of the club. . . . . He finds, after a little more than a week on the job, that perhaps 5 per cent, or less, of the members of the downtown club are availing themselves of their splendid athletic facilities. . . . . How to interest the other 95 per cent is his problem, and he is anything but stymied by it.

"I think I can add 10 years to the average life of any club member by a systematic program of health building," he says. "All I ask is a chance to prove it. The short cut to interesting these men and women is to do things, to make them feel proud of their club, to keep it in the public eye . . Along these lines, I am mapping out a campaign of club and public activities which I hope to be able to push ahead to completion . . . It includes the sponsoring of a club basketball team in one of the strongest of the local leagues, a club track team made up of college stars during the summer months, a series of intercity amateur boxing tournaments, swimming championships, possibly a marathon race and other events of a similar nature which will provide interesting news material for the newspapers . . . I want to impress the club members with the thought that their club is not merely a social center . . . I want to make them feel their membership in the Keystone Athletic Club is worth while . . . What is the central word in the name of their organization? . . . It is 'Athletic,' isn't it? . . . Very well, given half a chance, I hope to make it that . . . That's my job.

"However, first of all the club is for the members, and I must not lose sight of this fact. . . . . The program must be well balanced, with the members' rights not infringed upon. . . . . It is my thought that by interesting the members in athletic activities we can induce them to indulge in some form of athletics themselves, depending upon their physical condition, which will be improved as they go along. . . . . Health classes for members will be the big item, with the outside competition providing the stimulus and glamor.

"Right now I am working on a plan whereby we will stage a handball tournament which will take in the leading players of the city, a squash racquets tournament for the better players and a swimming carnival, the finals of all of which will be staged on New Year's Day, when an open house visiting day will be held at the club. . . . . These competitions will give the members and their friends some idea of what we have in mind. . . . . The other features in my program will follow in due time. . . . . Such events have proved successful at athletic clubs in other cities and I do not see how they can fail here. . . . . I hope to make the Keystone Athletic Club a real athletic club in fact as well as in name."

This vigorous young man, whose athletic build attests that he practices what he preaches, already has become a favorite with the club members with whom he has come in contact and promises to become a prominent factor in the athletic life of the community . . . He has proved his worth as a coach as well as an active competitor and is alive to the full possibilities of his profession . . . Among his proteges in Detroit have been a number of young athletes who since have won fame as college stars . . . Ken Doherty, National A. A. U. Decathlon champion in 1928 and 1929, was one of his products . . . Last year, he attended the National A. A. U. games at the Stadium here, bringing two of his charges, who starred in the games . . . You cannot talk with this earnest young disciple of the athletic life without being impressed by his sincerity of purpose and belief in the good he can accomplish if given the proper co-operation, and we commend him highly to the members of the Keystone A. C. . . . The directors of the club are to be congratulated upon his selection—HARRY KECK.

TEX COVINGTON DIES

DENISON, Tex., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—W. W. (Tex) Covington, 41, former major league baseball player, died at his home here yesterday.

EIGHT CAPTURE MITT TITLES

Eight new amateur boxing champions were crowned last night at the Palisades, McKeesport, as the Western Pennsylvania tournament was brought to an auspicious close. Two of the new titleholders, George Julius, 135-pound winner, and George Lupanacci, 175-pound champ, are members of the Willow Club, which grabbed off the lion's share of honors in the tourney.

In addition to taking two championships, Jack Metz's boys won the club trophy with a total of 22 points, being 13 better than the McKeesport A. C., which finished second with nine points. The Pittsburgh Lyceum and Valley A. C. tied for third place with six points.

The new champions, who won their laurels last night, are as follows:

112 pounds—Paul Monar, Homestead Library.
118 pounds—Kid Sterling, Valley A. C.
126 pounds—Joey Chemas, Pittsburgh Lyceum.
135 pounds—George Julius, Willow Club.
147 pounds—William Finney, Superior A. C.
160 pounds—Amos Jones, McKeesport A. C.
175 pounds—George Lupanacci, Willow Club.
Heavyweight—Tom Hanson, North Braddock.

Five knockouts, four of the technical variety, featured the closing night of the tournament. Four of the knockouts occurred during the finals, while one was scored in the semi-final round.

Chuck Mullins, one of the Willow Club's string of boxers, who met a stablemate, George Lupanacci, in the 175-pound final, was forced to quit after the first round due to a bad cut over his left eye, Lupanacci being awarded the championship on a technical knockout. The summary:

112-pound class—Paul Monar, Homestead Library, won by default from Al Gold, Pittsburgh Y. M. H. A.

118-pound class, semi-finals—Frank Vesonder, Duquesne A. C., knocked out (technical) Walter Dalko, Valley A. C., 1 round; Kid Sterling, Valley A. C., defeated Cleveland Wright, Valley A. C.

Final—Sterling knocked out (technical) Vesonder, 1 round.

126-pound class, semi-finals—Billy Smith, Willow Club, defeated Shorty Wasko, McKeesport A. C.

Final—Joey Chemas, Pittsburgh Lyceum, knocked out (technical) Smith, 1 round.

135-pound, semi-finals—Marty Mehalic, unattached, defeated Leo Moan, Willow Club; George Julius, Willow Club, defeated Jack Durgan, Willow Club.

Final—Julius knocked out Mehalic, 1 round.

147-pound class, semi-finals—Eddie Roberts, Mon Valley A. C., defeated Joe Hallas, McKeesport A. C.

Final—William Finney, Superior A. C., defeated Roberts.

160-pound class, final—Amos Jones, McKeesport A. C., defeated Phil Newton, Westinghouse Club.

175-pound class, final—George Lupanacci, Willow Club, knocked out (technical) Chuck Mullins, Willow Club, 1 round.

Heavyweight class, semi-finals—Tom Hanson, North Braddock, defeated Dutch Welt, McKeesport A. C.; William De Worken, Willow Club, defeated Dan Pulley, Pittsburgh Lyceum.

Final—Hanson defeated De Worken.

TED YAROSZ VICTOR

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 11.—Appearing in the ring for the first time since he fractured his right hand four months ago, Teddy Yarosz, Monaca, Pa., 149, registered his forty-eighth consecutive victory here last night by outpointing Jimmy Moinette, Alliance, 149½, in 10 rounds at Eagles' club.

PIRATE TRADES HANGING FIRE, GIBBY SAYS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

A promise of a deal involving Pirate players was contained in a statement made by Manager George Gibson today as the Buccaneer pilot returned to Pittsburgh after attending the Chicago meeting. Gibson was accompanied by Treasurer William Benswanger and Secretary Sam Watters.

Touching on the local trade situation, Gibson said:

"We have made one or two trade propositions to rival clubs of the league and now await developments. The negotiations were started while we were in Chicago, but were unable to complete any transactions. There is a chance that we will have some news shortly, but we cannot say anything definite at present."

COMING TO STAY

The boss of the Buccos did not bring the names of any players into the discussion. In Chicago, however, Gibby did eliminate Adam Comorosky from the reckoning. It seems that practically every team in the league wanted to land the Polish Flyer, so the Pittsburgh officials threw up their guards. In other words, Commy will stay here unless some very pleasing proposition is made to the home directors.

Infielder George Grantham and Pitcher Steve Swetonic apparently are on the trade market. Perhaps these players are a part of the proposition which Gibson has made to the other clubs.

Paul Waner will not be traded. The little slugger has quite a lot of run-ins with the local bosses, but if they had cared to swap him they had plenty of oppotunity in the past few years, it is reported reliably.

Gibson expects to remain in town for two or three days. Should there be no developments in the immediate future he will return to his home at Mt. Brydges, Ont., there to wait any call from the home office.

HERE'S REAL SAVING

Although thrift was not mentional League owners, in their economy drive, took another frugal step as they adopted a 20-minute period for batting sessions.

Last year the athletes of the rival clubs would pound away for 30 minutes. In the course of a season hundreds of baseball were wasted as a result of what might be termed "useless hitting."

It is difficult for any batter to get too much real hitting practice, but the warmup periods, sad to say, are not conducted with a view of helping the weak batter. At least they are not, except on rare occasions.

The popular procedure is to have a pitcher toss up "fat" offerings so that the boys can stage a hitting carnival. This development of the sport appears to be popular with the fans—and, by this token, it should receive heavy consideration, yet it brings little good to the average batter.

BATTER PECULIAR FELLOW

From a strategic standpoint the proper sort of batting practice calls for a pitcher who will throw to the batters' weakness. Now and then a hurler will essay to do this with the idea of helping his team, but soon you would hear the batters complain. Instead of showing an inclination to improve their weak points they insist on hammering away at balls which almost anyone could hit.

So the magnates doubtless will save much money on their rocket bills of the coming season. That will not be good news to the firm that manufactures the ball, yet the ball-makers have had some big years, what with the advent of the lively sphere and the radical rules that tossed new balls into play in profusion.

POLO LEAGUE OPENER SET

The Pittsburgh Polo Club trio will meet the 308th Cavalry in the official opening of the indoor polo league series tomorrow night at the Hunt Armory, under the direction of the 107th Field Artillery.

The league teams will play every Saturday night. In addition to the teams playing this weekend, Shady Side Academy and the George Vang team also will compete in a series of matches which will bring outside competition here along with the league action as part of the winter program.

Local Lad To Captain Tiger Team

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Frederic T. Billings, '33, of Pittsburgh, was elected captain of the 1932 Princeton football team at a meeting of those players who saw service against Yale November 28.

F. T. Billings

Billings, a regular guard for two seasons, played in all Tigers' games this fall except that against Michigan, when he was recovering from a concussion suffered in the tilt with Navy. He also is a member of the wrestling team, holding down a varsity berth in the 175-pound division last year and reaching the quarter finals in the inter-collegiate. He prepared for Princeton at Choate School, where he was active in football, wrestling and crew.

Billings is the son of Dr. and Mrs. F. T. Billings, of 4916 Wallingford street. He attended both the junior and senior schools at Shady Side Academy, spending three years at the latter school before finishing his prep school work at Choate School, in Connecticut.

Between Rounds

Heine Blumstein, of Baltimore, trainer of Vince Dundee and Tony Galento and formerly of Joe Dundee, former welterweight champion, plans to move here with his own stable of boxers, including Sylvan Bass, who last Monday trounced Sergt. Sammy Baker and the three Raymond brothers, Phil, Joe and Lou. As his record indicates, Blumstein is one of the best conditioners of fighting men in the business.

John P. McDevitt, of Mansfield, O., would like to show his lightweight, Gordon Markley, here. He says Markley is undefeated in 17 battles and recently was sought to oppose Battling Glory in Wheeling, but had to decline because he was matched elsewhere for the same night.

Jimmy Belmont is training intensively for his bout with Ted Yarosz at Motor Square Garden, Christmas afternoon, a local "natural." Willie Davies and Mose Butch do the honors at the Garden next Monday night, the final show there before the Christmas event.

Steve Demeter, heavyweight champion of the Navy, just discharged from the service, boxes K. O. Christner in the main bout of a Christmas benefit show at Toledo one week from next Monday. Gene Tunney refereed the bout in which Steve won his laurels.

Tom Males, Soho welterweight, is training daily and will be seen in action again shortly.

A six-round bout between Jack Tracey and Billy Flanagan has been added to the card at Motor Square Garden next Monday night.

Ray Jennings and Chuck Mullins, heavyweights, will box the main bout of an amateur show under the auspices of the Homestead A. A. in Homestead Turner Hall next Friday night.

WILKINSBURG TO BATTLE SCOTT FIVE

By JULIUS LEVIN

Bill Campbell's Homestead High passers will inaugurate their basketball campaign this afternoon when Mt. Lebanon High is engaged on the Homestead court.

Bill Campbell

Mt. Lebanon, a member of Section IX of the W. P. I. A. L., took a lacing at the hands of South in its opening game, but a big improvement is expected when the team stacks up against Campbell's charges. Homestead is a member of Section VII.

Tonight at Munhall, Jim Hudson will present his Braddock passers against the home quintet. Munhall is a member of Section VII and Braddock of Section VIII.

Coach Carroll's Wilkinsburg quintet, a member of Section XI, faces its toughest test of the early season schedule when it invades North Braddock to oppose Scott High, last year's state champion. Scott is a member of Section VIII.

Greensburg plays Pitt Freshies, Butler plays at Ford City, Monaca at Leetsdale and Sewickley at Langley in other games tonight.

Tomorrow the Pitt Freshies meet Taylor Allderdice in the preliminary to the Pitt-Temple opener at the Stadium. South High invades Aliquippa to play Nate Lippe's quintet.

Shots and Passes

Washington High School will pay tribute to its undefeated football team at a banquet to be held in the Trinity Episcopal Church in Washington tonight. The Little Presidents won seven straight games and finished third in points in the W. P. I. A. L. race. Among the speakers will be Bill Amos, Wilbur Henry and Glenn Wild, of the Washington coaching staff.

The Rotary Club of Carnegie will honor Dick Schumacher's Carnegie High School eleven at a banquet in the Carnegie Presbyterian Church next Thursday night. Dr. H. E. Wilson, chairman of the boys' work committee of the Rotary Club, will be toastmaster. Bill Amos, of Wash-Jeff, and Joe Quatte, of Pitt, have been invited.

The undefeated Freeport High School football team will be tendered a banquet in Freeport Monday night. The Allegheny Valley team went through a tough schedule of eight games without meeting a setback. Operating in Class B ranks, Freeport was deprived of the championship due to the fact that it did not play any Class B opponents. It defeated two Class B rivals and three Class A opponents. Hurst was given the title on points.

The Westmoreland County Coaches' Association, composed of athletic heads from the leading county schools, will meet at Greensburg Monday for the purpose of arranging plans for the annual county basketball tournament to be held in March. Schedules for next fall's football campaign also will be approved. The W. P. I. A. L. will hold its annual meeting at Fifth Avenue High School, starting at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Harrisburg has been added to the basketball schedule of the Scott High team. Steelton will be met on the same trip. Another trip for Scott will be an invasion of New Castle and Erie.

The Monogram Club, of McKeesport, composed of lettermen of other years, will honor the school's football team with a banquet next Wednesday night in the Penn-McKee Hotel, McKeesport.

ALLEN BEATEN BY GREENLEAF

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Ralph Greenleaf, of New York, fought an uphill battle last night to defeat Benny Allen, of Kansas City, 125 to 104, in 10 innings, and remain atop the standings in the world pocket billiard championship tournament.

He ended the game with an unfinished high run of 57.

Marcel Camp, of Detroit, defeated Al Miller, of Racine, Wis., 125 to 88, in 15 innings, with a high run of 34.

Robert Lindblom, of Seattle, won his first match in seven starts by defeating Onofrio Lauri, of Brooklyn, 125 to 82, in 25 innings.

Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., defeated George Kelly, of Philadelphia, 125 to 35.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Rally — Local Market Steady

STOCKS RALLY AFTER EARLY DECLINE

New Lows Made Before Tide Turns and Reduces Losses; Trading Quickens

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—The stock market was again cheered by a more amicable regard for the railroad equities today.

The list slumped heavily in the morning, registering many more record lows for the post war period, but perked up quickly when strong buying came into the railroad issues after midday in connection with further bullish rumors over the railway wage discussion in Chicago.

Several issues rallied to show net gains of a point or more and morning losses of 1 to 3 points were substantially reduced. Issues getting up a point or more included Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Southern Pacific, American Can, Case and Western Union. United States Steel recovered part of a 2-point loss, which had taken it to a new low at 46⅝. American Telephone regained a 1-point loss. Air reduction recovered part of a 3-point loss. Trading quickened on the advance. International Telephone held steady in face of the quarterly dividend.

Brokers attributed the demand for the rail shares to short covering and real buying reflecting a growing confidence that effective relief for America's $50,000,000,000 railroad system is bound to come in some form or other, and that labor is presumed as anxious to keep the railways solvent as anyone.

The week-end mercantile reviews reported brisker holiday buying of merchandise bringing numerous re-orders to wholesalers. Heavier lines however remain quiet in keeping with the expected trend of December. The day's reports from automotive centers indicated further stirrings in preparation for next year's models, although progress remains slow.

Wall street did not seem concerned over rumors that Japan might abandon the gold standard. In connection with the fall of the cabinet Bankers who have connections in Japan expressed confidence in the ability of that country to pull out of economic difficulties, but pointed out that the Chinese boycott on Japanese goods had had a disturbing effect. The Japanese yen dropped to a new low for the year.

GRAINS GIVEN SETBACKS

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Setbacks in grain prices early today accompanied downturns in securities, declines in Liverpool wheat quotations counted also as a bearish factor. Opening unchanged to ⅛ lower, wheat afterward sagged all around. corn started unchanged to ⅛ off and subsequently showed a general decline.

Rallies from early downturns in wheat values were frequent. They were due to little rushes of commission house buying and as a rule failed to last well. Meanwhile, Argentina and Australia were reported to be shipping wheat more freely, with Argentine stocks increasing. There were also advices that the main wheat producing regions of Australia had not been affected by recent heavy rains.

Wheat Shipments From Canada Off

OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Total wheat shipments from Canada during November were 27,452,063 bushels as compared with 31,217,924 bushels during the same month last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported. Of this total, 16,077,085 bushels went to the United Kingdom, 1,597,924 to the United States and 9,777,054 to other countries.

Spanish Bill Hits At I. T. T. Contract

CORTES, Dec. 11.—The Spanish Council of Ministers has introduced a bill here declaring illegal the telephone concession which former King Alfonso and Primo de Riviera granted the National Telephone Company of Spain, associated company of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation directors announced the gross earnings of the organization for the nine months ending September 30, totaled $89,287,750 as compared with $76,495,247.61 for the same period last year. Earnings per share for the nine months, it was stated, were $1.03, comparable with $1.50 for the same period in 1930. Operating expenses were given as $50,430,345 as against $37,885,441 for the previous nine months. Net earnings totaled $12,980,858 as against $18,808,304 for the 1930 period.

Postal Telegraph and Cable Company net loss for September quarter was $368,084, against net loss of $95,708 in the third quarter of 1930. Nine months net loss totals $1,247,875, comparing with net income of $219,960 in the first nine months of 1930.

Pittsburgh Erie Sun Corporation for 10 months ended Oct. 31 reports net income after operating expenses of $200,222. This compares with net income of $295,217 in the like 1930 period.

N. Y. Banks Using Pruning Knife On Assets

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Leading New York banks and, it is understood in Wall street, the larger banking institutions throughout the country, are laying a solid foundation now for an upbuilding of their assets throughout 1932 and succeeding years.

The bankers will use the pruning knife with thoroughness to prune down paper value of all assets their banks possess. The losses will be paper rather than real. They will represent a marking down of values to current subnormal market prices. Real estate holdings of the banks will also be written down to present market valuations.

International Telephone Dividend Cut Expected In Wall Street

The action of directors of International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation in lowering the annual dividend rate to 60 cents from $1 was not surprising to Wall street interests. Those who have been often well informed on the company's affairs predicted the declaration of the 15-cent quarterly payment, knowing the opposition of International's directors to omission. It is pointed out that earnings this year are likely to be in the neighborhood of $1.30 a share, so that the company will fail to cover dividends by only 10 cents on the present 15-cent rate.

Since beginning of the week there has been considerable tax selling in various stocks. Leading observers readily admit that the volume of offerings for this purpose has been much larger than anticipated a few weeks ago. Quite a number of stocks have felt the effects of this supply, which forced them to lower levels when the general list halted during technical rallies. It is still the opinion in some quarters that the amount of tax selling to be encountered next month will be quite extensive. The point is made that many of those who already established losses for income tax purposes for 1931 returns, are not likely to sell additional stocks until after the turn of the year.

There has been considerable switching around in Auburn. The stock started its last advance under impetus of buying by important operators who were active in the stock on numerous occasions in the past. The demand was based on knowledge of a good sized outside short interest. During the advance, new groups came into the issue and aided the upturn. While these new interests were buying it was stated the original traders were taking profits, which started the drop from the high of early this week.

Bethlehem Steel has shown more resistance than United States Steel in recent weeks. The stock has not yet broken its low of early October when talk of the common dividend omission had so much influence on the market. While Bethlehem is feeling the unfavorable conditions in the steel industry, there have been times in recent weeks when the company was able to operate its plants at a higher rate than many of its large competitors.

A group is said to have been operating in Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit in the early days of the current week. In connection with this operation, there were reports that representatives of the company had about reached an agreement on the main features of the new transit unification plan. However, it also was rumored that no agreement could be reached regarding the price proposed. There has been only a small outside following in the stock recently, and some of the selling during rallies came from those who had followed the previous bulge.

Statements from usually responsible quarters is that Electric Storage Battery Company at present is earning in excess of the current annual $4 dividend requirements. If the latest views are correct they indicate there has been considerable improvement in the company's business. One factor which may be responsible is the orders from automobile concerns in connection with new models being brought out. Replacements of batteries in old cars also has been larger in recent months, because of the need of a live battery during the colder weather.

GAIN IN SALES REPORTED BY LORILLARD

Expense of Bringing Out New Cigaret and Price Cutting Hit Firm Hard

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—P. Lorillard Company has completed the rehabilitation begun in 1926 by its declaration of a dividend which puts the common on a $1.20 annual basis. In 1926 the company introduced Old Gold. The common stock had been on a $5 annual dividend basis but the expense of introducing the new cigaret resulted in substitution of a 2½ per cent quarterly stock dividend for the 75-cent cash dividend in the final quarter of 1926 and payment of common dividends in the third quarter of 1927.

The dividend to be paid January 2 next will be the first since April 1, 1927, and the first cash dividend since July 1, 1926. Heavy advertising expenses during the period of building up the Old Gold brand and the necessity of reducing the price from $6.40 a thousand to $6.10 in April, 1928, to meet competition of the other popular brands which were then reduced to $6, resulted in continually declining earnings from $5,641,431 in 1925 to $1,336,656 in 1929.

EARNINGS GROW

In the closing months of 1929, however, Old Gold sales reached the point where, in conjunction with the price increase to $6.40 a thousand in October, 1929, the cigaret was paying its own way. Continued growth in sales through 1930 resulted in earnings of $3,614,363, or $1.48 a common share—some 25 per cent more than dividend requirements at the present rate.

Results for 1931 are affected by the increase in cigaret prices in June, this year, to $6.85 a thousand, and by the fact that, despite a decline in cigaret consumption in the United States this year, Lorillard has held its position in the industry.

RATE CONSERVATIVE

Its brands other than Old Gold are of lesser importance, but while there has been a continued slight decline in some of the lesser cigaret and other brands smoking tobacco sales have shown a large increase. Earnings of between $5,000,000 and $5,500,000, or roughly between $2.25 and $2.50 a common share are likely for the current year.

The company on January 2, next, will have on hand cash enough for more than 2½ years' interest and dividend requirements; and with the current rate and recent trend of earnings the $1.20 dividend appears to be a conservative rate.

Tire Shipments Off in October

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—Shipments of pneumatic casings in October amounted to 2,851,653 casings, a decrease of 27½ per cent from September, and 18½ per cent from October, 1930, according to Rubber Manufacturers' Association. Production in October totaled 2,973,755 units, an indicated decrease of 6.2 per cent from the preceding month, and 17 per cent below October, 1930. Pneumatic casings on hand October 31, amounted to 8,300,065 units, an increase of 1.7 per cent over September but 15.3 per cent below October 31, 1930.

Hope for Coal Recovery Seen in Report

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

HOPE THAT COAL is pulling itself out of its difficulties is seen in a study of the industry made by the National Industrial Conference Board. The report does not find any immediate improvement in coal and places little confidence in measures to artificially stimulate the industry but it finds that the old law of the survival of the fittest is slowly cleaning the weak sisters out of the business and may in the future restore coal to its former strength.

In assembling the facts for its analysis of the industry the Conference Board found that coal in the United States has suffered to a greater degree from competition of other fuels and from progress in the efficient use of fuel than in any other country. In 1913 coal supplied 88 per cent of world energy production but since then the relative importance of coal among energy producers has declined, until in 1930 its share of the total energy output was only 72 per cent.

In spite of the fact that the condition of coal was discouraging even in the days when general business was booming, the report finds that there are signs of reconstruction from within the bituminous industry and points to its discovery that since 1920 1,665 companies have been eliminated from the field. During the same period the prices of coal have fallen and the number of miners has increased. More recently the length of the working year has been increased and the output per man has risen.

Survivors to Benefit

WHILE THE CLOSING of so many firms is an indication of the difficulties facing the industry, the report declares that when this costly process of deflation is completed, the survivors will face the problem of building a more permanent structure for the future.

In discussing the prospects for the industry the survey says:

"The evolution of the coal industry in the direction of fewer and larger coal-producing companies, using all the resources that modern production technology, merchandising methods, and industrial management have made available, may provide a solution of the problem of excess productive capacity. If the more efficient producers, by offering more attractive prices and services to their customers than are offered by their less progressive competitors, can be assured of continuous market outlets, they will be in a position to offer more regular employment to miners and, at the same time, will be better able to prevent wide fluctuations in coal prices. Unfortunately, under conditions of temporary coal shortages or high prices, the opportunist type of operator is able to enter the markets to an extent that may bring about subsequent demoralization when market demand subsides. The coming years alone can determine how far this movement toward consolidation, accompanied by modernization in methods of production, will go, how successfully it can withstand the assaults of uneconomic competition, and to what extent it will result in a condition that will restore profit to producers and provide more satisfactory working conditions for miners."

Extinction of Weak Necessary

"IT IS FUTILE to try to gloss over the fact that the eventual growth of the larger companies must mean the extinction of other companies. A high mortality has already occurred since 1920, and liquidation is not yet complete. Competition under existing conditions of overdevelopment must of necessity have that effect. The results of merging and consolidation will be worth the price that must be paid, if the final outcome is the elimination of inefficient producers and distributors, of destructive and unsound competitive units, and of uncontrolled and unbalanced production."

In reference to the frequently suggested plan for governmental control of the industry through the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission to regulate freight rates and car distribution, the Conference Board says that such a plan can at the most act only as a palliative to the ills of the industry. Constitutional limitations on the powers of the federal government preclude such measures and make it necessary to look in a different direction for a solution of the existing maladjustments in the coal industry. The alternative is a reconstruction of the coal industry from within.

Pattern 2078

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

The chic of two colors in one frock is just twice as great as one color. Here a smartly draped yoke and the sleeves of a most becomingly seamed bodice use fabric that contrasts with the lower part of the bodice and the skirt. Velvet with wool satin with wool dull and lustrous satin or two colors in Boshanara crepe will be lovely.

Pattern 2078 may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 39-inch fabric, 1 yard contrasting. Yardage for every size, and simple exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

NEW ECONOMIC PLANS HELD PATCHWORK

Executives Fail to Stress Need for Co-ordination, Public Works Program

By MERYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—Marked responses to economic utterances by leading executives at Washington were far from enthusiastic.

In spite of mildly optimistic forecasts by President Hoover and Secretary Mellon, buyers and sellers of securities showed no eagerness to discount better times.

Mr. Rukeyser

In general, the administration's economic relief program is of a patchwork character, with the seeming objective of restoring the status quo as it existed before the depression. There was no emphasis on the need for better industrial planning and economical coordination, a subject which Senator La Follette has aired before the Senate Manufactures Committee. On the emergency side, there was no clear-cut indorsement of the suggestion by scientific economists of a public works program of sufficient magnitude to prove a decisive factor toward reversing the processes of deflation.

QUESTION STATEMENTS

Time was when the stock ticker vibrated with enthusiasm to utterances from high government officials on Pennsylvania avenue. Some economists have openly questioned the propriety of statements calculated to bolster up speculative positions.

The speculative response to the latest Washington utterances raises the question whether the investment and trading public is ceitless for a new leadership.

In spite of the damper to enthusiasm inherent in the executive recommendations for higher taxes, Secretary Mellon did point out:

"In making forecasts of revenue it has been assumed that in the calendar year 1932 there will be definite improvement in the general condition of industry and trade."

SINKING FUND

Numerous modern economists will agree with President Hoover's statement that it would not be wise to wipe out the entire deficit by taxation under existing business conditions. However, the President did not go as far in this direction as numerous outside observers. He abstained from recommending a suspension of statutory sinking fund payments for the retirement of federal debt during the duration of the current depression. Continuance of the sinking fund payments involves an absurdity under existing conditions, for it entails the waste of borrowing to get funds to reduce the outstanding debt. Furthermore, the very process tends to deepen the depression. Early in the year, so level-headed a financier as Paul M. Warburg suggested suspension of sinking fund payments during economic crises. The recommendation is especially sound for the United States treasury, inasmuch as before the depression the treasury retired debt at twice the rate originally contemplated by Congress. Accordingly, it has in reality created an invisible economic surplus on which it can lean to relieve tension at present.

R-K-O Meeting Set For this Afternoon

BALTIMORE, Dec. 11.—(INS.)—The meeting of the stockholders of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, the country's largest combined theatrical and motion picture company, adjourned at 11 a. m. until 5 p. m. today. Attendants were still counting the proxies being received in the stockholders' vote on a new plan of management.

The plan calls for the issuance of $11,600,000 of debentures, underwritten by the Radio Corporation of America to meet maturing obligations. Present stockholders would be entitled to subscribe to the debentures.

Opponents of the plan have been free in their criticism of the proposal and have attempted to block its acceptance.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—Although the bond market today was spotted with some more new low records, several of the recently badly hammered rails developed resisting tendencies and United States Government issues were bought at slightly advancing prices.

Foreign bonds were irregular.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York stock Exchange today were as follows (as omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

A Story of Modern Homes And Unbridled Youth

Laurel, Severely Burned, Is Saved by Quick Action Of Dr. Harvey

CHAPTER XIX.

Her dress ablaze, and screaming in pain and terror as the flames licked her, Laurel crashed blindly into a table near the exit.

"God! she's afire!" "Oh! stop her!" "Catch her!" The cries of the shocked spectators echoed about the place.

But Bruce Harvey was first across the room after her. As she tripped and fell headlong on the floor he literally hurled himself on top of her.

The weight of his body and the force of his two hands crushed the conflagration. Freddie DeFarge tore from the overturned table the soaked white cloth.

"Not that, you fool!" shouted Bruce as Freddie flung it to him. "It's saturated with alcohol! Quick—a cloak—a coat!"

But still beating with his own two hands the flames were already out.

Laurel lay on the floor with closed eyes as the doctor knelt over her. The frail gauze had been almost entirely burned away from her body, leaving it exposed with sooty patches. Quickly he covered that naked loveliness away from the public gaze with someone's evening wrap.

"Laurel! Laurel!" Constance was screaming hysterically. "Doctor—my child—is she DEAD!"

"No. I'll see to her—"

"Doctor, my cars outside. If you want to rush her to the hospital—" volunteered Freddie DeFarge very white.

"I'll have a look at her first. Stand back, all of you—" Carefully wrapping the cloak about her, Bruce lifted Laurel in his arms and went towards the door.

DIAZ COWERS

She stirred and moaned.

And at the heart-rending sound of that her mother—Constance—broke anew into hysterical screams.

"My child—disfigured—dying—"

The doctor said gruffly to Freddie DeFarge: "You take Mrs. Oakes out in the air—keep her away—I can't have TWO patients at the same time on my hands."

"Diaz! Where's Diaz?" called Constance, frantic, her voice rising higher and higher. "I want Diaz—I'll tell him what I think of him—he DARED to do all this—"

But Diaz, afraid to look on pain or tragedy, was cowering out on the porch.

The girl's screams—now ominously silenced—still were ringing in his ears. And now—accusing him—that damned old fool, her mother!

He'd like to ram his fist down the hysterical woman's throat. Or slit it with a knife, which would be easier and more thorough . . .

She denounced him so! . . . She who wanted him for her lover!

She was coming out here—confound her!—sobbing like a maniac. In this moment of horror and self-reproach God knows if she wouldn't give away their secrets . . .

* * *

On the bed upstairs in the Country Club lay Laurel. She was still unconscious.

The doctor and one of the older women had cut away the last charred fragments of her dress. The doctor was applying—very gently, carefully—a thick, yellowish unguentine to the brown patches on her body.

BURNS DRESSED

"Lucky you had that precious little bag with you, doctor!"

"I always have it about." He moved Laurel's head a little to the right, rubbing the cream into the left side of her neck with sure, skilful fingers.

"Oh, her hair's burned off short on that side—see?" said his assistant.

He made no remark on that. He lifted Laurel's wrist, his finger tips on her pulse. Then his face relaxed a little.

"She'll come round all right, you think, doctor?"

"Sure. The shock—and there's a bump on her head when she fell—the two things together . . ."

"Poor child! She's so pretty—and so heedless!" The woman held one end of a roll of bandage while he wound it around Laurel's upper leg and thigh. "You don't think she'll be disfigured?"

"No. The only trouble would be—and we've avoided that!—infection."

Suddenly the woman gave a little stifled cry. For the first time she noticed a big brown mark on the doctor's wrist where the shirt sleeve had been rolled up . . . and as he raised his hands she saw that the palms shone with the same yellow unguentine over reddish-brown patches.

"Great heavens, doctor! You yourself have been hurt?"

"Only a little burn or two. Now that we've fixed this child, we can attend to me. We'll take that narrower bandage."

"And you never said one word about it—carrying her up and all!"

"Oh, that's nothing. Firemen go through that sort of thing half a dozen times a day, and never a word about it."

But he winced a trifle as she pulled the gauze too tight, and made her loosen it.

"Now what you need is a good stiff drink."

"I'm okay, thanks," he said tersely. He turned to the recumbent form of Laurel. "I'd be obliged to you if you'd go down to the bar and get a little pre-war brandy from the manager for this girl."

When she had gone, he sat down on a chair by the side of the bed and again lifted the wrist of Laurel.

Pulse even . . . a little weak . . . she'd be okay soon. Well, he had done his best for her.

But HAD he? If he hadn't offended her by his blunt words out in the little wood tonight would she have rushed from him so, and performed this reckless, hectic dance with the club's instructor?

Hadn't he, through his tactlessness, his lack of understanding, driven her into this exhibition that had ended in disaster?

He bent over her little face so sweetly delicately etched . . . now, in its unconsciousness doubly appealing.

He had tried to throw a beam of truth upon her path . . . but now remorse was his only feeling.

But WAS it? He felt a great wave of tenderness sweep over him, so that suddenly he put his face to hers . . . he must not kiss her . . . NO . . . ah! but she was irresistible . . .

At that moment Laurel opened her eyes and saw his face so near to hers. She said weakly, vaguely: "Is . . . is that you . . . darling?"

* * *

Bruce Harvey moved his head back from hers. Had she recognized him?

"Lie still. I'm going to give you something in a minute that'll do you good."

His tone was professionally cheerful. A little tinge of color crept to her cheeks.

"Where on earth AM I? Wha's it all about? My neck aches . . . ouch!"

"Now be a good girl and don't move."

"Something happened . . . my dress . . . took fire?"

But you're okay now"—soothingly.

"Dr. Harvey"—so she recognized him, then?—"am I badly hurt?"

"Not a bit of it. Just gave us a nice fright!"

Her eyes strayed suddenly down at herself . . . he made a quick move to draw up the sheet.

But not before she'd seen that she was lying there practically naked . . .

"How COULD you? Oh!" She made a swift grab at the covering, turning her shamed face away from him as though she would hide it in the pillow. But a pang shot through her neck, like a flame of fire. She gave a moan.

"Didn't I tell you to be a good girl and lie quiet?" he contrived to say, in a matter-of-fact tone.

Laurel burst into tears of weakness and shame. She sobbed: "Bruce—oh, Bruce—!"

The woman who had helped to bandage Laurel returned with the pre-war brandy. Dr. Harvey poured some in a glass and bade her take a sip.

"This'll pull you together. Now—no more waterworks!" he adjured her encouragingly, as he held it to her lips.

"I don't want the beastly stuff. Take it away. Everyone go away—" But it was at the woman she looked through wet eyes—"As ungrateful as possible, considering all I'd done," declared the Good Samaritan later.

A crony had answered: "But of course she wanted to be alone with the handsome young man!"

And another backbiter had spat out: "Why, Laurel Oakes drinks like a fish! The idea of her refusing that cognac!"

Freddy DeFarge, who had been present at the discussion, volunteered: "My belief is that she's plain nerts over the doctor."

"And so she posed as a little primrose," sneered No. 2, "because we all know he's the original Puritan!"

"You mean," corrected Freddie, with unusual perspicuity, "that none of YOU have been able to land him."

Freddie enjoyed battling with "the cats," though he did lap cream at their table.

"What the younger generation is coming to Lord alone knows!" commented Mrs. Delahunt.

"And what YOU'D like to come to, is to have your time all over again!" rapped out Freddie, who had overheard the remark through the clubhouse window.

"Old Ma Delahunt will always hate me after that!" he told his friends afterwards.

Alone with Dr. Harvey, Laurel had drunk her brandy obediently.

"Please stay with me a little." She lay back with closed eyes and groped for his hand. "I feel like a kid, you know. I suppose it's the shock? I was . . . horribly frightened."

As her hand found his, he winced with pain.

She thought she heard a little exclamation from him, smothered at birth . . .

"What did you say? Are you angry with me?"

"Not in the least."

He let her hold his hand. It was throbbing with pain, but doubtless this poor kid's was worse . . .

And she was brave! He felt a curious pride in her, just as though she were part and parcel of himself . . .

She spoke. She said, abruptly: "Did mother kick up a shemozzle?"

He smiled at the wording of her question.

"She was upset, of course. Shall I get her for you?"

"No. Keep everybody out. It's peaceful—so." He thought so, too.

"Bruce—I'm sorry—I was rude to you this evening."

"Not a bit of it." He was touched by her humility.

"You were dead right, I s'pose . . . and I'm all wrong. You're sure you're not angry with me?"

"No."

"Then we are friends?"

"Of course we are!"

"Now—always—and forever?"

"Yes." He smiled at her naiveness. What would she say next? She was original.

"Bruce"—suddenly her eyes opened—"for God's sake, give me a mirror!"

"Why?"

"Don't bother me with questions. This is one of the club bedrooms, isn't it? There ought to be a shaving-glass over on the dressing table."

He did as she desired.

"Now turn another light on. Quick." He pressed a button at the bed-head. She stared at her face in the mirror.

"Oh, thank God that's okay! It doesn't matter my hair being burned a bit. You say my neck won't have a permanent scar?"

"I'm pretty certain it won't, Laurel."

"Bruce"—she sighed, relieved—"you're an angel and I'm a little devil."

"Why do you talk like that? It isn't true—"

"I wish we could change places," she challenged. "I mean juggle things around. I wish I looked less of an angel and were more LIKE one! And I wish that YOU were not quite so temptingly good-looking . . . and had a little MORE of the devil in you!"

Harvey asked the woman to get some brandy for the injured girl.

Synopsis

Laurel Oakes, "modern" to the minute, is invited by her friend, Imogen Gay, who is even more sophisticated, to attend a party in an old deserted farmhouse. When the party gets too wild for Laurel she leaves and meets Bruce Harvey, a young physician, who takes her home. Laurel tells her mother that pleasure means more to her than love or romance. Laurel, attracted to him, fails to make a favorable impression on Dr. Harvey. Harvey tells Laurel that she ought to stop seeking pleasure and get married. Laurel goes to a party at Timmy Tewson's. Imogen wins a bet by plunging in Tewson's pool and then he asks her to leave the place. Laurel's mother arranges to meet Diaz, a Spanish dancer 20 years her junior. He tells her that he loves her. Laurel follows her mother to the country club, because she knows Harvey is there. Laurel and Harvey walk out in the grounds. He repulses her advances. While doing an exhibition dance with Diaz, Laurel's costume catches fire from a candle on a table.

Now Go On

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

We have good news today for boys and girls in Washington, Pa. Ever since the Warner Theaters-Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club was organized the boys and girls who attend the State Theater, Washington, have been clamoring to be admitted. At last we have gotten around to it, and tomorrow morning the chapter will be formally organized. Over 300 children of Washington have asked to join.

The meeting will be opened by Manager M. M. Wear at 12:30. A representative of the Sun-Telegraph will outline the purposes and advantages of the club, and distribute membership cards and buttons to the new members.

The State Theater, Washington, brings the number of chapters in this popular club up to 16. The chapters already organized are Arsenal, Belmar, Cameraphone, Enright, Harris (Etna), Harris (Diamond street), Kenyon, Manor, Mt. Oliver, Plaza, Rowland (Wilkinsburg), Schenley, South Hills (Dormont), Prince (Ambridge) and Memorial (McKeesport).

ELECTRIC TRAINS TOMORROW

At 1:30 p. m. tomorrow, at all the Warner neighborhood theaters, two big electric trains will be given away. If the regular Junior Komic Club meeting is earlier than 1:30, members will be permitted to remain until the fun is over.

The Warner Theaters and Sun-Telegraph's Christmas gift to the Junior Komic Clubs will be a special free show, to be given at all the neighborhood theaters on Thursday morning, December 24, at 10 o'clock. The feature picture and comedies have been selected especially for club members and it looks like a jolly day. Don't forget—10 a. m. December 24—at your neighborhood theater.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

The Warner Theaters-Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club sends greetings to the following members who will celebrate their birthdays tomorrow:

Enright—John Maloney, Mildred Duncan.

YES SIR, THE MORE I THINK OF THIS NEW HULLABALOO YOU'RE IN.....WHERE YOU'RE SUPPOSED TO GET $1000 A MONTH. IMAGINE!...TO RUN A GOLD MINE! AND ALL YOU KNOW ABOUT MINES IS THAT GENERALLY THEY DON'T HAVE WINDOWS.
I'M AN EXECUTIVE. I'LL DO MOST OF MY DIGGING WHILE LOOKING OVER FINANCIAL REPORTS AND SO FORTH.
$1000 A MONTH! IMAGINE! EVEN I NEVER REALIZE HOW SILLY THESE AFFAIRS YOU GET INTO SOUND UNTIL I TRY TO EXPLAIN THEM TO SOMEONE, OTHER WOMEN.
OH, I'LL ADMIT $1000 IS A LOT OF SALARY—TO START, BUT I'LL PROBABLY EARN IT WHEN I HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT GOLD IN TWO AND THREE HUNDRED TON LOTS.
$1000 A MONTH! THINK OF IT!
WELL THAT FIGURE MAY NOT BE SO MYSTERIOUS. I SUPPOSE I'LL GET $200 OF THAT AMOUNT FOR THE WORK I DO AND THE OTHER $800 FOR WHAT THE JOB DOES TO MY NERVES.
$1000! WELL IT'S JUST SILLY TO TRY AND MAKE HEAD OR TAIL OF THESE AFFAIRS YOU GET INTO EVERY TIME THE WIND CHANGES.
THOSE PEOPLE KNOW WHAT THEY'RE DOING. THE REASON IT LOOKS—TO SOME PARTIES—AS THOUGH I GET A LOT OF GOOD BREAKS IS BECAUSE—WELL, WHEN OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS ON MY DOOR I DON'T TREAT HIM AS THOUGH HE WAS JUST SOMEBODY WHO CAME HERE TO BORROW $5 WHILE SERVING A SUBPOENA.

We will whisper it over our national network to 50,000,000 people who are hungry for more details about things that do not concern them.

By G. Orseaford Buerp.

I WAS married—so happily married—when fate, bitter fate, marked the cards against me, and tossed me on life's stormy ocean—without a rudder.

Then, one day, I chanced to glance over the shoulder of a fellow street car passenger, and my eye fell upon an ad which said—

LADY with Boston bull wants companion to tour Europe. Call WEntworth 67324.

My wife, she was from Boston. I was curious. WEntworth 67324 was OUR telephone number.

I leaped from the car and dashed into a cigar store, and rushed into the phone booth. Disguising my voice I called WEntworth 67324. My wife answered.

"I seen your ad in the paper," I said, crooning romantically, "May I call you up sometime."

"Yes," my wife answered, "as soon as my companion has taken the hint and departed for Europe's distant shores."

Stunned, I reeled out of the telephone booth, and across the street to a department store, where I bought my wife a new hat. Then I went home and broke every mirror in the house.

Points of the President's Message

Number TWO

"Both our Army and Navy have been maintained in a high state of efficiency. The ability and devotion of both officers and men sustain the highest traditions of the service.

"Reductions and postponements in expenditures of these departments to meet the present emergency are being made without reducing existing personnel or impairing the morale of either establishment."

—From the President's message to Congress.

But it WILL impair the morale of both our Army and Navy to discover that their constitutional commander-in-chief is so poorly informed about actual conditions in the naval and military establishments as the above quotation from his message to Congress shows him to be.

What Mr. Hoover says regarding naval efficiency and naval reduction is flatly contradicted in the annual report of HIS OWN CHIEF OF THE BUREAU OF NAVIGATION, REAR ADMIRAL UPHAM.

Regarding reductions ordered by Mr. Hoover in the number of ships in active commission and the number of men assigned to them, Admiral Upham says:

"This REDUCTION in the strength of our enlisted personnel and in the number of ships retained in commission was made after the ratification of the London treaty and with the Navy still greatly UNDER the strength permitted us by that treaty, and INFERIOR to ratios prescribed by Washington and London treaties.

"THIS IS A SERIOUS IMPAIRMENT OF THE STRENGTH OF THE NAVY AS AN ARM OF THE NATIONAL DEFENSE."

Mr. Hoover is further contradicted by Mr. Adams, who declares in his annual report as Secretary of the Navy, that "A DRASTIC CUT" has been made IN SHIPS in commission and IN ENLISTED PERSONNEL.

Personnel has been reduced by nearly FIVE THOUSAND MEN, according to Mr. Adams.

And the number of ships withdrawn from the active fleet during the last fiscal year, according to Admiral Rock, chief constructor of the Navy, already amounts to FIFTY-TWO.

In view of these official reports regarding the Navy it is hard to understand how Mr. Hoover could be so badly informed about the Navy as to assure Congress that he has maintained it "in a high state of efficiency" and reduced expenditures "without reducing existing personnel."

Nor are Mr. Hoover's claims concerning his contribution to the efficiency of the Army any better founded. AS WE SHALL SEE WHEN THE FACTS ABOUT THE ARMY ARE LAID BEFORE THE PUBLIC.

More Shame

Shortages Uncovered in City Treasurer's Office Discredit Further the Kline Administration.

As if Mayor Charles H. Kline's administration of the municipal government had not already been sufficiently discredited, shortages of undetermined amounts were uncovered yesterday in the City Treasurer's office.

Three employes are accused. Two have been indicted. The other committed suicide.

An executive cannot be held responsible for the defalcations of trusted employes. But he can be held responsible for the general manner in which the office is conducted. And the City Treasurer's office, it develops, was conducted in a loose and a careless manner.

Controller J. P. Kerr says the books were kept so poorly that it has been difficult to trace the transactions.

Kline may say that he has been betrayed by those in whom he placed confidence.

But it may also be said that if he had exercised better supervision over the departments for which he is responsible, and had held his department heads to stricter account, he might have avoided some at least of the humiliation he is now suffering.

Perhaps the job was too big for him.

More likely his shameful slogan, "To the victor belong the spoils," was seized upon as an excuse for dishonesty.

"Spoils" connotes plunder.

An Eminent Sculptor

Honors Conferred on Frank Vittor by Italian Government Add to Pittsburgh's Prestige

A magazine writer said about a year ago, in an article disparaging Pittsburgh, that the city did not appreciate its artists, and mentioned Frank Vittor, the sculptor, as one who had found the atmosphere of Pittsburgh uncongenial.

Mr. Vittor refuted the statement in his address in connection with the presentation to him of the cross of merit, gold medal and diploma awarded by the Italian government for his bust of Theodore Roosevelt exhibited at the Bologna Exposition.

Mr. Vittor modestly shared his high honors with his home city. Italy, he said, had recognized Pittsburgh as a center of fine arts. Certainly the city's prestige has been enhanced.

A prophet is not without honor save in his own country. Happily the latter part of the proverb does not apply to Mr. Vittor, as the presence of public officials and business and professional leaders at the presentation exercises attested.

Purchase of Christmas Seals Will Help to Conquer Tuberculosis.

Pittsburgh during the last two decades has made remarkable gains in the struggle against tuberculosis.

Now we are threatened with the loss of some of the ground won in the long battle against this common enemy of mankind.

Milk dealers report a falling off in the use of milk, due to hard times.

That means malnutrition, especially in children. Malnutrition means lowered resistance against tuberculosis.

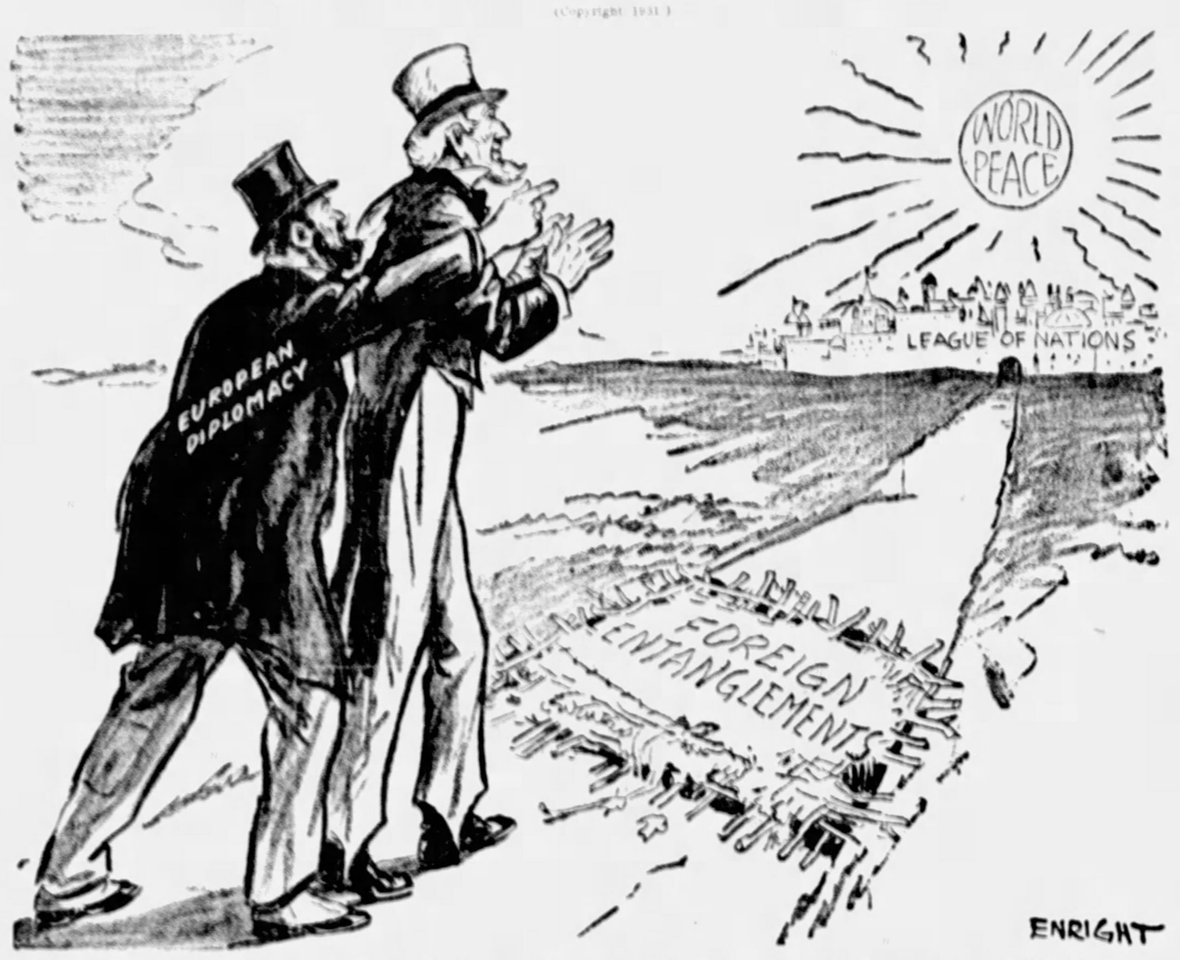
Dr. C. B. Maits, director of public health, warns that a higher tuberculosis rate is already in evidence.

A new call to arms is sounded! Volunteers are asked for to fight the plague. You can enlist, and you should.

You can strike a blow against tuberculosis by buying the Christmas Seals with which the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh finances its work.

Look Out for the Pitfall, Sam!

(Copyright, 1931.)



Pitfalls beset the path of Uncle Sam as the internationally-minded Administration at Washington determines to attempt to force America's entrance into the World Court, TRAP DOOR of the League of Nations.

European diplomats want Sam IN, and if the matter were left solely to the Hoover Administration Sam would be IN up to his neck in foreign entanglements, mired deeply in the politics and intrigue of the Old World.

The American electorate has said emphatically several times that AMERICA MUST STAY OUT.

The scheme is to lure Sam into the League Court, because once in the League Court he will be IN the league and at the mercy of European diplomats. WATCH YOUR STEP, SAM!

Prosperity Loan Would Check Harmful Deflation

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

CONGRESS will be called upon to appraise the proposal of economists that public works be greatly accelerated as a business stabilizer in time of depression.

The theory of using public works as a balance wheel of prosperity and depression was set forth with approval by the committee of experts appointed by the President's committee on unemployment in 1921, of which President Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce, was chairman.

A PROSPERITY LOAN OF $5,000,000,000 WOULD NOT ONLY RELIEVE UNEMPLOYMENT BY SUMMONING IDLE MEN TO JOBS, BUT WOULD ALSO INJECT A MAJOR INFLUENCE INTO THE BANKING SITUATION TOWARD CHECKING DESTRUCTIVE DEFLATION.

BANK troubles were heightened by the fact that numerous institutions lacked sufficient eligible paper to give them access to the Federal Reserve which has super-abundant resources.

Changing business methods and a subnormal volume of trade have cut down the supply of commercial paper eligible for rediscount at the Federal Reserve.

Recognizing that the banks were handicapped by holding numerous ineligible assets, President Hoover has made wide proposals for new banking machinery, such as the National Credit Corporation and the mortgage discount banks, to supplement the Federal Reserve System.

Moreover, the President has indicated his belief that the eligibility rules of the Federal Reserve for rediscounting should be liberalized.

That raises a controversial issue, which probably cannot be settled during the existing emergency.

Under the present eligibility rules, however, United States government bonds are eligible collateral for advances to member banks by the Federal Reserve.

Accordingly, if the $5,000,000,000 loan were floated by Liberty Loan methods, with the aid of bank credit, the supply among member banks of eligible items would be enormously increased. WITHOUT ANY NEED OF AMENDING THE ELIGIBILITY RULES OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE ACT.

THIS would give member banks access to the resources of the Federal Reserve, which could be mobilized more effectively for arresting deflation and restarting the processes of prosperity.

Such a technique for augmenting the supply of bank credit—and of purchasing power—would be more efficacious than mere attempts to manipulate the banking system.

Such a development would tend to arrest the disheartening shrinkage of deposit currency, which has dampened business enthusiasm.

At the same time, the credit expansion would be utilized by the government itself in a program of economic public works, which would redeem men and machinery from unproductive idleness, which constitutes an immense social loss.

Numerous other relief proposals deal with the effects of the depression.

The prosperity loan would be designed to attack causes and to reverse major economic tendencies.

CONGRESS SHOULD NOT FRITTER AWAY FEDERAL CREDIT IN SEEKING TO SALVAGE DEAD HORSES, BUT SHOULD GIVE FIRST CONSIDERATION TO A FORWARD LOOKING PLAN INTENDED TO REMOVE THE CONTINUING CAUSES OF DEPRESSION.

If the federal government attempted to break the vicious circle of depression by a program of spending, private business men and consumers would be inclined to hasten the process of recuperation by joining the band wagon, whereas, without such an example, the individual is inclined to hold back conservatively.

A Christmas Promise

Verily, verily, the Season approacheth, when every man should be filled with merriment, and charity, and should pour out his bounties joyfully and without stint.

* * *

Yet this do I promise, with my hand on my heart. That, this year, the personal feelings of all those, my friends and relatives who have suffered at my hands, shall be spared!

* * *

Behold, my nieces and my nephews shall not be embarrassed with gifts of silk stockings and pajamas, of dolls and balls, and wrist-watches and "instructive books," and electric trains, which only clutter up the house. Thus shall they be saved from the painful writing of "duty letters."

I promise that I shall not afflict my friends with knick-knacks and junk and tinseled nonsense; with books which they have already read and pictures which they long to hang in the attic; with scarfs of the wrong color, cigarets of the wrong brand, and cigar-lighters which seldom work. For a friend may forgive an insult; but not if he hath to receive it joyously and give thanks for it. That is TOO much!

* * *

Neither shall I offend innocent old ladies with gifts of knitted shawls and foot warmers and tea cozys and sewing bags. For, peradventure, in their secret hearts, they are all rivals of Ninon de L'Enclos, and would prefer a beauty compact, a jeweled cigaret holder, a bottle of perfume, and a few sexy novels.

* * *

Go to. I shall punish no man with fancy smoking sets and monogramed pocket flasks and silver cocktail shakers and gaudy housecoats and giddy hosiery and platinum cuff links.

For no man save a gigolo, welcometh gifts from a woman, not even from his wife. And every single man regardeth a damsel's Christmas offering as a snare.

* * *

Moreover, I promise that none shall receive from me the flippant greeting card or the banal admonition to "be merry and of good cheer;" to remember that this is "the good, old day" for scattering sweetness and light and laughter, to eat, drink and be foolish, though he, peradventure, knoweth not wherewith he shall pay for the turkey!

* * *

For, verily, verily, all that which I have to GIVE, shall go to the needy, to clothe those who walk the streets in thin coats and feed those who stand in line before the soup kitchens. To warm those who are without shelter and uplift those who are without hope!

* * *

For the Star of Bethlehem led the wise men with their gifts not to the palace of the rich, but to a MANGER.

* * *

And who giveth to the poor, doeth TWO good deeds. For he rejoiceth the heart of the needy—and spareth the well-provided from many afflictions!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Thoughts while strolling: No one can shrug like Willie Howard. All my life I've wanted one of those short box pearl buttoned coats like Billy (Single) Clifford wore. Peggy Joyce is still an eyeful. They say Gloria's Michael Farmer hasn't all those reputed millions.

Fred Stone, a Longmont, Col. boy, who made good in the city. None of the imitators give "Shine On, Harvest Moon," the Nora Bayes touch. Impression of Jesse Lasky in one word—silky. Dean Cornwell suggested a pinch-faced English tutor. Overheard: "What I want is a slick-haired Lima gigolo named Carlos."

There's wholesome companionship at times among married performers who have trouped for years. Joseph Santley and Ivy Sawyer, for instance. Also Eva Puck and Sam White and Yorke and King. Few orchestra leaders are so effacing as Lou Forman at the Palace. He began at Minsky's.

E. E. Cummings' poetry makes me think of: "How much wood would a woodchuck chuck if a woodchuck would chuck wood." Every other fellow you meet is getting over a nervous prostration. I still believe a high-class minstrel show could have a Broadway run.

Cry near the Winter Garden: "Geet a horse!" Julius Tannen looks no older than he did 20 years ago when he was my favorite vaudevillian. What became of Vincent Serrano? Fay Wray and Swanson look alike. Fannie Brice resembled one of Bernard Baruch's daughters. And Bing Crosby is a double for Phil Baker.

A crowd at an orange juice stand spiking drinks from a silver flask. Sign in a cafe window: "No glamor but swell eats." Louise Groody is a grand dancer, but she's always trying to sing. And Eddie Cantor should stick to blackface. Leering groups around dance hall entrances.

Lillian Lorraine in circulation again—with a club at the Beaux Arts. Six years ago she was doomed to a wheel chair—like Nellie Revell, who is skipping about, too. They come back on Broadway. But come back to what? I could work up an 18-karat drool over hot biscuits for dinner tonight.

* * *

Biblical prophecy of the thing feared coming upon one had two concrete Broadway victims recently. Sophie Tucker, fresh from British triumphs, found herself on opening night at a picture palace with a whispering voice. Laryngitis. Everett Marshall, after years of disappointing engagements, stirred an audience to its feet and high huzzahs in the "Scandals." A week later he was out of the cast with throat trouble.

The proprietor of one of the speakeasies in the theatrical zone has become an unfailing barometer of the Rialto. He knows instantly if a show is a hit. If after the first act, patrons rush in, pound the bar and cry "A drink quick!"—a run is assured. If they stroll in leisurely and linger, the flop is forecast. Incidentally, after Peter Arno's show, he reports he found an attendee under the table two weeks later. And still moaning.

At a dinner the other evening immortality popped up. Two doctors horned in. One, a heart specialist, said: "I do not believe in any immortality save that of the human race. It only goes on." The other, a famous surgeon, said: "My conviction of life after death grows firmer with surgical experience. As an interne I was an infidel. As a young surgeon I became an agnostic. Today, past 60, I believe with Charles Frohman that life's greatest adventure is that bugaboo humanity has erroneously labeled death."

On West 56th street over a garage is a dance center where future Pavlowas and Nijinskis struggle for recognition. Garbed in cheese-cloth costumes they practice stage leaping dances and otherwise uphold the terpsichorean art. Some live on as little as $10 a month and a number actually show the effects of what comes perilously near being hunger.

No performer, to my notion, is so scornful of applause or so sincere in his efforts to please as the thin templed, bushy-haired James Barton. And no real drunk can seem so realistic as his portrayal of a stage bum. A great artist, my masters, knocking about rather obscurely in variety.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I believe that pity is the most beautiful—and the most dangerous—virtue on earth.

Used wisely, with control, it can lift life up to the stars. Used unwisely, intemperately, it can drag life down to the mud. And it is my private conviction that—taking things by and large—pity has done infinitely more dragging than lifting.

Pity's dangerous, first, because it is such a Nice Word. It listens lovely. The minute you say you pity someone, you step right into the front row with the saints. No one dare assail your motives. As a Pity-er, you have the bulge on all the critics. For, behold, have you not put aside your brute selfishness to extend the divine gift of compassion? Are you not, therefore, noble?

Well, maybe. But the chances are just as strong that you are NOT.

Pity MAY be a shining, selfless thing. But it also may be an alibi for 57 varieties of meddling and conceit.

Why does pity so often end in a vicious impasse? Is this why? We're sorry for the other fellow. Honestly sorry. Yet at the same time—though we don't acknowledge this to ourselves—we are getting a big bang out of being sorry. How wise it makes us feel to contemplate his foolishness . . . how strong it makes us seem to minister to his weakness. And what a thrill it is to take his messed up life and put it all in order! All our lives we've wanted to advise and boss and arrange people. Usually the foolish things have resisted and resented our services. But here's a chap who is in trouble. He can't resist us. He must do as we say—goody, goody!

Yet even while we're pitying him and doing lovely things for him, he seems to be carrying a secret grudge against us. And those we pity are so rarely grateful. I wonder why!

Pity is apt to make a bully of us—that's one aspect of this dangerous virtue. There's another, quite as bad. Pity is apt to make a tramp of the other fellow.

There are those who should be pitied—who justly deserve all our love and service. But there are also those who are harmed by pity—who proceed to make a racket of their hurt and helplessness if they can arouse our compassion. Leave such grafters alone. They don't want to be helped. Suffering is their stock in trade . . . their come-on.

And pity is a bludgeon in the hands of the selfish and unscrupulous.

How many a man has whimpered a woman into marriage through pity . . . how many a woman has bound an unwilling man by the same means!

How many a parent gets by with murder on the same score!

"You must never, never hurt anybody. You haven't a right to a happiness if it hurts anybody."

We are taught that as children. It seems a gallant creed. But how many fine, intelligent, sensitive, valuable lives have been sacrificed to that creed . . . and how many coarse, stupid, selfish, sluggish natures have battened on it.

As a matter of fact, no progress is possible without "hurting someone."

Pity—an instrument for gods. Or fools. Or devils. Use it. But beware of it.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Old Enchantment

Nature now has folded up
Summer's bloom and autumn's sheaves;
Lily's bell and rose's cup
Faded, now, she leaves.

Birds have winged to lands of sun.
Silent, lonely are the woods.
Now the days of song are done;
Stern are winter's moods.

Yet, another blossom glows
Brightly as the garden's cheer;
Like a golden-hearted rose
Flames the hearth-fire here.

Feet that in the summer sought
Mountain crest and ocean's foam,
Are in old enchantment caught—
Hearth-fire's spell of home.

As sun's hoarded gold is spent
In the great logs' ruddy blaze,
Snared in meshes of content,
Dream we through the winter days.

SCIENTIFIC MINDS

By Archibald Henderson

In this age of science, this era in which the spirit of scientific discovery and research is of such paramount importance, it is essential that we have a clear and precise notion of the meaning of the phrase, "the scientific mind."

It is not enough for the scientist to be a mere observer, describing carefully what he sees. That is really only the beginning of scientific work. The scientist must not only describe; he must appraise. He must act as something more than an observer; he must be a judge, as well. Evidence comes before him as it comes before a judge in a court of law. He must pass judgment on the facts.

Consider, in this connection, the stand taken by Huxley, in regard to the former narrow interpretation put upon the Mosaic record of creation. Huxley said, "I find no difficulty in conceiving that, at some former period, this universe was not in existence; and that it made its appearance in six days (or instantaneously if that be preferred), in consequence of the volition of some pre-existent Being . . .

"Far be it from me to say that is untrue because it is impossible. I confine myself to what must be regarded as a modest and reasonable request for some particle of evidence that the existing species of animals and plants did originate in that way, as a condition of my belief in a statement which appears to me to be highly improbable."

Since Einstein, Bohr, Planck and Millikan have accustomed us to things which formerly would have been unhesitatingly declared impossible, we readily accept "impossible" things, nowadays. But we accept them only on the ground of sound, often irrefragable evidence. The first duty is to collect facts, from every available source, bearing upon a given problem and then to arrive logically at reasonable deductions from the facts.

Of course the scientist is a person with a trained mind, who is accustomed to weigh. He must be able to recognize a fact when he sees it. Nature often deceives us, for she may show us only a part of the truth—that part which lies nearest the surface. If we draw our conclusions from the small part of the truth, as if it were the whole truth, we shall be likely to fall into grievous error.

It is no part of Nature's business to help a lame dog over a stile, or tell us the whole truth at once. Darwin once harmoniously remarked, regarding Nature: "She will tell you a direct lie if she can."

As a rule, Nature reveals the truth to us; not immediately in one blinding illumination, but bit by bit, slowly and surely. Comprehension of the whole may finally come to us, however, in a sudden flash.
